PROSPECTUS OF THE GOVERNMENT COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE.

THE Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta, affords a training of a practical and businesslike character, well up to date and capable of direct application to the commerce and trade of the city. It is neither a business college in which the academic element exceeds the vocational in relative importance nor a secondary school of commerce, but a higher school of commerce in which the vocational element predominates but in a liberal manner.

2. There is a specialised Day Course extending over two years, ending in the Commercial Course Final Examination. Provision is also made for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures on Advanced Book-keeping, high speed in Shorthand and Typewriting, Political Economy, Mercantile Law, Annuities and Insurance, Banking and Currency, and Accountancy, ending annually in Special Examinations in each of the subjects. These lectures are intended to give persons already employed in business a chance of improving their efficiency as first-rate Shorthand-writers, Typists, Book-keepers, or Auditors, and of gaining an intelligent insight into the economical, financial and legal principles on which commerce is based.

3. The aim of the Institute is to turn out a type of young man who, if he has received a thorough grounding in the ordinary school subjects, especially in English, has the makings of a useful assistant either in commercial or in Government offices, and who, if he is willing to avail himself of the facilities offered for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures, may become well equipped to be a businessman.

THE DAY COURSE.

4. There are two day classes—a first-year class and a second-year class. Papers are now before the Government proposing the following course of study, which, if sanctioned, will be introduced for the coming session :*—

COMPULSORY SUBJECTS.	OPTIONAL SUBJECTS.

(2) Arithmetic, including commercial and mental arithmetic.	(2) Typewriting.

(A special paper for Anglo-Indian candidates.)
(4) Commercial Geography.
(5) Book-keeping.

* Note—The course of study has hitherto been as follows :—

(1) Modern English, and especially English correspondence, including commercial correspondence, letter drafting and précis-writing.

(2) Arithmetic including commercial and mental arithmetic.

(3) One of the following languages, namely, Bengali, Hindi, Urdu, Uriya, French, German or Latin.

(4) One of the following subjects, namely, book-keeping, shorthand-writing or typewriting

(5) Commercial Geography.

English.—The English teaching is as severely practical as it can be made. In the first-year class, the students regularly practise dictation and essay-writing. They also practise writing easy letters, both official and business, as between a private man and a firm, and making index and précis of such letters.

In the second-year class they study the advanced stages of Commercial Practice or Business Methods and are drilled constantly to work out complete transactions, enabling them to appreciate not only the exact relation which one item bears to another but also the place of each in the completed whole, the transactions given in outline furnishing material for unaided work on the part of the students. They now practise making index and continuous précis, not only of all the series of letters arising in the transactions given but also of longer official letters and their replies from such bodies as Chambers of Commerce and other Associations. Their papers are corrected and returned soon after they are submitted. No text-books being prescribed, the students are under no temptation to cram, their capacity to write simple correct English with perspicuity and brevity thus developing under careful guidance.

Modern Bengali, including Bengali commercial correspondence, etc.—In Bengali "Kapalkundala" by Bankim Chandra Chatterjea is prescribed as a text-book affording a model for style and diction. Besides this language work, practices and principles obtaining in the commercial transactions covering different branches are also taught in Bengali, giving the Bengali students a further opportunity to learn them and to practise drafting business letters in their mother-tongue. They are required also to make index and précis, in Bengali, of commercial letters.

In order that they may be able to express themselves clearly and accurately in Bengali and in English and with a view more effectively to supplement the practical teaching in English, special attention is paid to translation of passages from English into Bengali and retranslation after some time has elapsed, and vice versa.

Commercial Geography.—The course in Commercial Geography deals specially with the relations of cause and effect that hold good between the general principles of geography and the occurrence, production, and exchange of commodities. It also deals in an elementary way with the history of commodities.

The Commercial Geography text-books used are "Commercial Geography of the World" by A. J. Herbertson, "A Short Commercial Geography" by L. W. Lyde, "Elementary Commercial Geography" by H. R. Mill, "A School Economic Atlas" by J. G. Bartholomew, and "A New Geography of the Indian Empire and Ceylon" by Morrison.

Commercial and Mental Arithmetic.—In Arithmetic the students are taught addition, subtraction, multiplication and division—simple and compound; approximation in multiplication and division; G. C. M. and L. C. M.; fractions—vulgar and decimal; practice; proportion—simple and compound (i.e., simple rule of three and double rule of three); the metric system; percentages, commission, etc.; proportional division; profit and loss; mixtures; interest—simple and compound; present worth and discount; stocks and shares; exchange—chain rule; square root. Grant and Hill's "Commercial Arithmetic" and "Mental Arithmetic" are used.

Shorthand.—During the first-year of the course the students are thoroughly grounded in the theory of Pitman's Shorthand and are expected to attain a speed of 50 words per minute at the end of the year. "Pitman's Shorthand Instructor" (centenary edition) is the text-book used. Throughout the second-year they practise speed. The minimum speed sought to be attained is 80 words per minute. The best students are found to attain a speed of 120 words a minute. In the Final Examination speed tests are held at 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute.

Typewriting.—The "Touch" system of Typewriting is carefully taught from the beginning. No particular text-book is used. The students are required to attain a minimum speed of 30 words per minute at the end of the two years' course. The maximum speed prescribed for the examination, is 55 words per minute. The intermediate standard of speed test is 40 words per minute. There is also a tabulating examination corresponding to each speed test.

Book-keeping.—The full course of the Day classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in the elementary stage. It is expected that a student shall have already received a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic. A Double Entry system is taught with simple accounts and commercial transactions. Students are taught to open and keep the following books: Purchase Day Book, Sales Day Book, Cash Book, Bill Book, Journal, and Ledger. Instruction is also given in making entries for outgoing and incoming single consignments. In connection with these books instruction is given in Trial Balance and the preparation of Profit and Loss Accounts and Balance Sheets.

5. Fee.—The students pay an admission fee of Rs. 3. The monthly tuition fee is Rs. 3. The text-books which the students have to buy cost about Rs. 16.

6. Attendance.—The classes are held between 11 A.M. and 4 P.M. except on Saturdays, when they are held between 11 A.M. and 2 P.M. Students of typewriting are allowed to stay later for extra practice.

7. Session.—The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the end of April. The usual Autumn and Christmas holidays are given.

8. Standard of admission.—Candidates who have passed the Matriculation examination are eligible for admission. Others are admitted, provided they satisfy the Education Department, by passing a preliminary test examination of a similar standard, that they have sufficient general education to enable them to derive advantage from the teaching. Graduates and Intermediates may be admitted in the second year class provided they have sufficient knowledge in Book-keeping.

Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal before the end of June.

THE EVENING COURSE.

The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the middle of April.

9. Evening classes.—If a sufficient number of students join, evening classes will be formed for the following subjects: Shorthand-writing, Typewriting, Book-keeping, Accountancy and Auditing, Political Economy, Annuities and Insurance, Mercantile Law, Modern English, and Banking and Currency. Fees are paid according to the number of lectures delivered in each subject. Classes were formed last year in all the subjects except Political Economy and Modern English. A student may be a member of one or more classes at his option.

10. Accountancy and Auditing.—A new class will be commenced this year to prepare candidates for the Government Examination in Auditing. It has been proposed to hold examinations for a Diploma in Accountancy in Bombay and other centres, but the question has not been finally settled.

11. Shorthand.—Students are admitted in July and also in December every year. The examination is held in April. For the session July to November the fee is Rs. 12, payable in four instalments of Rs. 3 each. Only those having a minimum speed of 60 words per minute are admitted in July. For the session December to mid-April, the fee is Rs. 16, payable in four instalments of Rs. 4 each. Those having a speed of 80 words a minute or more are admitted in December. Speed classes are so held as to enable a student to attain any of the four grades of speed required for the Special Examination, viz., 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute. There is no Theory class in the evening. The class sits at 6 P.M. daily (except on Saturdays and holidays).

12. Typewriting.—Beginners are admitted in July. They are carefully taught the "Touch" system. Advanced students are also admitted in this session. In December, only students having a speed of at least 20 words per minute are admitted. No beginner can join this session. By mid-April, when the examination is held, the minimum speed sought to be attained is 35 words per minute and the maximum is 60 words per minute. There is an intermediate speed test at 45 words per minute. For each of the three speed tests there is a corresponding accuracy test in tabulating, which is carefully taught. The fee is the same as that of the Shorthand class ; but a reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student, who is simultaneously a member of both the Shorthand and Typewriting classes, is granted, and the same reduction per instalment of each of the three fees payable is made when a student is simultaneously a member of three classes, viz., Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping. The Typewriting class is divided into two groups, the first of which practise from 5 to 6-30 P.M. and the second from 6-30 to 8 P.M. (except on Saturdays and holidays).

13. Book-keeping.—The full course of the evening classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in two stages—the Elementary and the Advanced. Preparatory to the Elementary work it is expected that a student shall have a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic—

(a) The first-year class ends with the Special Examination in Elementary Book-keeping.

(b) In the second-year class, ending in the Special Examination in Advanced Book-keeping, the course includes matters as under :—

In the advanced stage there is considered the nature of capital, whether as money or property, stocks, shares, classification of capital, revenue accounts, the use of departmental ledgers, also the establishment and recoupment of sinking funds, investment accounts, public, railway, gas and water companies' accounts. Joint-stock companies' accounts are dealt with completely. Instruction is also given in joint consignments, partnerships, contracts, etc. The nature and purposes of allowances to be made for depreciation in value of property are also made clear.

The fee for the elementary Book-keeping class is Rs. 24, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 3 each, and that of the advanced Book-keeping class is Rs. 32, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 4 each. A reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of two of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting, or Book-keeping will be granted, and the same reduction is granted per instalment of each of the three fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of three of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping.

14. Standard of admission.—Candidates who have attended the lectures in the day course will be eligible for admission to the evening course. Others will be admitted, provided they appear qualified for the class or classes they seek to join. Candidates for admission to Typewriting and the first-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient general education. Candidates for admission to the Shorthand and the second-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient knowledge of Shorthand or Book-keeping, as the case may be.

15. Examinations and certificates.—The following examinations will be held annually in April :—

(1) The Commercial Course Final Examination.
(2) A special Examination in Mercantile Law.
(3) Ditto ditto Banking and Currency.
(4) Ditto ditto Outline of Political Economy.

The fee is Rs. 5 for each Special Examination and Rs. 8 for the Final Examination. The Commercial Course Final Examination at the end of the two years' Day course and the Commercial Course Special Examinations in each of the subjects specified for evening lectures at the end of each year are controlled by the Commercial Course Advisory and Examination Board, a body consisting of educational officers and gentlemen engaged in commerce in Calcutta. On the results of these examinations certificates are granted by the Education Department, these certificates being endorsed by the Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce, which body, as also the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce, have undertaken to publish the list of the successful candidates.

16. Scholarships.—Three scholarships of Rs. 12 each per mensem, tenable for one year, will be awarded to those among the students admitted in the first-year Day class in the Government Commercial Institute who have secured the highest number of marks in English in the Matriculation examination of the Calcutta University, and three scholarships of Rs. 20 each per mensem, tenable for one year, will be awarded to the students of the second-year Day class who will obtain the highest total number of marks at a preliminary examination to be held at the end of the first year for the purpose of awarding the scholarships and determining promotion. Holders of junior and senior University Scholarships are not eligible for these scholarships.

Prizes.—First and second prizes of Rs. 75 and Rs. 50 respectively will be offered by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce for competition by the students of the Day class and another prize of Rs. 50 will be offered by the same body for competition among the students of the Evening classes in each of the following subjects :—

Mercantile Law, Banking and Currency, Annuities and Insurance, Political Economy, Modern English, Shorthand and Advanced Book-keeping.

Three prizes are offered by the Remington Typewriter Company to be awarded to the three students of the Institute obtaining the highest marks for efficiency in Typewriting.

17. Prospects of passed students.—345 students have been successful in the Final and Special Examinations. All of these are now employed in various offices, both mercantile and Government. A good many of them, viz., those that had joined either the Day or Evening classes with a tolerably fair grounding in English and could therefore make the best use of the training received here, have risen above the level of ordinary clerks and are now drawing from Rs. 60 to Rs. 120. Some of them are reported to be shaping very well in their respective spheres, and are receiving rapid promotion. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce has issued a circular letter containing a request to its members to make it a rule to take the passed students of the Day classes, whenever possible, in preference to other clerks, and the Advisory Board has recommended that the Government should pass orders that one-third of the vacancies in the Secretariat Clerical Services (Lower grade) every year should be reserved for our successful candidates in the Final examination. The matter has been sent up for the consideration of Government.

Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal before the end of June.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1558 Medl.—The 2nd August 1915.—Extracts (paragraphs 1 to 16) from the Report of the Government Cinchona Plantations and Factory in Bengal for the year 1914-15 are published for general information.

J. DONALD,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

FIFTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF THE GOVERNMENT CINCHONA PLANTATIONS AND FACTORY IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1914-15.

General.—As it is about ten years since the revival of the post of Quinologist in the correct sense, enabled the Department to deal with its deficiencies more effectively than previously had been possible, and as the same period covers a single generation of Cinchona, opportunity is taken to review the work so far done. From 1887, when quinine was first produced by the factory until 1892, Mungpoo plantation yielded enough bark to meet the annual demand—never more than 4,000 lbs.—for quinine. From 1892 to 1905 this demand rose from about 4,000 to nearly 15,000 lbs. of quinine, but the maximum annual yield from plantation bark never reached 9,000 lbs., so that large quantities of bark had to be purchased annually to supplement the supply. The failure of the plantation to meet the demand was in part at least due to the extensions being made on land more or less exhausted and being planted with unselected seed. Major (now Lieutenant-Colonel Sir David) Prain began the uphill work of improvement. During his tenure of office the new plantation of Munsong was started and planting commenced there in 1900-01. Attempts were made to improve Mungpoo by manuring and better cultivation, but with indifferent results. The factory staff was strengthened and a beginning made with seed selection, although this was hampered by the absence of a quinologist. Before leaving India in 1904 Sir David Prain had proposed the addition of a quinologist. In 1905 conditions were as follows—on Mungpoo there were 1,350 acres of Cinchona yielding 272 lbs. of bark per acre per annum, the bark containing only 2·5 per cent. of quinine, while a large part of the plantation was in scrub jungle ; on Munsong there were only 387 acres of immature Cinchona, contributing very little to the bark harvest ; the possible annual output of the factory was only 14,000 lbs. of quinine, to which the plantations could contribute less than 9,000 lbs. ; the extraction efficiency of the factory was only 70 to 75 per cent. of the possible ; the cost of quinine manufacture was Rs. 9 per lb.; a quinine reserve was practically non-existent. Since 1905 the acreage on Mungpoo has been reduced—by clearing out all the old poor Cinchona—from 1,350 to 533 acres, of which 270 acres have recently been planted on selected land, but the 533 acres yield per acre per annum 330 lbs. of 5 per cent. bark as against 272 lbs. of 2·5 per cent. bark yielded by the old Cinchona. At the same time 2,218 acres have been afforested. The area of Cinchona on Munsong has increased from 387 to 2,019 acres yielding per acre per annum 500 lbs. of 4·5 per cent. bark. In 1905 a quinologist was appointed. The same year saw the beginning and the following year the completion of an enlargement of the factory that has increased the possible and on occasion the actual annual output to over 50,000 lbs. of quinine. Systematic seed selection based on analysis of parent trees has been practised ever since. The using up during several years of the large quantity of very poor Mungpoo bark accumulated previous to 1905 coincided with a period of depression in the Cinchona industry generally, so that the factory for the time being worked under particularly disadvantageous conditions. Although the quinine yield from the newer plantation bark rose annually and was equal to the rising demand, the desirability of forming a substantial reserve led to a resumption in 1908-09 of bark and quinine purchase, which continued up to 1913-14 when it ceased on the attainment of a large reserve. While the reserve was in formation, the expenditure naturally exceeded the receipts. To sum up, since 1905 on Mungpoo there has been a net addition of 2,218 acres of fuel and timber trees ; on both plantations together the net area under Cinchona has increased from 1,737 acres to 2,552 acres ; the average annual increment of dry bark per acre has increased from 272 to 330 lbs. on Mungpoo and is 500 lbs on Munsong ; the average quinine percentage has increased from 2·5 to 4·5 ; the annual possible harvest has increased from about 300,000 lbs. of 2·5 per cent. bark to 1,000,000 lbs. of 4·5 per cent. bark, and this quantity is assured for many years to come ; the possible annual output of the factory has increased from 14,000 to over 50,000 lbs. of quinine, its extraction efficiency has been raised from not more than 75 per cent. to 95 per cent. of the possible, while the manufacturing cost of quinine has been reduced from Rs. 9 to a little over Rs. 5 per lb. ; the quinine reserve has risen from less than 3,500 lbs. to over 163,000 lbs. As all this has been accomplished within a period which, considering that Cinchona takes ten years to arrive at maturity, can fairly be compared with two or three years' work on an annual crop, it is hoped that the results will be considered satisfactory. I bring to the notice of Government the officers whose keen interest each in his own share of the work and whose cordial co-operation have contributed to the success so far attained. They are Mr. G. E. Shaw, B.Sc., F.I.C., F.C.S., Government Quinologist, whose chemical work has been directly concerned with the greatly increased efficiency of the factory and has been the foundation for the improvement of the plantations; Mr. H. F. Green, Manager of Munsong, of whose excellent work that plantation is a testimony; Mr. P. T. Russell, Manager of Mungpoo, who by improved cultural methods has remarkably regenerated what Cinchona is still on that plantation and who by his fine afforestation work is preparing Mungpoo for a brighter future as a quinine-yielding plantation than it has ever had a past.

2. Extensions and crop.—(a) Mungpoo.—Weather conditions were practically normal, the rainfall being 117·59 inches. Over 215,000 fuel and timber trees were planted out, covering 300 acres—200 on Labdah and 100 on Mungpoo Division—and bringing the total area afforested since 1906 up to 2,218 acres. The extensions cost Rs. 10 per acre. Of the total acreage 1,271 are of fuel and 947 of timber trees, while according to age 565 acres are of 7—10 years old trees, 753 of 4—6 years old and 900 of 3 years old and under. Cinchona extensions were 110 acres, confined to secondary forest land. Of the total, 90 and 16 acres were of Cinchona Ledgeriana at Rs. 80 per acre on Mungpoo and Sittong Divisions respectively, and 4 acres of C. succirubra at Rs. 50 per acre on Mungpoo. The seed used was from parent trees with an average of 9 per cent. of quinine; the blocks planted in the last three years are very promising, the 3-year old block showing an average percentage of 5·5 per cent. of quinine. The total area under Cinchona is now 533 acres, all of which except 48 acres of C. succirubra are under 10 years of age. The number of Cinchona trees of all ages on the plantation is estimated at 616,000, being 470,000 of C. Ledgeriana, 98,000 of C. (Ledger × succirubra) and 48,000 C. succirubra. The year's bark harvest was 170,823 lbs., being 152,875 lbs. C. Ledgeriana, 13,400 lbs. C. (Ledger × succirubra) and 4,548 lbs. C. succirubra. At 2 annas per lb. the crop cost Rs. 21,352 all charges to godowns included. The market value of the crop is Rs. 52,671, which sum plus freight and carriage Government would have had to pay if the bark had been purchased. The plantation also supplied to the factory, at cost of cutting and carriage only, 55,000 maunds of fuel of a value—exclusive of cutting and carriage—of Rs. 3,300. The stock of Ipecacuanha has been increased by 5,000, bringing it up to a total of 18,000 plants.

(b) Munsong.—The rainfall was 108 inches. A fall of about 6 inches on the 4th August 1914 caused numerous small landslips which did considerable damage, but not enough to effect the block account. Extensions amounted to 378½ acres, being 302 acres (107 on Kashyem, 50 on Munsong and 145 on Burmiak Divisions respectively) C. Ledgeriana, 18½ C. officinalis and 1 C. (Ledger × officinalis) on Kashyem, 50 C. (Ledger × succirubra) on Munsong and 7 C. succirubra on Burmiak. These extensions cost Rs. 27,900. The first block of 102 acres of C. Ledgeriana planted on Munsong was finally cleared, and its area, plus 1½ acres of C. (Ledger × succirubra) also cleared, has been deducted from the total area under Cinchona, so that the net addition to the plantation is 275 acres. The first block has yielded from start to finish 665,080 lbs. of bark. The total area under Cinchona is now 2,019 acres, all under 14 years of age, containing an estimated total of 2,072,000 trees of all ages, of which 1,391,000 are C. Ledgeriana, 486,000 C. officinalis, 43,000 C. succirubra, 150,600 C. (Ledger × succirubra) and 1,400 C. (Ledger × officinalis).

The bark crop was 509,552 lbs., being 493,680 lbs. C. Ledgeriana, 6,800 lbs C. succirubra, 6,480 lbs. C. officinalis and 2,592 lbs. C. (Ledger × succirubra). At 2 annas per lb. the crop cost Rs. 63,694, all charges to godowns included, whereas its market value minus freight and carriage is Rs. 1,58,172.

(c) Plantations as a whole.—The total area under Cinchona is 2,552 acres, being 2,014 C. Ledgeriana, 221½ C. (Ledger × succirubra), 199½ C. officinalis, 116 C. succirubra, and 1 C. (Ledger × officinalis). By age, 1,734½ acres are from 0—5 years old, 486 from 6—10 years, 303½ from 11—15 years and 28 over 16 years old. The estimated numbers of trees are C. Ledgeriana

1,861,000, C. officinalis 486,000, (C. Ledger × succirubra) 248,600, C. succirubra 91,000, C. (Ledger × officinalis) 1,400, making a grand total of 2,688,000 plants. The total bark crop was 681,375 lbs. costing Rs. 85,046-14 and of market value Rs. 2,10,843.

3. Factory work.—67,422 lbs. of Java bark, purchased in 1913-14, and 697,300 lbs. of plantation bark, in all 764,722 lbs. were used up. The Java bark analysed 6·9 per cent., equal to 4,651 lbs., and the plantation bark 4·58 per cent., equal to 31,965 lbs. of quinine sulphate respectively, or a total quantity of 36,616 lbs. theoretically available in the bark. The quantity extracted was 35,377 lbs., showing an extraction efficiency of 96·6 per cent. Out of the 35,377 lbs. extracted, 727 lbs. were used in making Cinchona Febrifuge, leaving 34,650 lbs. as the net quantity of quinine sulphate made. This quantity is 16,912 lbs. less than last year's outturn, and deliberately so, as there was no need in view of the large reserve, to harvest more bark than sufficed to meet current demand. Other products were 5,307 lbs. Cinchona Febrifuge, 876 lbs. Quinoidine, and 807 lbs. Residual Alkaloids.

4. General charges.—These amount to Rs. 9,695-15-10.

5. Plantation charges.—The total expenditure for the year on Mungpoo was Rs. 55,420-5, on Munsong Rs. 89,630-5-9. Adding the proportion of general charges for both plantations the sum is Rs. 1,51,306-10-7. For this Government has received bark and fuel of value Rs. 2,14,143, plus a net addition of 306 acres of Cinchona and 300 acres of timber and fuel plantation.

6. Factory charges.—These are Rs. 82,481-7-8. Adding the remaining moiety (Rs. 3,540) of the general charges the sum is Rs. 86,021-7-8. For this sum the return has been the products mentioned in paragraph 3, of the market value of Rs. 5,18,367.

7. Expenditure on entire Department.—This is Rs. 2,37,328-2-3. Against this has to be placed the factory products of market value Rs. 5,18,367. plus a net addition of 306 acres of Cinchona and 300 acres of afforested land.

8. Cost of Plantation Bark.—Owing to an error in the instruction prescribed for calculating the average annual expenditure per acre, which was not detected at the time, the cost rates given in previous reports have had to be corrected. The average annual increment of bark per acre has been recalculated over 6 blocks from 7 to 9 years old on Mungpoo and over 7 blocks from 8 to 14 years old on Munsong. The results are 330 lbs. for Mungpoo and 500 lbs. for Munsong. To obtain the average annual expenditure per acre, the total plantation expenditure, plus share of general charges for the period 1900-01 to 1914-15, has been divided by the sum of the acreages under Cinchona at the end of each year of the period. This has been done for each plantation separately. The results are Rs. 42 per acre for Mungpoo and Rs. 65 for Munsong. The cost per lb. of bark comes but at 2 annas for each of the plantations.

9. Value of Plantation Bark.—The unit rate has been steady at 6·2 Dutch cents per ·5 kilo. As the bark from both plantations was mixed in the factory without recording the average analysis and the quantities separately, the average quinine percentage for the mixed barks has had to be taken. In future the average percentages and quantities used of each plantation's bark will be recorded separately. The average percentage of the mixture is 4·58 quinine sulphate. The value rate per lb. for both plantations is therefore $\frac{62 \times 4.96}{5 \times 1.169} = 5$ annas for Ledger, Hybrid and officinalis. The value of C. succirubra bark is taken at 2·5 annas per lb.

10. Cost of Quinine production.—(a) Cost in bark.—67,422 lbs. of Java bark, costing Rs. 28,289, and 697,300 lbs. plantation bark, costing at 2 annas a lb., Rs. 87,162-8 were used. The Java bark yielded 4,490 and the plantation bark 30,887 lbs. of quinine.

(b) Cost of extraction, purification, packing and delivery to Railway.—The factory expenditure, plus the factory's share of general charges, plus depreciation on buildings and machinery, came to a gross total of Rs. 92,206-7-8. The value at cost price plus carriage of the surplus of oil, chemicals and stores purchased during the year was Rs. 8,269-7-8, leaving the net manufacturing charges at Rs. 83,937. This amount covered the extraction not only of quinine, but of the other products manufactured. The cost of the latter at 8 annas per lb. for Cinchona Febrifuge, which allows for the transfer to it of a small amount of quinine—Rs. 2-8 per lb. for Quinoidine and 4 annas a lb. for Residual Alkaloids, amounts to Rs. 5,045-4. The net charges for quinine alone are therefore practically Rs. 78,892. This divided between the Java and Plantation barks in proportion to the quantities used, gives Rs. 6,955-8 for the cost of the extraction of the Java quinine and Rs. 71,936-8 for the plantation quinine.

(c) Total cost of Manufacture.—This—, which includes packing and for issued quinine delivery to railway also—comes to Rs. $\frac{28,289 + \text{Rs. } 6,955\text{-}8}{4,490 \text{ lbs.}}$ = Rs. 7-13-7 per lb. for the quinine from Java bark and Rs. $\frac{87,162\text{-}8 + 71,936\text{-}8}{30,997 \text{ lbs.}}$ = Rs. 5-2-4 per lb. for quinine from plantation bark. Owing to the error alluded to in paragraph 8, the cost of plantation quinine was underestimated in last year's report. The wholesale market rate for quinine is about Rs. 14 per lb.

11. Sales and selling rates.—The total quantity of products sold and issued was 38,997 lbs. Of this, sulphate of quinine amounted to 34,596 lbs. 3 oz., being an increase of over 13,000 lbs. on last year's quantity. The sale of "treatments" has risen from 8,000 lbs. during last year to 15,600 lbs. The selling rates were—for Quinine Sulphate on a credit basis to Medical Depôts Rs. 14 per lb.; on a cash basis Rs. 13 for quantities of 6 lbs. and over; Rs. 15 for quantities less than 6 lbs.; for treatments 4 annas per tube of 80 grs. in tablets or at the rate of Rs. 21-14 per lb. For Cinchonidine Sulphate Rs. 12 per lb. for 6 lbs. and over, Rs. 14 per lb. for less than 6 lbs. For Cinchona Febrifuge Rs. 5 and 6 per lb. for similar quantities, respectively. For Quinoidine and Residual Alkaloids Rs. 4 per lb.

12. Expenditure and Receipts.—The total Budget allotment was Rs. 2.58,000, including Rs. 29,975 left from the Imperial grant of the previous year. The total expenditure was Rs. 2,37,328-2-3. The total receipts were Rs. 4,12,249-12-9, the excess of receipts over expenditure being Rs. 1,74,921-10-6.

13. Stock Account and Quinine Reserve.—The quinine reserve on the 31st March 1915 was over 163,000 lbs. The total stock in balance on 31st March was of value Rs. 26,36,940-8-6.

14. Block Account.—The value of the plantation is the sum of the values of the individual blocks as they stood on the 31st March 1915, each block being valued on the basis of the quantity of dry bark represented by the living trees. the average quinine percentage of and the average unit rate for such bark. The total value of plantations and factory is Rs. 967.302-12.

15. Profit and Loss Account.—There is a profit balance of Rs. 9,69,898-8-9.

16. Land Rent.—Rupees 4,203-1 were paid into the Darjeeling Treasury, no credit being taken for this revenue in the Cinchona accounts.

Forecast of the Summer Til Crop of Bengal, 1915-16.

(Note.—On the average of the five years ending 1912-13, the area under Til in Bengal has represented some 5·6 per cent. of the total area under Til in British India.)

Character of the Season.—Except for some scarcity of rain in the districts of Burdwan, Rajshahi, Bogra and Malda, the weather conditions generally proved favourable throughout the Province at the time the crop was sown. But subsequently towards the end of May and during June heavy rainfall impeded the growth of the crop and caused some damage in several parts of the Province. Damage from this cause is reported from the districts of Murshidabad, Midnapore, Rajshahi, Dinajpur, Bogra, Pabna and Dacca. Some damage by insects also is reported from Pabna.

Acreage.—The total area sown with the crop this year is estimated at 194.300 acres against 189,300 acres (revised) last year, or an increase of about 2·6 per cent. only.

Outturn.—According to the estimates of the District Officers the average outturn of the crop for the Province works out to 69 per cent. against 71 per cent. of the normal last year. Taking the normal yield per acre to be 4¼ maunds, the gross outturn of the Province amounts to 20,900 tons against 21,000 tons (revised) last year.

Preliminary Forecast of the Sugarcane Crop of Bengal, 1915-16.

(Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1912-13, the area under sugarcane in Bengal represents some 9·9 per cent. of the total area under sugarcane in British India.)

Character of the season.—At planting time, the weather was generally favourable excepting in the districts of Burdwan, Midnapore, Rajshahi, Bogra and Malda where there was want of adequate rainfall. Subsequent heavy rainfall towards the end of May and during June in some of the Eastern Bengal districts injuriously affected the growth to some extent, but on the whole the weather conditions have not been unfavourable. The prospects so far are reported to be fairly good.

Area planted.—The area planted with sugarcane this year is reported to be 233,900 acres against 233,400 acres last year and against 226,500 acres reported at the corresponding date of last year.

Outturn.—According to the estimates of district officers, the total outturn of the crop for the Province works out to 88 per cent. as against 82 per cent. last year.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 2nd August 1915.

Summary.—During the week under report heavy rain fell in parts of the Bakarganj and Chittagong districts. The fall was light to moderate elsewhere. More rain is wanted in most of the western districts and in some of the eastern districts also for the transplantation of winter rice and for the steeping and washing of jute. Harvesting of aus paddy and jute is in progress throughout the Province. The transplanting of winter rice is being delayed in some districts owing to the insufficiency of rainfall. Damage to standing crops by insect-pests is reported from parts of the Nadia, Jessore, Khulna and Birbhum districts and scarcity of fodder is reported from parts of the Mymensingh and Tippera districts. Cattle-disease exists in ten districts. The distress prevailing in Noakhali and Tippera has somewhat abated. The daily average of persons employed on relief works in those two districts during the week amounted to 76 and 586 persons respectively. The total number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief in Noakhali during the week was 23,344. The average price of common rice for the Province remained stationary with a slight tendency to fall as compared with that of the previous week.

PROSPECTUS OF THE GOVERNMENT COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE.

THE Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta, affords a training of a practical and businesslike character, well up to date and capable of direct application to the commerce and trade of the city. It is neither a business college in which the academic element exceeds the vocational in relative importance nor a secondary school of commerce, but a higher school of commerce in which the vocational element predominates but in a liberal manner.

2. There is a specialised Day Course extending over two years, ending in the Commercial Course Final Examination. Provision is also made for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures on Advanced Book-keeping, high speed in Shorthand and Typewriting, Political Economy, Mercantile Law, Annuities and Insurance, Banking and Currency, and Accountancy, ending annually in Special Examinations in each of the subjects. These lectures are intended to give persons already employed in business a chance of improving their efficiency as first-rate Shorthand-writers, Typists, Book-keepers, or Auditors, and of gaining an intelligent insight into the economical, financial and legal principles on which commerce is based.

3. The aim of the Institute is to turn out a type of young man who, if he has received a thorough grounding in the ordinary school subjects, especially in English, has the makings of a useful assistant either in commercial or in Government offices, and who, if he is willing to avail himself of the facilities offered for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures, may become well equipped to be a businessman.

THE DAY COURSE.

4. There are two day classes—a first-year class and a second-year class. Papers are now before the Government proposing the following course of study, which, if sanctioned, will be introduced for the coming session :*—

COMPULSORY SUBJECTS.	OPTIONAL SUBJECTS.
(1) Modern English, and especially English correspondence, including commercial correspondence, letter drafting and précis-writing.	(1) Shorthand.
(2) Arithmetic, including commercial and mental arithmetic.	(2) Typewriting.
(3) An Indian Vernacular, such as Bengali, Hindi, Urdu, Uriya, &c.	(The marks obtained in optional subjects will count towards scholarships, a class, or a mark of distinction.)
(A special paper for Anglo-Indian candidates.)
(4) Commercial Geography.
(5) Book-keeping.

* Note—The course of study has hitherto been as follows :—

(1) Modern English, and especially English correspondence, including commercial correspondence, letter drafting and précis-writing.

(2) Arithmetic including commercial and mental arithmetic.

(3) One of the following languages, namely, Bengali, Hindi, Urdu, Uriya, French, German or Latin.

(4) One of the following subjects, namely, book-keeping, shorthand-writing or typewriting.

(5) Commercial Geography.

English.—The English teaching is as severely practical as it can be made. In the first-year class, the students regularly practise dictation and essay-writing. They also practise writing easy letters, both official and business, as between a private man and a firm, and making index and précis of such letters.

In the second-year class they study the advanced stages of Commercial Practice or Business Methods and are drilled constantly to work out complete transactions, enabling them to appreciate not only the exact relation which one item bears to another but also the place of each in the completed whole, the transactions given in outline furnishing material for unaided work on the part of the students. They now practise making index and continuous précis, not only of all the series of letters arising in the transactions given but also of longer official letters and their replies from such bodies as Chambers of Commerce and other Associations. Their papers are corrected and returned soon after they are submitted. No text-books being prescribed, the students are under no temptation to cram, their capacity to write simple correct English with perspicuity and brevity thus developing under careful guidance.

Modern Bengali, including Bengali commercial correspondence, etc.—In Bengali "Kapalkundala" by Bankim Chandra Chatterjea is prescribed as a text-book affording a model for style and diction. Besides this language work, practices and principles obtaining in the commercial transactions covering different branches are also taught in Bengali, giving the Bengali students a further opportunity to learn them and to practise drafting business letters in their mother-tongue. They are required also to make index and précis, in Bengali, of commercial letters.

In order that they may be able to express themselves clearly and accurately in Bengali and in English and with a view more effectively to supplement the practical teaching in English, special attention is paid to translation of passages from English into Bengali and retranslation after some time has elapsed, and vice versa.

Commercial Geography.—The course in Commercial Geography deals specially with the relations of cause and effect that hold good between the general principles of geography and the occurrence, production, and exchange of commodities. It also deals in an elementary way with the history of commodities.

The Commercial Geography text-books used are "Commercial Geography of the World" by A. J. Herbertson, "A Short Commercial Geography" by L. W. Lyde, "Elementary Commercial Geography" by H. R. Mill, "A School Economic Atlas" by J. G. Bartholomew, and "A New Geography of the Indian Empire and Ceylon" by Morrison.

Commercial and Mental Arithmetic.—In Arithmetic the students are taught addition, subtraction, multiplication and division—simple and compound; approximation in multiplication and division; G. C. M. and L. C. "Pitman's Shorthand Instructor" (centenary edition) is the text-book used. Throughout the second-year they practise speed. The minimum speed sought to be attained is 80 words per minute. The best students are found to attain a speed of 120 words a minute. In the Final Examination speed tests are held at 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute.

Typewriting.—The "Touch" system of Typewriting is carefully taught from the beginning. No particular text-book is used. The students are required to attain a minimum speed of 30 words per minute at the end of the two years' course. The maximum speed prescribed for the examination, is 55 words per minute. The intermediate standard of speed test is 40 words per minute. There is also a tabulating examination corresponding to each speed test.

Book-keeping.—The full course of the Day classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in the elementary stage. It is expected that a student shall have already received a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic. A Double Entry system is taught with simple accounts and commercial transactions. Students are taught to open and keep the following books: Purchase Day Book, Sales Day Book, Cash Book, Bill Book, Journal, and Ledger. Instruction is also given in making entries for outgoing and incoming single consignments. In connection with these books instruction is given in Trial Balance and the preparation of Profit and Loss Accounts and Balance Sheets.

5. Fee.—The students pay an admission fee of Rs. 3. The monthly tuition fee is Rs. 3. The text-books which the students have to buy cost about Rs. 16.

6. Attendance.—The classes are held between 11 A.M. and 4 P.M. except on Saturdays, when they are held between 11 A.M. and 2 P.M. Students of typewriting are allowed to stay later for extra practice.

7. Session.—The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the end of April. The usual Autumn and Christmas holidays are given.

8. Standard of admission.—Candidates who have passed the Matriculation examination are eligible for admission. Others are admitted, provided they satisfy the Education Department, by passing a preliminary test examination of a similar standard, that they have sufficient general education to enable them to derive advantage from the teaching. Graduates and Intermediates may be admitted in the second year class provided they have sufficient knowledge in Book-keeping.

Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal before the end of June.

THE EVENING COURSE.

The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the middle of April.

9. Evening classes.—If a sufficient number of students join, evening classes will be formed for the following subjects: Shorthand-writing, Typewriting, Book-keeping, Accountancy and Auditing, Political Economy, Annuities and Insurance, Mercantile Law, Modern English, and Banking and Currency. Fees are paid according to the number of lectures delivered in each subject. Classes were formed last year in all the subjects except Political Economy and Modern English. A student may be a member of one or more classes at his option.

10. Accountancy and Auditing.—A new class will be commenced this year to prepare candidates for the Government Examination in Auditing. It has been proposed to hold examinations for a Diploma in Accountancy in Bombay and other centres, but the question has not been finally settled.

11. Shorthand.—Students are admitted in July and also in December every year. The examination is held in April. For the session July to November the fee is Rs. 12, payable in four instalments of Rs. 3 each. Only those having a minimum speed of 60 words per minute are admitted in July. For the session December to mid-April, the fee is Rs. 16, payable in four instalments of Rs. 4 each. Those having a speed of 80 words a minute or more are admitted in December. Speed classes are so held as to enable a student to attain any of the four grades of speed required for the Special Examination, viz., 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute. There is no Theory class in the evening. The class sits at 6 P.M. daily (except on Saturdays and holidays).

12. Typewriting.—Beginners are admitted in July. They are carefully taught the "Touch" system. Advanced students are also admitted in this session. In December, only students having a speed of at least 20 words per minute are admitted. No beginner can join this session. By mid-April, when the examination is held, the minimum speed sought to be attained is 35 words per minute and the maximum is 60 words per minute. There is an intermediate speed test at 45 words per minute. For each of the three speed tests there is a corresponding accuracy test in tabulating, which is carefully taught. The fee is the same as that of the Shorthand class ; but a reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student, who is simultaneously a member of both the Shorthand and Typewriting classes, is granted, and the same reduction per instalment of each of the three fees payable is made when a student is simultaneously a member of three classes, viz., Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping. The Typewriting class is divided into two groups, the first of which practise from 5 to 6-30 P.M. and the second from 6-30 to 8 P.M. (except on Saturdays and holidays).

13. Book-keeping.—The full course of the evening classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in two stages—the Elementary and the Advanced. Preparatory to the Elementary work it is expected that a student shall have a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic—

(a) The first-year class ends with the Special Examination in Elementary Book-keeping.

(b) In the second-year class, ending in the Special Examination in Advanced Book-keeping, the course includes matters as under :—

In the advanced stage there is considered the nature of capital, whether as money or property, stocks, shares, classification of capital, revenue accounts, the use of departmental ledgers, also the establishment and recoupment of sinking funds, investment accounts, public, railway, gas and water companies' accounts. Joint-stock companies' accounts are dealt with completely. Instruction is also given in joint consignments, partnerships, contracts, etc. The nature and purposes of allowances to be made for depreciation in value of property are also made clear.

The fee for the elementary Book-keeping class is Rs. 24, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 3 each, and that of the advanced Book-keeping class is Rs. 32, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 4 each. A reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of two of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting, or Book-keeping will be granted, and the same reduction is granted per instalment of each of the three fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of three of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping.

14. Standard of admission.—Candidates who have attended the lectures in the day course will be eligible for admission to the evening course. Others will be admitted, provided they appear qualified for the class or classes they seek to join. Candidates for admission to Typewriting and the first-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient general education. Candidates for admission to the Shorthand and the second-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient knowledge of Shorthand or Book-keeping, as the case may be.

A good many of them, viz., those that had joined either the Day or Evening classes with a tolerably fair grounding in English and could therefore make the best use of the training received here, have risen above the level of ordinary clerks and are now drawing from Rs. 60 to Rs. 120. Some of them are reported to be shaping very well in their respective spheres, and are receiving rapid promotion. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce has issued a circular letter containing a request to its members to make it a rule to take the passed students of the Day classes whenever possible, in preference to other clerks, and the Advisory Board has recommended that the Government should pass orders that one-third of the vacancies in the Secretariat Clerical Services (Lower grade) every year should be reserved for our successful candidates in the Final examination. The matter has been sent up for the consideration of Government.

Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal before the end of June.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 1.

OATH OR AFFIRMATION OF ALLEGIANCE.

The Hon'ble Mr. Lang, the Hon'ble Mr. Donald, the Hon'ble Mr. Birley, the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley, the Hon'ble Mr. Twidell and the Hon'ble Mr. Birkmyre made an oath or affirmation of their allegiance to the Crown.

The PRESIDENT said :—

"Gentlemen,

Before we begin our business, I should like to say that I am glad to preside, and to see so many of you here to-day. You all know the different views held about sittings of Council in Dacca, and you know the conditions which led me to call a meeting here last year. I was very sorry when I could not preside over that meeting—owing to those sad and unforeseen circumstances which altered so many of our plans. But I believe the meeting served a useful purpose. I have, therefore, again summoned you to Dacca in the full belief that you will again do good work. I thank you, both officials and non-officials, for having come in such numbers. I know it was not convenient to all of you; but you have come of your own free will, and because you want to show your friendliness to your fellow members who are anxious to hold meetings here from time to time. I am glad of this renewed evidence of the unity of the Presidency of Bengal, and I feel sure you will none of you regret having come to learn for yourselves a little about Dacca and the great part it hopes to play in the development of Bengal.

We will proceed now to our business. With regard to questions, I shall, in virtue of my power under rule 12 of the Question Rules and in order to meet what is I believe the convenience of members, ask my hon'ble colleague, Mr. Beatson Bell, to make a formal statement after questions are over about a matter on which several questions have been put. I tell you this now in order that any of you may be reassured who has doubts as to its being in order when he hears a member of Government refer to 'a statement', though none of the Council rules provides for the making of 'statements'.

It may be convenient also for me to tell you now that at the end of business to-day I may quite possibly adjourn the house not to a particular day as is customary, but sine die. If so, it will only be in the hope of meeting the convenience of members. There will be a meeting in Calcutta early in September. A day was fixed by me for this—the 6th—in conformity with which my own engagements have been made. But I learned a day or two ago that this date does not suit all of you, and a suggestion has been made to me to change it. I do not yet know whether a change is possible which would not be even more inconvenient; but I shall do my best, and, as soon as I can, will let Hon'ble Members know how it seems to me best to decide."

STARRED QUESTIONS.

By the Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR:—

Reported cases of outrage upon women in the Jamalpur subdivision.

*1. (a) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the reported cases of outrage upon women in the Jamalpur subdivision of the Mymensingh district?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state what action they have taken or are taking to prevent the recurrence of such outrages?

The Hon'ble MR. KERR replied:—

"(a) Yes.

(b) A full and careful inquiry has been held by the District Magistrate. Six cases have been brought to light. Particulars are given in the memorandum which is laid on the table. The local officers are fully alive to the necessity of taking prompt and vigorous action for the suppression of crime of this nature."

MEMORANDUM REFERRED TO IN THE ABOVE REPLY.

"1. One Mohim Chandra Chanda, a resident of village Kursha, lodged a complaint before the Subdivisional Officer, Jamalpur, on the 22nd April, 1915, that his sister and another girl who was living with him had been abducted by some Muhammadans. It was stated that on the 12th April a burglary was committed in the complainant's house and that on the following day the two girls were found to be missing. On the 25th April two Muhammadans came to the complainant and promised to produce the girls on payment of Rs. 25. The complainant agreed and paid Rs. 5 in advance. The girls were then produced and the complainant paid Rs. 10 more, promising to pay the balance later, but as he was going off with the two girls, he was attacked by seven or eight persons and the two girls were taken away from him.

The Subdivisional Officer issued warrants for the arrest of the accused and for the production of the girls. The warrants could not, however, be executed, and proclamation and attachment were ordered. Every effort of the police to produce the girls was unsuccessful. Subsequently, on the information furnished by the mukhtar of the complainant, one girl was discovered on the 24th May and the other on the 1st June. The statements of the girls show that on the day of occurrence, while watching a fire that had broken out in the neighbourhood, they were carried off by force by seven or eight Muhammadans, who ravished them at intervals and removed them from house to house to prevent their discovery by the police. Offers of nika marriage were made to them by the accused, which they declined. Six of the accused named have been arrested, and three absconders have been proclaimed and their property attached. Warrants were also issued for the arrest of a panchayat and another person in whose house the girls were alleged to have been secreted at different times.

Two cases are now under trial—one against the six persons arrested out of those named by the complainant, and the other against the panchayat and the owner of a house in which the girls are said to have been detained.

There are a large number of witnesses, but it is expected that the proceedings before the Magistrate will be concluded before the end of this month.

2. One Bhagan Muchi, a resident of Sherpur, complained against two other muchis and three Muhammadans, charging them with having abducted his wife. All the accused with the exception of Hachmania Sheikh, who is still absconding, were arrested and committed to the Sessions for trial on the 8th May, 1915. The two Muhammadans accused in this case were also committed to the Sessions in a separate case on the charge of abducting the wife of Hachmania Sheikh, the absconding accused in the first case. In both of these cases the accused have been acquitted by the Court of Sessions.

3. One Kunja Dassi lodged a complaint in court on the 21st April, 1915, to the effect that, on the 19th April, while she was sleeping with one Jadu Nath Patni whose mistress she is, several Muhammadans broke into the house, assaulted her and Jadu Nath severely, dragged her away, and took her to the houses of certain Muhammadans. She managed to escape from them and was rescued by the village dafadar. It is recorded, however, at the Jamalpur thana that Jadu Nath lodged a different complaint there on the 20th April. He stated that Kunja Dassi was seduced by him about three years ago and that since then she had been living with him as his wife. He suspected her of having illicit connection with a neighbour named Jogesh. On the night of the 19th April he woke up from his sleep and found that she was not in bed with him. Suspecting that she was with Jogesh he went to the latter's house to demand her. A quarrel ensued between him and Jogesh in which the latter hit him with a lathi. The villagers hearing the noise came and separated them. On his way to the thana he heard that Kunja Dassi had been traced in village Konabari, which is the village of the Muhammadan accused named by Kunja Dassi.

The accused were committed to the Sessions and have been convicted and sentenced to six years' rigorous imprisonment each. The Judge and the Jury were of opinion that the head-constable made a false entry regarding the information lodged at the police-station by Jadu Nath Patni.

Proceedings against the head-constable have been instituted.

4. Another case has been instituted by one Muhammadan against another Muhammadan. The allegation in this case is that the wife was abducted by her own brothers and other relatives.

Questions and Answers.

This case has since been settled amicably between the parties, and the accused have been discharged.

5. A case was instituted in June by Sukni Peshakar against five Muhammadans charging them with the abduction of her daughter Janaki. One of the accused alleges that the daughter is married to him and that she was enticed away from him and induced to adopt the profession of her mother. He says that he instituted proceedings under section 498, Criminal Procedure Code, and recovered his wife and that Sukni's case has been brought against him and four other men with the object of bringing him to terms. Janaki herself denies that she was abducted and supports her husband's version of the facts. The case is still under inquiry.

6. The latest case was instituted in June by a Muhammadan against three Hindus complaining that when his wife was staying with his brother-in-law she was carried off by the three accused and ravished and kept for two days after which she managed to escape. The three accused were arrested by the 8th of July and, as the woman has fallen ill. no evidence has yet been recorded. This case is distinguished from others by the fact that it alleges the abduction of a Muhammadan woman by Hindus."

By the Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR :—

*2. Will the Government be pleased to state whether they are considering the desirability of supplying the members of the Bengal Legislative Council with copies of Government Reports and other similar Government publications issued by them from time to time?

Supply of Government Reports and publications to members of the Bengal Legislative Council.

The Hon'ble MR. DONALD replied :—

"Besides Acts, Bills and papers relating thereto and Proceedings of the Bengal Legislative Council, copies of the Calcutta Gazette, Bengal Civil List and Bengal Administration Report are regularly supplied to all Members. Government are considering the question of supplying copies of other Government publications to the Members of the Bengal Legislative Council."

By the Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR :—

*3. (a) Have the Government received a communication from the Calcutta Improvement Trust regarding the laying out of a Park in the Fringe Area (Shambazar) for use as a playground and also as a recreation ground?

Laying out of a Park in the Fringe Area (Shambazar).

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to state what orders have been passed on the said communication?

The Hon'ble MR. DONALD replied :—

(a) "Government have received a communication from the Calcutta Improvement Trust regarding the laying out of a Park in the Fringe Area (Shambazar).

(b) The matter is still under the consideration of Government."

By the Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR :—

*4. Will the Government be pleased to state whether they are considering the desirability of transferring the Court for Juvenile Offenders from its present site in Lower Circular Road to a position nearer the centre of the town?

Transfer of the site of the Court for Juvenile offenders.

Questions and Answers.

The Hon'ble MR. KERR replied :—

"Until this question was received no suggestion had been made to Government that the Court should be removed and consequently the question has not been considered : and in any case Government would not be in a position to consider the removal until near the year 1918, when the lease of the present building expires."

By the Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR :—

Inconvenience felt by the Honorary Presidency Magistrates in finding their way to their Court rooms.

*5. (a) Are the Government aware of the inconvenience felt by the Honorary Presidency Magistrates of the new Central Police Court, Calcutta, in having to find their way to the Court rooms by the same staircase as that used by the general public ?

(b) Is it not the case that formerly in the Lal Bazar Police Court a separate private staircase was provided for the Stipendiary and Honorary Presidency Magistrates ?

(c) Are the Government aware that in the New Central Police Court, Calcutta, the Honorary Presidency Magistrates sitting on the first floor have invariably to elbow their way to the Court room through the crowd ?

(d) Is it not a fact that this was brought to the notice of the Chief Presidency Magistrate ?

(e) Are the Government taking any steps to remove the inconvenience complained of ?

The Hon'ble MR. KERR replied :—

"Government are aware that on the opening of the Central Police Court, some inconvenience was felt by both Honorary and Stipendiary Magistrates in the matter of access to their Court rooms. The inconvenience has lately been removed partly by structural alterations and partly by a rearrangement of rooms. The Honorary Magistrates have now been given a room which is accessible by the Magistrates' private entrance."

By the Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR :—

Terms and scope of Mr. Gourlay's inquiry in connection with the Calcutta Police.

*6. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state in full the terms and scope of the inquiry entrusted to Mr. Gourlay in connection with the Calcutta Police ?

(b) Is any public evidence proposed to be taken in the said inquiry ?

The Hon'ble MR. KERR replied :—

"Mr. Gourlay has been deputed to compile a history of the Bengal and of the Calcutta Police forces and their relations to one another. He has also been asked to examine the recommendations of the Police Commission of 1903 so far as they affect Bengal and to report how far the recommendations concerning the personnel, training and pay of the Police force have been carried out successfully or tried and found by experience to have failed. He will also consider the main proposals of Government made since the Commission and report the extent to which they have been put in force, found successful or unsuccessful, and what remains to be done. Mr. Gourlay will not take formal evidence, but has discussed questions connected with his inquiry with many persons, both officials and non-officials."

Questions and Answers.

By the Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR :—

Recording of complaints and taking up of investigations by local thanas.

*7. (a) Are the Government aware that the people of Calcutta frequently find it difficult to get the local thanas to record their complaints in their diaries or to take up investigations, and that in view of such difficulty the people invariably avoid resorting to the police and rather put up with offences like theft, robbery and depredations of budmashes ?

(b) If so, what action are Government taking to remedy this grievance ?

The Hon'ble MR. KERR replied :—

"Government have received no complaints of this nature and only one instance has been brought to the notice of the Commissioner of Police within the last eighteen months. In that instance, which occurred in April last, the Sub-Inspector who refused to record a complaint was degraded to the rank of Head Constable.

Government would welcome the co-operation of the public in bringing to the notice of the Commissioner of Police, without delay, any instances of a similar nature."

By the Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR :—

Improvement of the position and prospects of Subordinate Indian police officers in the Calcutta Police.

*8. Will the Government be pleased to state what steps, if any, they have taken to improve the position and prospects of subordinate Indian police officers in the Calcutta Police from the rank of constables upwards ?

The Hon'ble MR. KERR replied :—

"The following comparative statement shows the improvements effected after 1905 :—

	Before 1905.	After 1905.
	Rs.	Rs.
Pay of Inspectors ...	100—250	200—300*
„ Sub-Inspectors ...	80—90	125—175*
„ Head Constables ...	14—20	17½—25
„ Constables ...	8—10	10—13

* Plus conveyance allowance.

In 1914 the pay of all grades of Constables and Head Constables was raised by Re. 1. Six new appointments of a rank corresponding to that of Deputy Superintendent in the Provincial Police have recently been sanctioned. The posts carry a salary of Rs. 400, Rs. 450 and Rs. 500 with free quarters and a conveyance allowance of Rs. 50 per month."

By the Hon'ble MAULVI MAZHARUL ANWAR CHAUDHURI :—

Filling of vacancies in the clerical establishment of the office of the Director of Agriculture.

*9. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state how many vacancies there have been in the clerical establishment (including the newly-created seed-store clerkships) in the office of the Director of Agriculture in Calcutta, during the last twelve months, and how many Muhammadans and how many Hindus were appointed to fill those vacancies ?

(b) Was one of those vacancies caused by the transfer of a Muhammadan clerk to some mufassal station, and was this vacancy filled up by a Muhammadan or was a Hindu appointed ?

(c) Is it a fact that so long as the post of Librarian in the office of the department was temporary it was held by a Muhammadan, but that as soon as the post was made permanent it was given to a Hindu ?

Questions and Answers.

(d) How many vacancies have there been in the posts of clerks during the last twelve months in the office of the Deputy Director of Agriculture at Dacca, and how many Muhammadans and how many Hindus were appointed to fill those vacancies?

The Hon'ble MR. BIRLEY replied :—

(a) "There have been six vacancies during the last 12 months, and they have been filled by five Hindus and one Muhammadan.

(b) One vacancy was caused by the transfer of a Muhammadan and it was filled by the appointment of a Hindu.

(c) The post of Librarian was never a temporary post. It was temporarily filled by a Muhammadan, who took leave on account of ill-health. The post is now held by a Hindu who has not been confirmed in the appointment.

(d) There have been two vacancies in the posts of clerks in the office of the Deputy Director of Agriculture at Dacca during the last 12 months: they have been filled by Hindus."

By the Hon'ble MAULVI MAZHARUL ANWAR CHAUDHURI :—

Annual floods caused by the river Ajai.

*10. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether their attention has been drawn to the serious damage to crops and house property in parts of the districts of Burdwan and Birbhum by the annual floods caused by the river Ajai?

(b) Is it a fact that the intensity of these floods has been considerably increased since the construction of the Barharwa-Bandel Railway line?

(c) Are the Government contemplating any measures with a view to prevent or mitigate the ravages of these annual floods?

The Hon'ble MR. COWLEY replied :—

(a) "The damage done by annual floods in the Ajai river has been under the consideration of Government from as far back as 1836.

(b) We have nothing to show that the intensity of the floods in the Ajai river has been increased by the construction of the Barharwa-Bandel Railway line. On the contrary, gauge-readings at Satkahonia show that the highest recorded flood in the Ajai river occurred on the 15th July, 1899. It may be noted that the East Indian Railway line have added no less than 684 running feet of waterway under the railway embankment, between the Ajai and the Kandoor rivers to the north, subsequent to the construction of the Barharwa-Bandel line.

(c) The information before Government is to the effect that any attempt to embank the Ajai river with a view to protect the adjoining country from submersion would be a mistake and would considerably obstruct the natural drainage of the country. This question was fully discussed in 1860 and orders were then issued for the entire abandonment of the Ajai embankments with the exception of the 4 D Schedule embankments 27, 28, 29 and 30."

By the Hon'ble MAULVI MAZHARUL ANWAR CHAUDHURI :—

Posts of Income-tax Assessors in Calcutta.

*11. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state how many Income-tax Assessors there are in Calcutta, and how many of them are Hindus and how many of them are Muhammadans?

(b) When filling the post of an Income-tax Assessor in Calcutta, which fell vacant in 1913, were there not qualified Muhammadan candidates from whom selection could have been made?

(c) Did this post fall vacant again in the beginning of 1915?

(d) If so, was the vacancy advertised?

(e) Has the vacancy been filled up by a Hindu or by a Muhammadan?

Questions and Answers.

The Hon'ble Mr. DONALD replied :—

"(a) There are nine Income-tax Assessors in Calcutta, of whom five are Hindus, three Anglo-Indians and one Muhammadan.

(b) When the post of an Income-tax Assessor fell vacant in 1913, there were two Muhammadan candidates. One of them was not qualified. The application from the other candidate was considered in filling the vacancy.

(c), (d) and (e) A vacancy occurred in February, 1915. This vacancy was not advertised. It was filled by the promotion of a Hindu gentleman from among the District Assessors.

It may be mentioned for the information of the Hon'ble Member that vacancies in the Calcutta Assessorships are not advertised. The usual method of appointment is by promotion from among the District Assessors. The interests of all communities are considered in making appointments. Out of 21,094 assessees paying a total tax of over Rs. 43,00,000 less than 1,000 are Muhammadan assessees, and they contribute only 1·6 per cent. of the total tax paid."

By the Hon'ble NAWAB SAIYID HOSSAM HAIDER CHAUDHURI, KHAN BAHADUR :—

Damage to Comilla town by floods caused by the river Gumti.

*12. (a) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the recent breaches made by floods in several places in the banks of the river Gumti, whereby considerable damage has been caused in the neighbourhood of the town of Comilla ?

(b) Is it not a fact that, before the adjustment of the two provinces, the attention of the late Eastern Bengal and Assam Government was drawn, in its Legislative Council, to the likelihood of these floods occurring ?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state the reason for the apparent delay in coming to a decision in regard to the Gumti Embankment question and, in any case, state what measures they have taken or are taking to prevent the recurrence of the floods ?

The Hon'ble MR. COWLEY replied :—

(b) Yes.

(c) The question referred to in (b) was asked by the Hon'ble Member in the Council meeting held on the 18th March, 1912. He was then informed that during the past 40 years several inquiries had been held under the orders of Government with regard to the Gumti embankment and that the question of permanently controlling the floods by regulating and diverting them down streams on either bank, before the river leaves the hills, was then under investigation by the Tippera Raj. The investigation made in 1912 under the Tippera Raj yielded no result; consequently an Assistant Engineer of the Public Works Department was deputed in the cold weather of 1912-13 to investigate this question in more detail. The report was received by this Government in April 1913 and was not considered conclusive. It was subsequently decided by the Chief Engineer, Lieutenant-Colonel Joly de Lotbinière, that it was desirable to ascertain if it was possible to control the floods of the Gumti river by the construction of storage reservoirs in the hills from which it takes its rise, and it was the intention of this Government to depute an Assistant Engineer to make inquiries into this subject in the cold weather of 1914-15. Unfortunately, it has not yet been possible to depute an officer to this special duty, but in May 1915 the Hon'ble Member in charge inspected the embankments along with the Chief Engineer, the Superintending Engineer and the Manager of the Tippera Raj. The embankments are the property of the Tippera Raj and the repairs are carried out by the Raj under an agreement between the Raja of Hill Tippera and the Government of Bengal. At the time of this inspection the embankments appeared generally to be in a fair state of preservation, and the Chief Engineer gave such instructions as appeared to be necessary. Within about a month, however, an unusually early and unusually severe flood occurred, and in spite of the strenuous efforts of the local officers the breaches in question took place. At the time of the recent visit of the Hon'ble Member in charge most of the breaches with one important exception had been repaired; it has since been reported that all breaches have been completely repaired with the result that the state of the surrounding country is now normal. It should be explained that the breaches took place on the right bank, not on the left bank. The town of Comilla was therefore unaffected, the area damaged being the fields of the tenants of the Raj. The following figures, supplied by the Manager of the Raj estate, show the expenditure incurred by the Raja within recent years upon the repairs of the embankments :—

1910-11	...	...	10,253
1911-12	...	. .	15,424
1912-13	...	...	19,575
1913-14	...	...	15,960
1914-15	...	...	12,098

This answer deals only with the portion of the embankments which lies in the Raj estate and not with the portion, some miles lower down, which lies in the Ganga Mandal estate."

Alleged distress in the district of Tippera owing to the floods caused by the river Gumti.

*13. (a) Are the Government aware of the present distress under which the people of the district of Tippera are suffering owing to the floods caused by the overflowing of the Gumti river ?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state whether they are considering the advisability of prohibiting all private exports of food-grain from the district of Tippera, until the people of that district recover from the present crisis and the prices of food-grain again become normal ?

The Hon'ble MR. BIRLEY replied :—

"(a) Government are aware of the existence of distress in Tippera district. A general statement on the subject will be made by the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell.

(b) To prohibit the export of food-grain from Tippera district would be contrary to the policy of the Government of India, and the proposal cannot be entertained. Moreover Burma rice is plentiful at moderate price and aus is now coming into the market."

By the Hon'ble NAWAB SAIYID HOSSAM HAIDER CHAUDHURI, KHAN BAHADUR :—

Cholera and small-pox epidemics in and about the town of Comilla.

*14. (a) Are the Government aware of the fact that cholera and small-pox broke out lately in a virulent form in and about the town of Comilla ?

(b) What was the cause of these epidemics ?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state what steps (if any) they are taking to check the periodical return of these epidemics ?

(d) Are the Government considering the desirability of introducing the "Drainage Scheme" in the Comilla Municipality ?

The Hon'ble MR. DONALD replied :—

"(a) There have been limited outbreaks both of small-pox and cholera in and around Comilla this year. Reports have been received of the following cases :—

Month.				Small-pox		Cholera.
				Cases.	Deaths.	Cases.	Deaths.
March	...	...	...	14	2	9	5
April	...	...	...	65	2	12	11
May	...	...	...	5	5	24	19
June	...	...	...	3	3*	Nil	Nil

* These three deaths occurred outside the town

(b) Cholera is endemic in Eastern Bengal. Cholera outbreaks in the town of Comilla will not be checked until a proper water-supply is introduced.

Small-pox was imported from Calcutta.

(c) The Tippera District Board entertains four Medical Officers for the purpose of checking outbreaks of cholera. The Municipal Commissioners of Comilla are considering a water-supply project.

Fourteen vaccinators were appointed by the Municipality after the outbreak of small-pox, with the result that the epidemic was speedily reduced.

(d) The Municipal Commissioners are considering the desirability of introducing a drainage scheme in the Comilla Municipality. The scheme has not yet been submitted to Government."

Alleged closing down of the technical schools in the Presidency.

*15. (a) Are the Government aware that some of the technical schools in the Presidency are being closed down for lack of students?

(b) If so, are the Government considering the advisability of attracting boys by some method to join these institutions in larger numbers?

The Hon'ble MR. DONALD replied :—

(a) "Government are aware that there has been a decrease in the number of applicants for admission to the sub-overseer classes attached to various technical schools. The sub-overseer classes attached to the Barisal and Rangpur Schools have been closed and the Midnapur Technical School has been abolished.

(b) The sub-overseer classes are only concerned with the training of an inferior grade of Civil Engineers, and from recent investigations it appears that there is even now an overproduction of Civil Engineers generally and of this grade of Civil Engineers in particular. The problem is to devise a system of technical and industrial schools which will help the industrial development of the Presidency, and this is impossible unless each school is in vital touch with existing local industries. The problem is engaging the attention of Government."

Alleged distress in the districts of Noakhali and Tippera.

*16. (a) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement on the following matters, namely :—

(i) the present extent and intensity of distress that prevails in the districts of Noakhali and Tippera ;

(ii) the places in those districts particularly affected and the number of persons in need of, and those actually obtaining, relief ;

(iii) the prospects of the aus and jute crops in Noakhali and Tippera and in other districts of Eastern Bengal ;

(iv) the extent of injury done to crops and dwelling-houses by floods ?

Questions and Answers.

(b) Is it a fact that besides the agricultural and labouring population the members of the poor bhadralog class in those districts are also great sufferers?

(c) What steps have been taken by Government to reach this class of persons?

(d) Is it a fact that deaths from starvation have taken place in the district of Tippera?

(e) Is it a fact that a large number of people are without any employment in the affected areas?

(f) Will the Government be pleased to state what measures they are taking in this connection?

(g) Is it a fact that the price of rice is on the increase in Eastern Bengal, particularly in the districts of Noakhali and Tippera?

(h) Are the Government considering the desirability of taking any special measures to increase the supply of rice?

The Hon'ble MR. BIRLEY replied :—

"The answers to the several questions are contained in the general statement on the situation in Noakhali and Tippera districts which will be made by the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell."

*17. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the recent house-searches by the Police at Serampur?

(b) Is it the case that the houses of several members of the Chhatra-Serampur Defence Party were searched by the Police?

(c) Is it the case that no incriminating articles were found in any of the searches and that the information upon which the searches were made was false?

(d) Is it the case that the Subdivisional Officer of Serampur congratulated the Defence Party on their public spirit in helping to protect people against wrong-doers?

(e) Is it true that since the house-searches the Defence Party have stopped their work?

(f) Will the Government be pleased to state what action (if any) they are taking in the matter?

The Hon'ble MR. KERR replied :—

"(a) and (b). The answer is in the affirmative.

(c) It is the case that no incriminating articles were found in any of the houses searched. Government are unable to say whether the information upon which the searches were made was true or false.

(d) The Subdivisional Officer expressed his appreciation of the public spirit of the members of the Defence Party.

(e) The answer is in the affirmative.

(f) A full inquiry has been made into the facts of the case. It has been ascertained that there was nothing illegal in the procedure adopted by the Police, but Government are of opinion that the action taken was precipitate and that further inquiries should have been made before the warrants were applied for and issued. This view has been communicated to the officers concerned."

By the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI :—

Case of Dr. Chandi Charan Ghosal and others.

*18. (a) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to a case in which an Honorary Magistrate, Dr. Chandi Charan Ghosal, and two others were convicted by the Subdivisional Magistrate of Serampur, the former under section 114 of the Indian Penal Code, read with sections 225 and 353 of the said Code, and the latter under the said sections 225 and 353?

(b) Is it not the case that the Sessions Judge of Hooghly in quashing the convictions and setting aside the sentences passed a censure on the Konnagar Police and especially on the head-constable who lodged the first information?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state what action they have taken or are taking in connection with the conduct of the head-constable referred to in the judgment of the Sessions Judge?

The Hon'ble Mr. KERR replied :—

(a) "Yes.

(b) Yes; the Judge wrote: 'I would go further and say that the circumstances under which Dr. Ghosal was prosecuted reflect discredit upon the Konnagar Police and particularly upon the head-constable who lodged the first information making allegations now found to be false.'

(c) An inquiry has been held into the case by the Commissioner and the Inspector-General of Police. It appears that the main facts of the case are as follows:—

On the 22nd February constable Chakori Singh arrested an orange seller in the Konnagar bazaar for obstructing the traffic. Some opposition was raised both by the orange seller and by the people in the bazaar. At this stage, Dr. Chandi Charan Ghosal drove up, and after an inquiry into the cause of the disturbance, told the people to take both the constable and the orange seller to the Subdivisional Magistrate. It is admitted that the constable was then assaulted by the crowd. The orange seller was convicted on the same day on his own admission under section 34 (3) of Act V of 1861. In the meantime one of the residents of Konnagar went to the town outpost and informed the head-constable on duty that the police had been assaulted in the bazaar. The head-constable recorded the statement as a first information and forwarded it to the thana police. The head-constable is not an investigating officer and took no further part in the case. He was not therefore responsible for instituting the prosecution against Dr. Chandi Charan Ghosal, and the remarks in the judgment of the Sessions Judge on this point seem to have been made under some misapprehension. Proceedings against Dr. Chandi Charan Ghosal were instituted under the orders of the Assistant Superintendent of Police, Serampur, under whose supervision the investigation was conducted. In deciding to send up the case for trial, the Assistant Superintendent appears to have been influenced by the fact that the constable was undoubtedly assaulted by the crowd and that the orange seller who was arrested for obstructing the traffic had been found guilty and fined. After a careful perusal of the records of the case, Government are not prepared to hold that the Assistant Superintendent was wrong in letting the case go before a Magistrate for trial, and they do not propose to take any further action in the matter."

Alleged official interference with recent Municipal elections at Barisal.

*19. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that in the recent Municipal elections at Barisal the Magistrate interfered with a view to influence the decision against Babu Kailas Chandra Sen?

(b) Is it not the case that the policy of Government is that there should be no official interference with popular elections, municipal or otherwise?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state what action (if any) they are taking in the matter?

Questions and Answers.

The Hon'ble MR. KERR replied :—

"(a) Mr. Strong, Magistrate of Bakarganj, wrote a private letter to the Manager of the Bauphal estate, expressing his opinion on the merits of Babu Kailash Chandra Sen as a Municipal Commissioner and suggesting that some other candidate should be put forward in his place.

(b) It is the policy of Government that there should be no official interference with popular elections, municipal or otherwise, though no orders upon the subject have been issued at any time.

(c) Government have recently issued a circular inviting the attention of Government officers, Executive and Judicial, to the fact that the policy of Government is as has been stated in the reply to the second part of the Hon'ble Member's questions, and in these circumstances they do not propose to take any further action in this matter."

Situation in the famine-stricken tracts in Eastern Bengal

(b) In view of the statement made by the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell that the Bengal Government has only Rs. 10,000 in hand for loans, are they considering the desirability of moving the Government of India for a further grant for the relief of famine in Eastern Bengal?

The Hon'ble MR. BIRLEY replied :—

"The Hon'ble Member is referred to the statement which will be made by the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell."

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS.

Decline of the city of Murshidabad.

By the Hon'ble NAWAB BAHADUR OF MURSHIDABAD :—

I. (a) Is it a fact that the city of Murshidabad is rapidly declining in population and also in importance as an industrial centre?

(b) If so, to what are these causes due?

(c) If the answer to clause (a) be in the affirmative, will the Government be pleased to state what action (if any) they are taking to save the city from further decay and impoverishment?

The following reply by the Hon'ble MR. DONALD was laid on the table :—

(a) "The answer is in the affirmative.

(b) The decline in the population of Murshidabad is due probably to the decline in its importance as an industrial centre, which began since the removal of the seat of Government to Calcutta. The diversion of the traffic from the Bhagirathi river to the Railway and the decay of the silk industry are understood to be the principal causes of the diminution of the importance of the place.

(c) No practicable proposal has been submitted by the Municipality or any other responsible authority for the improvement of public health in Murshidabad. If any such proposals are made they will receive the careful consideration of Government."

By the Hon'ble NAWAB BAHADUR OF MURSHIDABAD :—

Extension of class-rooms in the Nawab Bahadur's Institution at Murshidabad.

II. (a) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the unexpended balance, or surplus, of the funds provided for the management of the Nawab Bahadur's Institution at Murshidabad?

(b) If so, have Government considered the desirability of utilising this sum for the extension of class-rooms in the said institution?

Questions and Answers.

The following reply by the Hon'ble MR. DONALD was laid on the table :—

"(a) & (b) So far as Government are aware there has been no unexpended balance, or surplus, of the funds provided for the management of the Nawab Bahadur's Institution at Murshidabad. The expenditure over 23 years has exceeded the provision which Government undertook to make."

Transfer of the jurisdiction for the trial of certain classes of money suits from Sealdah to Alipore.

III. (a) Is it the case that all suits of a Small Cause Court nature above the value of Rs. 100 and up to the value of Rs. 500, which used to be tried as money suits by the Munsifs at Sealdah, have been ordered to be instituted at Alipore to be tried by a Sub-Judge under the Small Cause Court procedure?

(b) Are the Government aware that this order of transfer has caused hardship to the litigant public and has also deprived them of the right of appeal?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state whether there has been a falling-off in the number of such suits after the order of transfer as compared with the statistics of previous years?

(d) Are the Government considering the desirability of ordering such suits to be instituted before the Subordinate Judge of Sealdah instead of at Alipore?

The following reply by the Hon'ble MR. KERR was laid on the table :—

(a) "The change in jurisdiction was effected by Notification No. 1724 J., dated the 17th April, 1914, which was issued at the instance of the Hon'ble Judges of the High Court. The change affected only that portion of the Sealdah Munsifi, which lies outside the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court at Sealdah.

(b) The Governor General in Council agrees with the Hon'ble Judges that the gain to the public by speedier disposal of cases and reduction of appeals will more than counterbalance any disadvantage arising from the change.

(c) The answer is in the affirmative.

(d) There is no Court of a Subordinate Judge proper at Sealdah. It is presumed that the Hon'ble Member refers to the Court of the Small Cause Court Judge whose jurisdiction is, as already pointed out, entirely separate from that in which the cases referred to fall. Inquiries which have been made show that the amount of work already performed by the Small Cause Court at Sealdah renders it impracticable to extend its jurisdiction as suggested.

As the High Court do not favour a change in the existing arrangements, Government are not disposed to move in the matter."

Extension of the elective system to all municipalities.

IV. (a) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing—

(i) the municipalities in Bengal in which the elective system is in force, and (ii) the municipalities the members of which are wholly nominated by the Government?

(b) With reference to the recent Resolution of the Government of India on Local Self-Government, will the Government be pleased to state whether they are considering the desirability of extending the elective system to municipalities which do not now possess it, and if so, will they be pleased to mention the names of such municipalities?

Questions and Answers.

The following reply by the Hon'ble MR. DONALD was laid on the table :—

(a) "A statement is laid on the table. It will appear that out of 111 Municipalities in Bengal there are only 15, the members of which are wholly nominated by Government.

(b) The recommendations of the Royal Commission upon Decentralization regarding the extension of the elective principle have always been kept in view. The elective system will be extended to those Municipalities which do not at present enjoy the privilege as soon as this can be done without detriment to public interest. The matter is occupying the attention of Government."

Reorganization of the Excise Department.

V. Will the Government be pleased to state the details of the reorganization of the Excise Department and the methods of recruitment for the various offices?

The following answer by the Hon'ble MR. DONALD was laid on the table :—

"The main features of the Reorganization Scheme are—

(1) The formation of a close Excise and Salt service for the Presidency, and the dissociation, as far as possible, from excise work of officers entrusted with revenue and judicial functions.

(2) The creation of two appointments of Deputy Commissioner, on Rs. 850—50—1,000 per mensem, to replace the existing Inspector of Excise and the Assistant Commissioner of Salt in charge of the districts of the 24-Parganas and Khulna. The duties of these officers will consist mainly in inspection and advisory work, the supervision of the preventive staff and the co-ordination of the preventive operations.

(3) The creation of a staff of 26 Excise Superintendents, on pay ranging from Rs. 250 to Rs. 700 per mensem, with an additional probationary Superintendent on Rs. 150 per mensem. The scheme provides for the appointment in each district of a special Excise officer who will hold entire charge of district Excise administration in subordination to the Collector, with regard to whom he will occupy a position similar to that of the Superintendent of Police in police matters. Superintendents will be appointed to all districts, except Howrah, Bogra and Noakhali, in which it is proposed for the present to put an Inspector in charge. The Chief Preventive Officer in Calcutta and the Personal Assistant to the Commissioner of Excise, hitherto recruited from other services, are included in the number of Superintendents.

(4) The improvement of the pay and grading and the strengthening of the numbers of existing distillery, warehouse and preventive staff, so as to ensure greater efficiency in preventive work and in supervision over distilleries and warehouses. Fifty-five Inspectors will be appointed on pay ranging from Rs. 100 to Rs. 250 to replace the old Deputy Inspector class. The number of Sub-Inspectors has been raised from 169 to 237 and their pay from Rs. 30 rising to Rs. 80, to Rs. 50 rising to Rs. 100.

(5) A similar revision of the staff of petty officers, peons and clerks and the amalgamation of the district clerical Excise establishments with the Collectors' establishments.

Superintendents, Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors of Excise and Salt will be recruited in accordance with the rules made on the subject and published under the Financial Department Notification No. 501 S.R., dated the 15th March, 1915, on pages 447—450 of Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 17th idem. The appointments of Deputy Commissioner will be prize appointments, to be filled up by selection from Superintendents."

(b) Has any other district been similarly affected?

(c) Is it a fact that floods have caused serious damage to the standing crops of rice and jute in Eastern Bengal?

(d) Will the Government be pleased to state the extent of the damage so caused?

Internment of Bengalis.

VI A. Will the Government be pleased to state—

(i) the number of Bengalis interned since the beginning of the war,

(ii) their names and position in life,

(iii) the places where they are interned, and

(iv) whether Government are considering the desirability of paying the cost of their maintenance during the period of internment and such charges as may be incurred for conveying them to the places where they are to be interned?

Questions and Answers.

The following answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR was laid on the table:—

"It is understood that the Hon'ble Member refers to the orders which have been issued under rule 3 of the Defence of India Rules, 1915, restraining the movements of certain persons. Such orders have been served on fourteen persons, of whom twelve are now residing at the places assigned in the orders. The order against one person has been held in abeyance pending inquiries which are being made regarding his state of health, while one person has been removed to jail by order of the High Court since the order was served on him. Government do not consider it consistent with public interests to publish in the proceedings of this Council the names and position in life of the persons on whom orders have been served or to give public information as to the places where they have been ordered to reside, but Government will have no objection to my giving the Hon'ble Member or any other Hon'ble Member confidential information on these points. Nine persons have been given an allowance of Rs. 30 a month each, one person has been given an allowance of Rs. 22 a month, and another an allowance of Rs. 20. An allowance of Rs. 30 a month was sanctioned for the man who has since been removed to jail. No allowance is being paid to the person in respect of whom the order has been held in abeyance, while one of the men in respect of whom the order has been passed and is in force has been allowed to continue to work at his trade and is given no allowance. The travelling expenses of eight persons to the places at which they were ordered to reside were paid by Government, and the person in whose case the order was held in abeyance was given Rs. 20 to cover the cost of his return journey from Chittagong to Calcutta. Two persons are residing at the places at which the order was served on them. House accommodation is provided by the Government in all cases except where the persons are allowed to live in their own houses or in those of their relatives."

Dredging of the river Bhagirathi.

VII. With reference to the reply given by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley to my question at the Council meeting of the 6th April, 1915, with regard to the dredging of the river Bhagirathi, will the Government be pleased to state whether they have received the report from Major Hirst and, if so, what orders have been passed thereon?

The following answer by the Hon'ble MR. COWLEY was laid on the table:—

"Owing to Major Hirst's indisposition the report which was expected at the end of May has not yet been received in complete form, but he reports that it will be submitted shortly. Government will then appoint a small Committee to consider Major Hirst's report and to recommend what action should be taken."

Posting of a Sub-Judge at Malda.

VIII. With reference to the reply given by the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming to my question at the Council meeting of the 2nd July, 1914, with regard to the posting of a Sub-Judge at Malda, will the Government be pleased to state whether a final decision has been arrived at in the matter?

The following answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR was laid on the table:—

"The matter has been further considered by Government in consultation with the High Court, who recently advised that the statistics of judicial work in the Rajshahi-Malda district did not justify any permanent addition to the staff employed in that district. The High Court recognised, however, that there were strong administrative grounds for meeting the wishes of the inhabitants of Malda, and suggested that a Subordinate Judge might be posted to Malda temporarily as an experiment, if an officer could be provided without prejudice to the requirements in the matter of additional Subordinate Judges elsewhere. Hostel accommodation for Muhammadan M.A. and M.Sc. students in Calcutta.

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to state how the Muhammadan M.A. and M.Sc. students have hitherto been accommodated ?

The following answer by the Hon'ble MR. DONALD was laid on the table :—

"(a) M.A. and M.Sc. students in Calcutta are either in the University classes or students of the Presidency or Scottish Churches College. There is not at present any provision for accommodating Indian M.A. and M.Sc. students in Government Hostels, but it is understood that the Scottish Churches College does not exclude such students from its hostels.

Increase of pay of process-serving peons attached to Civil Courts.

The following answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR was laid on the table :—

"A scheme for improving the pay of process-serving peons attached to Civil Courts has been formulated and is now under consideration."

By the Hon'ble MAULVI A. K. FAZL-UL-HAQ :—

XI. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state the date on which the Court of Wards took over charge of the estate of Jafarali Khan Panee of Karatiya ?

(b) Is it a fact that there is a Privy Council decree for costs in favour of the estate of Jafarali Khan and others, passed some years ago ?

(c) Is it also a fact that there is a decree of the Original Side of the High Court for an amount exceeding a lakh of rupees against one Debendra Lal Mullick and others, of Calcutta, in favour of Jafarali Khan and others, passed several years ago ?

(d) If so, will the Government be pleased to state why these decrees have not been executed and the amount on realization utilized in paying off the debts of the said Jafarali Khan ?

(e) Is it a fact that properties belonging to the estate are at present being sold to pay off debts ?

(f) Is it true that Jafarali Khan brought to the notice of the Court of Wards the fact that he has been dispossessed of a certain share of his ancestral property ?

(g) Are the Government taking any steps, through the Court of Wards, with the object of instituting suits to enforce these claims ?

(h) Is it a fact that the total debts of Jafarali Khan do not exceed Rs. 5,000 and that the annual income of Jafarali Khan exceeds Rs. 25,000 ?

(i) Will the Government kindly state why these debts have not yet been liquidated ?

Distress in the Noakhali and Tippera districts—Mr. Beatson Bell.

(j) Is it a fact that several claims in favour of the estate of Jafarali Khan have become barred by limitation?

(k) If so, will the Government kindly state the circumstances which made such a state of affairs possible?

(l) Is it a fact that Jafarali Khan has made repeated endeavours to get his estate released from the Court of Wards?

(m) Is it also a fact that he has offered to pay off the debt on his estate from his own pocket?

(n) Will the Government kindly state the circumstances under which the Court of Wards still retains control of the estate?

The following answer by the Hon'ble MR. BIRLEY was laid on the table :—

"The statutory power of releasing estates from the Court of Wards is vested in the Board of Revenue by virtue of section 9(c) of Bengal Act IX of 1879. A petition for the release of the estate of Jafarali Khan has been presented to the Board of Revenue and they are now engaged in inquiring into that petition. The Governor in Council has no doubt that the Board of Revenue will give due consideration to all the facts, or alleged facts, embodied in the question of the Hon'ble Member. If Jafarali Khan is dissatisfied with the orders ultimately passed by the Board of Revenue, it is open to him to move the Local Government for a revision of these orders. At present the Governor in Council has no detailed information regarding most of the matters mentioned in this question."

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 2A.

Statement by the Hon'ble Mr. BEATSON BELL, regarding distress in the Noakhali and Tippera districts.

"MY LORD,

As several questions have been asked regarding distress in the districts of Tippera and Noakhali, it will be convenient if I make a general statement on this subject. I have recently toured in the five subdivisions of these districts. I have made a point of visiting the tracts where the situation was said to be worst. Everywhere I have gone into the villages and conversed with the people in their homes.

Tippera has an area of 2,624 square miles and a population of 2,430,138 persons. Noakhali has an area of 1,641 square miles and a population of 1,302,090 persons. Taking the two districts together, the area under jute in 1914 was 365,862 acres and the outturn 5,962,950 maunds. Owing to the war the cultivators lost, at a moderate estimate, four rupees on every maund of jute. In other words, the cash which came to these two districts was less than what the cultivators expected by Rs. 2,38,50,800. This is the root cause of the distress, and it is common to all the jute-producting districts. Three special causes have, however, been in operation in Tippera and Noakhali which have rendered their condition worse than those of the surrounding districts. In the first place, the winter rice crop of 1914-15 suffered much—particularly in Chandpur subdivision and in Noakhali Sadar—from the disease known as ufra. In the second place, the districts of Tippera and Noakhali contain an unusually large number of landless labourers: in ordinary years these men earn good wages by working in the jute and rice fields of raiyats, sometimes in their own districts and sometimes elsewhere. This year owing to the general shortage of cash and to the restriction in the area under jute the demand for labour has been greatly reduced and many of the landless labourers of Noakhali and Tippera have been thrown out of work. In the third place, there have been serious floods in portions of these two districts.

In considering the intensity of distress in any tract the first question which naturally arises is the price of foodstuffs. It is satisfactory to note that in this respect the suituation has not been serious. The following figures show the price per maund of common rice (local aman) during April, May and June of the last three years :—

——	April.	May.	June.	Average.
	Rs. A.	Rs. A.	Rs. A.	Rs. A.
Tippera (Comilla) 1913 ...	5 0	4 11	4 13	4 13
Tippera (Comilla) 1914 ...	5 7	5 10	6 0	5 11
Tippera (Comilla) 1915 ...	5 5	5 11	6 0	5 10
Noakhali ... 1913 ...	4 6	4 12	4 2	4 7
Noakhali ... 1914 ...	5 5	5 7	5 8	5 6
Noakhali ... 1915 ...	5 8	5 13	5 10	5 10

It should also be noted that there have been plentiful imports of Burma rice which has been selling in the bazars throughout the districts at about Rs. 4-8, or even less, per maund. New aus rice is now in the market at about Rs. 5-2 per maund. It has been suggested in one question that the poorer classes of bhadralok, presumably those with small fixed incomes, have suffered specially and therefore require special measures of relief. From the figures just given it seems that this apprehension is not serious. Apart from sugar and salt (which owing to the war have risen in price throughout the province) there has been no material rise in the cost of living in Noakhali and Tippera : on the contrary, the fall in wages consequent on the reduced demand for labour has tended to reduce the cost of living in the case of those with small fixed incomes. The condition of the poorer bhadralok has not been overlooked either by Government or by non-official workers, but undoubtedly the chief sufferers have been the cultivators, the labouring classes and (in consequence) the aged and crippled beggars.

The second point to which attention is naturally drawn is the death-rate. Many sensational accounts of death from starvation have appeared in the press. We can only say that we have investigated every case carefully and in no case are we satisfied that death has been due to this cause. It is indeed most unlikely, in view of the systematic efforts of official and non-official workers in all parts of the districts, that any one should die of hunger. The actual deaths from all causes in the two districts have been—

Tippera	29,578	26,679	27,690
Noakhali	17,719	16,942	16,597

Another point which deserves notice is the state of credit, the borrowing power, of the two districts. It is usual for jute cultivators to live on borrowed money while the crop is growing. This year, owing to the shortage of cash already mentioned, the money-lenders have undoubtedly restricted their business to a great extent. Statements have been made to the effect that money-lenders have entirely closed their business, but this is hardly borne out by facts. An examination of the figures in the Registration Offices of Tippera shows that, apart from mortgages on land, 989 money bonds were registered during the first half of 1915, as against 1,401 money bonds in the same period of 1914. I noticed somewhat similar figures in the Registration Offices of Noakhali. The rate of interest in recent bonds has averaged about Rs. 4-7 per cent. per month.

Finally, as regards the physical state of the country and the standing crops, it may be said at once that throughout the greater part of the two districts the state of the standing crops—aus, jute and aman—leaves nothing to be desired. Aus and jute are now being harvested. Aus, as already noticed, is selling at Rs. 5-2. At a mufassal market, which I personally visited in the middle of July I found the price of new jute to vary from Rs. 6-12 to Rs. 8 per maund according to the quality. While this satisfactory state of affairs exists throughout the greater part of the area there are certain tracts where things are very different. The year has been marked by early and violent floods. The river Gumti burst its right embankment at several places. This was on 9th June, and it was not until more than a month that the landlords who own the embankment completed the repairs. Meanwhile the water poured upon the fields of their raiyats. There were similar floods on the banks of the Buri river in Tippera and the Muhari river in the Feni subdivision of Noakhali. Lowlands in the area where Noakhali subdivision adjoins Chandpur subdivision, and also lowlands in the northern part of Brahmanbaria subdivision suffered seriously from the floods of June. The last-named area also suffered from a recrudescence in July of floods in Sylhet and Cachar. I have visited a great many of the flooded villages in Tippera and Noakhali, and I can vouch for the fact that in considerable areas the broad-cast aman crop—which is the crop on which these villages mainly rely—has been destroyed beyond redemption. The estimated area of serious flooding is 250 square miles in Tippera and 30 square miles in Noakhali.

I now turn to the remedial measures which have been and which are being taken. As the conditions are totally different from those contemplated by the Famine Code, and as, in the greater part of the districts, the distress is purely temporary and will disappear when the standing autumn crops are reaped, we decided that we would not be justified in making any formal declaration of 'famine' and in adopting the elaborate procedure of the Famine Code. The measures which we adopted were threefold and the code which we advised the workers, official and non-official, to follow was the code of common sense. In the first place, District Boards have undertaken special works without the intervention of contractors. These are not relief works or famine works in the technical sense. The works have generally consisted in removing jungle from tanks and roads and in one case (a work which His Excellency personally inspected) about 500 people have been employed in metalling an important road. In Noakhali, about 1,000 tanks have been cleaned of weeds, the cost being debited to the money which the District Board had wisely set aside for the 'Improvement of Water-supply.' The workers on these special works are usually paid four annas per day, boys getting half rates. Up to date Tippera has employed 34,240 workers at an expenditure of Rs. 12,500 and Noakhali 64,737 workers at an expenditure of Rs. 12,138. The second remedial measure has been the distribution of gratuitous relief, generally in the form of doles of rice, to those who are short of food, but physically unable to work on the special works of the District Board. The House will remember that, when the current budget was under discussion, the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur asked me to explain why we had made an entry of Rs. 50,000 for gratuitous relief, and the House will remember that I replied as follows :—

'An exactly similar sum was put down in the year which has just closed. We thought it wise to make the provision in view of the distress which might still be prevalent in the Burdwan Division. I am glad to say that we had only to spend Rs. 2,000 of that amount. But although last year we spent only Rs. 2,000, we considered it wise in the present year to repeat the full allotment of Rs. 50,000. We do not know when or where it will be required. We trust it will not be required at all, but all will agree that it is a prudent and considerate provision.'

When the present trouble arose I was truly thankful that we had this grant at out disposal, and were able not only to meet to the full the demands of the local officers, but even to give them rather more than they asked for. Up to date, we have actually allotted Rs. 30,000 for gratuitous relief in Tippera and Noakhali. There have also been considerable donations from private sources. In many cases the contributions from Government and the contributions from private sources have been mingled in a common fund, administered by private workers. The latest figures for gratuitous relief show—

Distress in the Noakhali and Tippera districts—Mr. Beatson Bell.

Tippera Rs. 6,000 distributed to 11,000 persons.
Noakhali Rs. 18,492 distributed to 56,129 persons.

In this, of course, is not included all the quiet charity which is not brought to the notice of any recognised committee, official or non-official—the charity where the giver's left hand knows not what his right hand is doing. I take this opportunity of thanking the honorary workers for all they have done. It is with special satisfaction that I thank the presidents of panchayats for their loyal co-operation with the Circle officers. The zeal and local knowledge of the presidents have been an asset of the first value. The last and largest of the remedial measures which we have adopted has been the distribution of agricultural loans. One of the questions which has been asked is based on a statement (which I did not make) to the effect that on 7th July our available balance for agricultural loans was only Rs. 10,000. I must have been misunderstood, for, as a matter of fact, our available balance on that day was Rs. 30,000. What, however, was the exact balance on that day is no longer of much practical importance. The essential facts are these—that in the budget as passed the allotment for agricultural loans for the whole province was only Rs. 2,50,000 (no one, as far as I remember, criticised this as being too small); that the divisions other than Chittagong have been allotted Rs. 2,20,000, every rupee of which they will require ; and that the sum originally available for Chittagong Division was therefore only Rs. 30,000. This would have been serious, but the House will be glad to learn that by means of gradual reappropriations from other allotments we have been able to place a total sum of three lakhs of rupees at the disposal of the Commissioner of Chittagong for the purpose of agricultural loans, and that we have still some money in hand in case further loans are required either in Chittagong Division or elsewhere. So far, we have not found it necessary to apply to the Government of India for an additional allotment of loans. According to the latest reports the sum actually distributed as loans in Tippera and Noakhali has been Rs. 1,11,395. The loans are being given out on joint bonds. The money is being distributed in the villages according to the simplest possible procedure, and those who have land are being encouraged to take into their joint bonds a few who have no land.

As regards the length of time during which these remedial measures will be continued. it is hoped that, so far as the unflooded area is concerned, the special works of the District Boards, and the distribution of gratuitous rice, will no longer be necessary and may safely be discontinued after the first week of August. In neither case, in the opinion of this Government. should the cessation be made too suddenly. The matter will be left to the discretion of the local authorities and the case of the flooded tracts is being brought specially to their notice. The distribution of the remaining money for agricultural loans will be spread over different periods in different localities, according to circumstances. In the areas which have not been flooded few further loans, if any, will now be required. Loans will continue to be distributed to persons in the flooded area, and also to persons whose houses have been diluviated near the town of Noakhali. In the former case the loans will be given at the season when they will be of most real use to the cultivators to enable them to prepare their next crop and to carry on until that crop is reaped. In the case of persons whose houses have been diluviated the loans will naturally be given at the time they desire to reconstruct their houses. It is not proposed to issue hard-and-fast rules to the Collectors regarding the time of distributing the remaining loans, but it is probable that the bulk of the money will be distributed between now and December, 1915. Discretion is also being left to the Collectors as to the dates on which the instalments of the loans will be repaid. It is thought that the raiyats will generally prefer to repay the loan either in one instalment at the harvest of the next crop, or in two instalments spread over the next two harvests. Lastly, the Collectors are being asked to see that when the time comes the money is collected as far as possible in the villages with a minimum use of the certificate procedure.

I have only to add that when we issued a communiqué on 22nd June we were able to announce a grant of one lakh for loans and Rs. 10,000 for gratuitous relief. From the statement which I have made to-day the House will see that as the situation has developed and as funds have become available we have been able to increase each of these grants to three times their original amount."

LEGISLATIVE BUSINESS.

THE BENGAL DECENTRALIZATION BILL, 1915.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEMS NOS. 3 AND 4.

3. The Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell moved for leave to introduce a Bill to facilitate the administration of certain enactments in force in Bengal.

He said :—

"My Lord, I move for leave to introduce a Bill to decentralize and otherwise to facilitate the administration of certain enactments in force in Bengal.

The Bill has already been published and circulated, and I have little to add to what has been set forth in the Statement of Objects and Reasons. The Bill is the outcome of the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Decentralization. A general delegation Bill was first proposed and introduced into the Supreme Council. This Bill gave no details : it simply authorized Government to delegate powers by executive order from a superior to an inferior authority. The Bill was criticised on the ground that it was a 'blank cheque', a 'pig in a poke', and so on. The Bill was ultimately withdrawn and detailed legislation was undertaken. The Supreme Council has already passed a detailed Act dealing with Imperial laws, and we have now to consider similar legislation dealing with our provincial laws. 'Decentralization' is a popular cry with all sections of the community. If any one proposes 'decentralization', there is at once a chorus of approval from officials and non-officials, Indians and Europeans. 'Yes, let us have decentralization. Down with Red Tape! Down with the Circumlocution Office!' But as soon as we descend to details, differences of opinion are apt to arise. In fact, every one believes in 'decentralization', but every one puts a different meaning to the word. For instance, there are many officials, European and Indian, who would reply, if asked to define decentralization, 'Decentralization is an ideal system under which I am given full power to interfere with all the actions of my subordinates, while at the same time my superiors are restrained in every possible way from interfering with my actions.' Others, especially members of the legal profession, would define decentralization 'as a system under which the original order is passed by the lowest possible authority, coupled with an ample series of appeals up to the highest possible authority.' We recognize that we cannot please every one, so we have tried in the Bill before the House to adopt a reasonable and moderate course. We have based our proposals upon practical experience. We have examined our provincial Acts in great detail. Where we have found that in actual practice the order has always been passed by a lower authority and that the confirmation of the superior authority has become a mere formality, we propose to amend the law so as to place the legal responsibility in the proper place—that is to say, in the authority which exercises the power de facto. I take a few cases at random from the schedules of our Bill. Section 64 of the Land Registration Act lays down a table of fees to be paid on the registration of transfers. It also empowers the Board of Revenue to remit these fees in special cases. It has been found by actual practice that when the Commissioner recommends the remission of a fee the Board invariably ratifies his proposal. We therefore ask that the power of remitting these fees should be definitely vested in the Commissioner. Again, in section 101 of the Cess Act it is laid down that the sanction of the Commissioner is necessary before the Collector can depute one of his Deputy Collectors to do the ordinary work of 'Cess Deputy Collector.' In actual practice the Commissioner always allows the Collector to select such Deputy Collector as he sees fit. We propose to amend the law so that these routine references to the Commissioner are no longer necessary. Similarly, in the Municipal Act we propose to transfer to the Commissioner certain powers of control which are nominally exercised by the Local Government, but are exercised in actual practice by the Commissioner, the Local Government formally confirming his suggestions. In this Act, however, we propose in most cases to make the orders of the Commissioner subject to the administrative control of the Local Government. At this stage I need not weary the House by further details. Each proposal will be examined on its merits in Select Committee and again in full Council. I may add that since the Bill was published a few more proposals, relating mainly to the Cess Act, have been put forward. These also will be examined in Select Committee. Finally, as explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, we have refrained from dealing with any Act which has not been in force for at least five years. This is a necessary consequence of our decision to act throughout upon the basis of practical experience."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"My Lord, there is just one matter in regard to which I should like to have a word of explanation from the Hon'ble Member. Decentralization is a captivating word. The Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell, when moving for leave to introduce the Bill, expressed a hope that it would be acceptable to this side of the House as it was acceptable to officials as well as non-officials, to Europeans as well as Indians. We are all for decentralization. But, my Lord, it is necessary that there should be reserved some measure of control to higher authorities in respect of certain matters. One of the matters which I think the Hon'ble Member has just mentioned is this: That in respect of nominations made by the Commissioner of the Division—which nominations are now confirmed by the Government—the final authority will be the Commissioners of the Divisions. My Lord, I have been connected with a municipality for the last 30 years, and I have found that the higher we mount the purer becomes the atmosphere, and that the nominations made by the Magistrates and confirmed by the Commissioners of Divisions have not been nominations which ought to have been accepted. The power as reserved by Government has exercised a beneficent influence upon the discretion of the Commissioner. If the object of the Bill is to take away this power from the Government, then I for one would deem it my duty to oppose this Bill in the interest of Local Self-Government, that is, if the power be withdrawn from the Government and vested in subordinate authorities.

I am afraid subordinate authorities are subject to local influences and they may not exercise that power in a manner acceptable to the higher authorities. That is the view which I hold, and if I am wrong, I hope the Hon'ble Member will correct me. But if I am right, I shall deem it my duty to oppose this Bill."

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL said :—

"That is one of the matters which I have already explained. The Commissioner will exercise his powers subject to the administrative control of the Local Government."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"I just want to know this. All these nominations are now made by the Local Government on the recommendations made by the Commissioners. Are we to understand that, after this Bill is passed, the orders of the Commissioners will be final and that the matters will not be laid before the Local Government?"

The Bengal Decentralization Bill, 1915—Babu S. N. Banerji—Mr. Beatson Bell.

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL said :—

"As I have said, the orders of the Commissioners will be subject to the control of the Local Government."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"The present practice is that these nominations are not gazetted until they are confirmed by the Local Government."

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL said :—

"I think that, under the Bill as it now stands, the Commissioner will gazette his nominations, and if any one is dissatisfied with them he can move the Local Government."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"My Lord, we have a number of Municipal Commissioners on this Council. My friend the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray is the chairman of a suburban municipality, and my friend the Hon'ble Maharaja Ranajit Sinha of Nashipur is also the chairman of a mufassal municipality. We have got quite a good volume of experienced opinion with regard to this matter. I hope that my friend the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell will defer to that opinion so far as this particular amendment is concerned."

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL said :—

My Lord, I rise to a point of order. This seems to be a question for the Select Committee.

[The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Banerji was called to order.]

The motion was then put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell moved that the said Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Monahan, the Hon'ble Mr. De, the Hon'ble Mr. Birley, the Hon'ble Sir S. P. Sinha, the Hon'ble Sir Bijay Chand Mahtab, K.C.S.I., K.C.I.E., I.O.M., Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan, the Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq, the Hon'ble Rai Hari Mohan Chandra Bahadur and the mover, with instructions to circulate their report in time for its consideration at the meeting of the Council to be held in September next.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"My Lord, I think I am now in order. I have already submitted for your Excellency's consideration the objection which we on this side of the House feel with regard to this Bill.

It is really a very disagreeable thing to speak anything about the personnel of the Select Committee, but I am sorry to say that there is not a single gentleman on the Committee who has good municipal experience——"

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL, interrupting, said :—

"I think the Hon'ble Rai Hari Mohan Chandra Bahadur is a Municipal Commissioner."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"He is a nominated Commissioner of a municipality."

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL said :—

"But he was elected to the Council by the Municipalities of the Rajshahi Division."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"My Lord, what we feel is this : Your Excellency has proposed a Select Committee for the purpose of considering, among other things, municipal matters, but I am sorry to say that it does not consist of any gentlemen possessing considerable municipal experience. I think, my Lord, that there ought to be at least some additions to that Committee. With your Excellency's permission, I would move that either my friend the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray or the Hon'ble Maharaja Ranajit Sinha of Nashipur be added to the Select Committee."

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL said :—

"My Lord, I have no objection to either of these gentlemen being appointed to the Select Committee, but we must then have another official member added to the Committee."

[It was eventually decided to add the names of the Hon'ble Mr. Lang and the Hon'ble Babu S. N. Banerji to the Select Committee.]

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, I find that this Bill contains certain amendments of the Calcutta Port Act. As my friend the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Banerji has said, 'decentralization' is a very captivating word. Although we are all advocates of self-government, and we are all anxious to have as much power entrusted to local bodies as possible, it is my duty to point out that this amendment of section 51 of the Calcutta Port Act is one which should not be introduced into this Bill.

My Lord, at present under the powers vested in the Calcutta Port Commissioners, they can sanction estimates not exceeding Rs. 50,000 and estimates above that amount are subject to the sanction of the Local Government. What is now proposed—and this is a very important principle—is that they should be empowered to sanction estimates up to two lakhs of rupees without the sanction of the Local Government. I have the honour to belong to some local bodies in Calcutta and none would rejoice as much as I would to see more power given to local bodies. But I have also great faith in the Government established as it now is—a Governor in Council. I submit, my Lord, that all estimates and contracts above Rs. 50,000 or a certain sum of money laid down in this Act should be subject to the scrutiny and sanction of the Local Government. There is often a divergence of opinion between the executive and a certain section of the members of local bodies, and it is not infrequently the case that the executive carries with the help of the majority certain estimates which might otherwise have been scrutinized by the Government, and the objections taken by the minority might be based on good grounds. The amendment which is now sought to be introduced will apply also to other Acts, namely, the Calcutta Municipal Act and the Calcutta Improvement Act, and the power now exercised by these local bodies will be increased to the extent of two lakhs of rupees without reference to the Local Government. Although, as I have said, I belong to two of these local bodies, I would strongly oppose any increase of financial power given to them or to any other body without the supervision, scrutiny and control of the Local Government. There is a great safeguard in the Local Government criticising carefully every proposal that comes up to them; for instance, if the Corporation of Calcutta or the Calcutta Improvement Trust or the Calcutta Port Trust sanction an estimate which involves an expenditure of two lakhs of rupees, but a minority of the members consider that such a large sum need not be spent, there would be absolutely no remedy, because the chairman and his majority will always carry the day. Having regard to this danger, it is necessary that the law as it now stands should continue. Speaking on behalf of the community I represent in this Council, I may say that we shall be glad if this power be retained in the hands of Government."

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL said :—

"My Lord, at this stage we are only concerned with general principles. Surely the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur does not oppose the whole principle of the Bill because we have proposed to raise the power of the Calcutta Port Trust to sanction estimates from half a lakh to two lakhs of rupees. I take it that he thinks that two lakhs is rather too high. If that is so, it is really a matter for the Select Committee. If he is in favour of the general principle of decentralization, we shall be quite willing to consider this question fully in the Select Committee."

Amendment of the Bengal Legislative Rules, 1912—Mr. Lyon.

The motion was then put in the following form and agreed to :—

That the said Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell, the Hon'ble Mr. Monahan, the Hon'ble Mr. Lang, the Hon'ble Mr. De, the Hon'ble Mr. Birley, the Hon'ble Sir S. P. Sinha, the Hon'ble Sir Bijay Chand Mahtab. K.C.S.I., K.C.I.E., I.O.M., Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan, the Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq, the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Banerji and the Hon'ble Rai Hari Mohan Chandra Bahadur with instructions to circulate their report in time for its consideration at the meeting of the Council in September next.

THE BENGAL LEGISLATIVE RULES, 1912.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 5.

5. The Hon'ble Mr. Lyon moved that for rule 29 of the Bengal Legislative Rules, 1912, the following be substituted, namely :—

"29. (1) Any Member desiring to move for leave to introduce a Bill in accordance with the provisions of section 37 or section 38 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861, shall give the Secretary at least two months' previous notice of his intention and shall, together with the notice, send a copy of the Bill and a full Statement of Objects and Reasons.

Introduction of Bills.

24 & 25 Vict., c. 67.

(2) If, after the expiration of the said period, such motion be carried in Council, the Secretary shall cause the Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons, to be printed (if not already in print), and shall send a copy to each Member, and the Bill shall thereupon be deemed to have been introduced in Council :

Provided that the President shall not permit the introduction of any Bill which requires the previous sanction of—

(a) the Governor, under section 38 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861, or

24 & 25 Vict., c. 67.

(b) the Governor General, under—

(i) section 43 of the said Act, or

(ii) section 5 of the Indian Councils Act, 1892,

55 & 56 Vict., c. 14.

as the case may be, unless and until such sanction has been duly accorded thereto.

He said :—

"My Lord, I need not detain the Council for any length of time, as this proposal has already been discussed with several non-official members of Council and has received their approval, and has also been circulated to all members without our receiving any notice of amendment to it.

The object of the amendment is to prolong the period of notice to be given by the author of a private Bill before he asks for permission to introduce it into this Council. It is, I may venture to say, a simple amendment which will obviously facilitate the running of the Legislative machine and will secure the proper consideration of Bills presented to Council at the earliest stage, thus saving possible waste of time and friction later on.

Bills passed by this Council must receive the assent of the Governor-General before they can become law, and may be eventually disallowed by His Majesty the King-Emperor at a later stage. It is accordingly desirable that an opportunity should be given to the Governor General and the Secretary of State to intimate any radical objections which may in their opinion exist to the provisions of any Bill which it is proposed to introduce into this Council before its introduction is debated.

A reference to the proviso to the new rule will also shew that the law prohibits the introduction of certain Bills into the Provincial Council without the previous sanction of the Governor of Bengal or the Governor General of India. Such Bills are (1) measures which affect the public revenues of the Presidency or by which any charge is to be imposed on such revenues, (2) Bills which fall into any of the eight categories mentioned in section 43 of the Indian Councils Act of 1861, and (3) Bills which propose the repeal or amendment of any laws or regulations passed by legislatures other than this Council. While it will be at once obvious in most cases whether a Bill does or does not come within these sections of the law, there may be some cases in which it is difficult to determine the point, and it is desirable in the interests of this Council, in order to avoid our entering upon barren proceedings, that these Bills should be thoroughly examined with reference to these provisions of the law before they are introduced into this Council.

For these reasons, I believe that the amendment of our Rules which I have the honour to propose will meet with the approval of Hon'ble Members."

The motion was put and agreed to.

RESOLUTIONS.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEMS Nos. 6 & 7.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Banerji moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the necessary measures be taken, as soon as it may be convenient, to give effect to the recommendations made by Mr. Swan in his Report on the Industrial Development of Bengal.

He said :—

"My Lord, I hope and trust that your Excellency's Government will see their way to accept this Resolution. I am encouraged in this hope by the attitude of your Excellency's Government in regard to the question of the development of our industries, an attitude which is in entire conformity with the policy of the Government of India. My Lord, the appointment of Mr. Swan as a special officer to enquire into and report upon our industries would be a meaningless proceeding unless it implied that it was the firm resolve of your Excellency's Government to pursue a definite and decisive policy for the promotion of our industries. As this is the first opportunity we have of discussing Mr. Swan's Report, I will say this—that his appointment gave great public satisfaction. His report, remarkable for its brevity and directness of purpose, has been read with interest, and I may add, with profit by an admiring public, and we now appeal to your Excellency's Government to give effect to its leading recommendations with as little delay as practicable. I am entitled, my Lord, to make this appeal, because Mr. Swan's report follows closely the lines of the policy of your Excellency's Government in this matter.

The policy of your Excellency's Government was laid down with clearness and emphasis by the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell on the occasion of the Budget debate in April last. He said in substance, I need not quote the exact words, that whatever their personal convictions might be, whether they were free traders or heretics (I am inclined to think that the Hon'ble Member belongs to the class of heretics), as a Government they were bound to follow the policy laid down by the Government of India and the despatches of the Secretary of State. To them they looked for inspiration and guidance, like the cowboy who every evening turned to the prayer which he had framed and exclaimed 'Them's my sentiments.' The Hon'ble Member added that within the limitations laid down by the Government of India, they were prepared to do all that was humanly possible for the encouragement of our industries. No assurance could be more sympathetic, or more hopeful or more encouraging. Now what are the limitations imposed by the Government of India? We turn to them for guidance. The policy of the Government of India was laid down by the Hon'ble Sir William Clark, the Member for Commerce and Industries, in the course of a debate in the Imperial Legislative Council on this question which took place on the 24th February last. These are his words :—

> New industries cannot, under the stimulus of a few months' accidental shelter from competition, spring fully developed into existence. Such forced growths would be liable to wither like hot-house flowers at the first cold blast of adversity. But there is a practical field for effort where Indian manufacturers are already producing goods of a similar type to those now imported from countries with which we are at war. These industries have proved themselves hardy enough to weather the stress of competition, and for them the opportunity is obvious. They have the chance now of pushing their goods ; of establishing connections which it is to be hoped they will be able to preserve after the war ; and of increasing their production : thus becoming able to reduce their prices and so be much more formidable competitors, should they again have to compete with cheap German and Austrian goods. Expansion of this kind does not necessarily require large expenditure of capital. Such a programme may sound dull and unambitious as compared with the larger visions, which the Hon'ble Mover has adumbrated, of new industries springing into life throughout India, but all the same it is a very sure and useful line of development. It must be remembered that there is a very considerable number of articles now imported from Germany and Austria, which are also produced in this country, such as certain classes of woollens and cottons ; certain types of glassware, including such special Indian articles as bangles and personal ornaments, and fancy goods generally ; various kinds of earthenware and celluloid manufactures, pencils, matches, articles of aluminium and so on. To the producers of all these the present situation affords a very real opportunity.

Now here we have a clear enunciation of the policy of the Government of India which is to be the guiding principle of the Government of Bengal and of all other Local Governments. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Commerce Department deprecated the starting of new industries, which he thought would be crushed out of existence by a withering competition after the war ; but he added that, in regard to certain old industries, the time was opportune for further development : and here we are entitled according to the declared policy of the Government itself to seek from it every encouragement, both moral support and active co-operation ; and, my Lord, it is in connection with these industries that Mr. Swan makes his recommendations. The situation, therefore, is this—the policy of the Government of India is the policy of the Government of Bengal, and Mr. Swan's recommendations impart a definite and concrete shape to that policy by indicating the line of work which should be followed.

Mr. Swan starts with the proposition that 'the encouragement of Government might take a more active form than it has hitherto done.' That is the keynote of his report. My Lord, we who belong to the educated community are all protectionists ; we believe that the aid and encouragement of Government is necessary to foster and stimulate our infant industries. We have high authority on our side. Mr. Austen Chamberlain, the present Secretary of State for India, is a protectionist ; and in his preface to Sir Roper Lethbridge's book he has emphatically declared his protectionist principles as regards Indian industries. Starting with the proposition that there should be more active encouragement of our industries on the part of Government, Mr. Swan recommends that the Government of Bengal should follow the example of the Government of Madras and begin with experiments in connection with some of our industries, such as, for instance, glass-making and the manufacture of matches. Mr. Swan is of opinion that facilities should be given in respect of some of the industries. For instance, he recommends that the Forest Department should make special arrangements for the supply of suitable wood on favourable terms to such industries as matches, pen and pencil making. I had a talk with the proprietor of one of the match factories, and he told me (and I think he repeated his statement to Mr. Swan) that he had enormous difficulties in securing suitable wood from the Kurseong forests. I hope these difficulties are now over and the necessary facilities have been given to match manufacturers for the supply of wood. In this connection it may not be out of place to refer to the question of railway freight. Mr. Swan says in his report :—

> Another difficulty is the cost of freight. It may not be possible to obtain a full waggon-load of suitable timber in one neighbourhood, but the railways charge freight not for the actual weight carried, but for the full capacity of the waggon. In one case the actual load was 231 maunds and the charge was for 551 maunds. I should like to recommend that, in such cases, State railways at least should only charge for the actual weight carried.

My Lord, when foreign Governments subsidize their industries and feed them with their bounties in order that they may compete in the Indian market, is it too much to ask the Government to reduce the railway freights for the transport of swadeshi articles or of the raw material needed for them, upon railways owned by the State? My Lord, cheap German and Austrian manufactures have indeed disappeared ; but the Indian market is being flooded with Japanese goods ; and behind the industrial enterprise of Japan are the vast resources of the Japanese Government. What is our Government doing? Why should we not have our own articles, manufactured by our own people, so that the wealth of the country may remain in the country? The Government must really make a departure from its past policy and actively participate in the encouragement of our industries.

Mr. Swan recommends that banking facilities should be afforded to our industries. He does not indeed say so in so many words ; but no one reading the report can resist the impression that that is a recommendation which, if unfettered by official reserve, he would strongly urge. He mentions industry after industry which, he says, suffers through lack of capital, and he adds at the end of each paragraph the doleful remark : 'I was unable to assist.' This, he says, in connection with tanning, the manufacture of glass and matches and combs. With regard to the last, I understand that your Excellency was pleased to visit the Comb Factory at Jessore and was highly pleased with what you saw. Your Excellency was pleased to observe : 'I feel sure Government would wish to help any local industry if it could do so without departing from principles which it believes ought to underlie its policy.' Now with regard to this lack of capital, is it not possible for the Presidency Banks, which receive large sums of money from the Government, to help our industries? All such aid must undoubtedly proceed upon business principles. But there is a feeling that the banks are timid in advancing money to Indian concerns. An expression of the sympathy of the Government and its desire that such advances should be made where reasonable guarantees are forthcoming would ease the situation and help our struggling industries.

My Lord, one of the most important recommendations made by Mr. Swan is the creation of Co-operative Credit Societies among cottage workers—such as cotton-weavers, silk-weavers and brass-workers. The officer in charge would assist in the purchase of raw materials and find markets for the finished material. Mr. Swan tells us that he has discussed this question with the Registrar of Co-operative Credit Societies, who has made a start in one or two centres and has submitted proposals to Government for extending his operations. I may add that your Excellency's Government has already accepted a Resolution in favour of the establishment of Co-operative Credit Societies for cottage industries, at the meeting of the Council held on the 3rd March in connection with the Hon'ble Raja of Kakina's Resolution.

My Lord, we are all solicitous of the industrial development of our country. Here the people and the Government may whole-heartedly co-operate. India is an agricultural country; and so it has always been. But in the past it was also a manufacturing country. Our agricultural produce helped our manufactures; our manufactures strengthened the resources of our agriculturists. They acted and reacted upon one another and by their mutual interaction added to the volume of national prosperity. It was not our agricultural produce, not our rice or our 'dal' or our wheat that brought the East India Company to our shores; but it was the muslins of Dacca, our silks, our brocades, our calicoes that appealed to the commercial enterprise of European nations. If we had not been so utterly dependent upon the seasons, if the olden days of agriculture supplemented by manufactures had not wholly disappeared, if our community were partly agricultural and partly manufacturing, if agriculture and manufacture flourished side by side, half the anxieties of your Excellency's Government in dealing with the famine in the Eastern districts would have been allayed.

My Lord, there is a peculiar fitness in this discussion taking place at Dacca. There was a time when Dacca was the emporium of trade in Bengal, when its muslins were the admiration of the fashionable world in Europe. But its glories are now gone. It would be an honour to this city and to its past traditions, if, as the result of this debate, a new policy were to be inaugurated—rich in the promises of an enduring stimulus to our industrial development. It is in this hope and confidence that I have ventured to move this Resolution."

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL said :—

"My LORD, I understand that several Hon'ble Members desire to address the House, but I think it would be convenient if I intervene at this stage in order to make it known to all concerned that Government are prepared to accept this resolution. We are asked to take measures 'as soon as it may be convenient' to carry out Mr. Swan's recommendations. Probably we should have said 'as soon as it may be practicable' instead of 'as soon as it may be convenient,' but we are not going to quarrel over this phrase, and we are quite prepared to accept the resolution as it stands. We both mean very much the same thing, though we express it differently. As Hon'ble Members know, 'ekam sad vipra bahudha vadanti.'

For the last 20 or 30 days we have had a plethora of pamphlets and monographs and a plethora of discussions. To-day we are once more discussing the old question. I freely confess that in all these discussions on the industrial development of Bengal my feelings are somewhat damped by two waves of thought and I am sure that these same waves have a similar effect upon the feelings of the members opposite.

The first wave of thought is this—Do we really want to see beautiful Bengal turned into an ugly industrial country, with smoking chimneys everywhere? We are proud to address Bengal in the words of the poet—'Bande Mātaram sujalām suphalām, malayaja-sitalām sasya-syāmalām Mātaram.' Do we really want to see the hands of the beautiful mother stained with toil? Do we want to see her fresh green raiments soiled with smoke and soot? Well, this is a very natural feeling, natural both to those who were born in Bengal and to those who have made Bengal their adopted country. However, we cannot let sentimental feelings stand in our way. We must mingle things useful with things beautiful. The fact is that it is too late to turn back. We are like a man who has entered for a race. Before him, behind him and on both sides there are other competitors pressing towards the goal. To stop or to turn back is impossible. The man who does so will fall and be trampled on.

The other wave of thought which damps us when we are discussing these things is a feeling that we are passing through a large graveyard in the dusk. We see not only the graves of hundreds of past failures. Still more "eerie," we see open graves waiting for the bodies of dying enterprises. When a small boy goes through a grave-yard in the dusk, he whistles to keep up his courage. We feel that we must also whistle. All of us have done so. No doubt, the Hon'ble Mover when he writes articles on this subject in the Bengalee has often whistled to keep up his courage. I confess that when I signed the chapter in the report of the District Administration Committee which deals with the industrial development of Bengal, I had to whistle loudly, and to tell you the truth I feel very much inclined to whistle at this moment and to ask you all to whistle with me in chorus. But the tune which I would ask you to whistle would be this. 'If at first you don't succeed, try try try again.' We must freely admit that our failures have been many; but when we look at other countries, we find that their initial failures were still more numerous. For example, take Australia. At one time it was a purely agricultural country, but it has been turned into a great manufacturing country. The Australians have worked through countless failures to success, and there is no reason why we should not do the same.

I now turn to Mr. Swan's Report and to the recommendations which he has made, and which, as I have said, this Government are prepared to carry out as soon as may be convenient. The first of his main recommendations relates to non-agricultural co-operative societies. This Council accepted a resolution moved by the Hon'ble Raja of Kakina in favour of establishing these societies upon a sound financial basis. The Hon'ble Mover is naturally anxious to know what we are doing in pursuance of this resolution. We have sent a copy to Mr. J. N. Mitra, Registrar of Co-operative Societies, and he has taken note of the unanimous opinion of this house. From his last Annual Report I find that several co-operative credit societies of this kind have already been established among weavers, and he proposes to extend his beneficent operations among other cottage workers. We had a most interesting discussion on this subject at the last Co-operative Credit Conference. I can assure my Hon'ble friend that throughout the country the members of the co-operative movement have taken up this problem with enthusiasm. They hope before many years are past to see two or three hundred co-operative societies of weavers and other workers scattered throughout the country. One of the chief advantages of these societies will be that they will facilitate the working of the Government patronage of Indian industries.

This brings us to the second of Mr. Swan's suggestions. He has pointed out that we might do something more in the way of Government patronage. I do not know whether the House realizes how strong and how clear are the orders of the Government of India upon this subject. The latest orders, those of July 1913, lay down as follows :—

Rule 1.—All articles which are produced in India in the form of raw material, or are manufactured in India from material produced in India, should, by preference, be purchased locally, provided that the quality is sufficiently good for the purpose, and the price not unfavourable.

Rule 2.—All articles manufactured in India from imported materials should, by preference, be purchased in India, subject, however, to the following conditions :—

(a) That a substantial part of the process of manufacture of the articles purchased has been performed in India.

(b) That the price is as low as that at which articles of similar quality can be obtained through the India Office.

(c) That the materials employed are subjected to such inspection and tests as may be prescibed by the Government of India.

The House will therefore, see that the guiding principles of the Government of India are that when articles are manufactured in India from Indian materials, there should be a strong preference in favour of purchasing them here and not elsewhere. In the case of such articles, it is not necessary that the Indian price should be quite as low as the price in London; all that is required is that the price should "not be unfavourable". It is only when the articles are manufactured here but the materials are imported that it is laid down that the price must be as low as the London price. In other words, the more purely Indian the article is the stronger is the injunction to buy it in India, even at a slight loss. These rules have been circulated to every Department. We propose to invite the attention of all Departments to these rules and to ask them to tell us what difficulties, if any, have been felt in carrying out these rules. We realize that the Departments of Government are not always in a position to know where they can find Indian goods and at what price. In other words, we feel that we are not as fully in touch with the Indian market as we should like to be, and we want practical suggestions for getting into closer touch. To show that this is not an imaginary difficulty I shall lay two concrete instances before the House. The House is aware that quinine is sold by Government in glass tubes at all the mufassal post offices. These glass tubes are required annually by the Inspector-General of Prisons to the extent of 10 lakhs of tubes. Before the war he got them from an Austrian firm through the India Office at Rs. 9-1 a thousand. When the war broke out, Col. Buchanan saw that he could no longer get his supply from Austria. He was very anxious to place his order upon the Indian market. He studied a copy of Thacker's Directory and wrote to all the firms, European and Indian, manufacturing glass in India. The lowest offer that he could get was Rs. 62-8 a thousand against Rs. 9-1 which he had previously been paying. He felt that he would not be justified in paying this very large difference of price and he was therefore compelled to obtain his supply from England at Rs. 22-6 per thousand. The House will agree that Col. Buchanan made a genuine effort to carry out the orders of the Government of India in regard to the patronage of Indian industries. I was much impressed by the discouraging result of that effort. Therefore, when I was last in Calcutta, I made inquiries through a friend of mine, an honourable member of this Council, as to whether there was any place, not mentioned in the Directory, where these glass tubes could be made. As a result, my friend and I paid a visit to Harrison Road and there we found a number of cottage-workers making glass tumblers. They had an earthen chula, a pair of tongs and a blow-pipe. They were working in batches of four and they were making tumblers at the rate of 100 per man per day. Each batch of four was turning out 400 tumblers per day, or in other words, rather more than a lakh in the year. I inquired from these men whether they would make an offer for the contract of quinine tubes and they said that they would be glad to consider it. I am going to Calcutta to-morrow and one of the first things that I shall do will be to show one of our quinine tubes to these men in Harrison Road and to ascertain whether it will be possible to place the order with them. I have spoken to the Inspector-General of Jails, and he is still most anxious to place his order with any Indian firm, large or small, which can supply tubes at a reasonable price. Let us hope that our negotiations will bear fruit.

The other concrete instance which I bring to the notice of the House is embodied in a story which His Excellency has permitted me to recount. [The Hon'ble Member here displayed a coloured silk handkerchief]. This beautiful silk handkerchief belongs to His Excellency Lord Carmichael. His Excellency and his father before him and many other Scotch gentlemen have always been fond of this type of handkerchief. They have been accustomed to buy them from a firm in Edinburgh. When His Excellency was about to leave for India, he told the firm that he would no longer have to buy his handkerchiefs from them as he would easily procure them in India. When His Excellency came to Madras he sent a specimen of the handkerchief to the principal dealers in Madras, but they said that these handkerchiefs were probably made in Bengal. When His Excellency came to Bengal he made similar inquiries of the dealers in and around Calcutta, including silk manufacturers. They all examined the specimen and said that they did not know where it came from but thought it was probably from Bombay. His Excellency then inquired in Bombay but the people there said that the handkerchiefs were probably made in Burma. His Excellency made inquiries in Burma and he was told that they were probably made in Japan. His Excellency then applied to the Department of Commerce and Industry and sent them a specimen and desired to know where it was made. After several months the reply came that the handkerchief was probably not a real Indian handkerchief but was made in the south of France. Some people would have given up the quest in dispair but this is not the habit of Lord Carmichael. Having failed in his inquiries in India, he wrote back to the firm in Edinburgh, ordered half a dozen of the handkerchiefs and asked them as a favour to tell him where they were actually made. The handkerchiefs came in due course, and along with them a letter saying that they were made in a place called Murshidabad in the Presidency of Bengal. If His Excellency had not been persistent in this inquiry, none of us would have known that these handkerchiefs were made in Murshidabad. Now, if anybody desires to be patriotic and at the same time fashionable, I advise him to get a large supply of these "Charmichael" handkerchiefs from the cottage-workers in the district of Murshidabad. This story is a good example of the difficulty which we all feel in getting into close touch with the producers of Indian goods.

As Hon'ble Members know, the Department of Commerce and Industry recently held an interesting exhibition in Calcutta and published pamphlets with price-lists. Of course there have been many other exhibitions of this nature, but this was the most business-like. We want to see really business-like exhibitions in every district of Bengal and we want the promoters to circulate business-like price-lists and to keep them up-to-date. This is the best way of preventing the orders of the Government of India from becoming a dead letter. In this matter our co-operative credit societies will be most useful. Let them, with the help of the Co-operative Department, draw up price-lists and send them out to large firms, including Government officers, so that all may have information. We have also recommended to the Government of India that there should be a trade correspondent in every province whose special duty will be to bring the consumers and the producers into touch with one another. Lastly, I may say that the Hon'ble Mover of this resolution and other publishers of newspapers can be most useful to us in this matter by advertising, at preferential rates, the sale of bonâ fide Indian goods.

Another important recommendation of Mr. Swan is that we should start demonstration factories in the same way as has been done in Madras. We all recognize that in this, as in many other matters we have much to learn from Madras. Long before the war Madras has been active in the promotion of Indian industries. Since the war broke out they have increased their energies, giving special attention to ground-nut-pressing, soap-making, glass-making and the manufacture of paper-pulp, matches and pencils. Well, we are quite ready, we are more than anxious, to start similar demonstration factories in Bengal. If any one has read the report of the District Administration Committee, he will see that one of our strongest recommendations is in favour of starting demonstration factories. In this matter, however, everyone must recognize that the first essential is that we should have a Director of Industries. It is because Madras has got a Director of Industries that it has been able to start these successful demonstration factories. We have written to the Government of India asking for a Director of Industries and we are anxiously awaiting sanction. We do not care who is appointed so long as he is a trained business-man, and a man who will deal sympathetically with the people of this country. He may be a Briton, a Colonial or an Indian ; the only thing we stipulate is that he shall not be a German. The house may want to know exactly what we shall do when we get this man. That will depend on the policy laid down by the Government of India. If I were asked in my personal capacity what I should like to see the Director doing, I would answer somewhat as follows, still in my personal capacity—"I want to have a Director with large funds and a free hand. I want to lay before him all the schemes which have been tried in other provinces, all the schemes which have been tried in Bengal, and all the suggestions which have been made for Bengal. I want the Director to travel round the country and to get into touch with the cottage-workers. I want him to start demonstrations wherever there is good prospect of success. After his demonstration has succeeded I would authorise him, where necessary, to give loans to reliable people who propose to follow his example. And if, while all this is going on, we can be protected from alien competition by a high wall of tariffs, so much the better! The Hon'ble Mover has suggested that I am a fiscal heretic. If these opinions are heresy, I plead guilty. But after all, they are only my personal opinions and I fully recognise that we may not be allowed to do nearly so much with our Director. But at least we have good hope that we shall be allowed to make real demonstrations, demonstrations which will be of real help to the workers of this province. At the same time I must sound two notes of warning. The first is that we should not be too ambitious. We should not confine our attention to large factories, but should look with a very kindly eye to the small manufacturers, for example, to the weavers of Carmichael handkerchiefs and the tumbler-makers in Harrison Road. The second note of warning is this. Do not persist in throwing good money after bad. So far the tendency has been to confine attention to the failures, and to try to put them on their legs again. I advised you just now to "try again". That is still my advice. But we must do everything like sane men: we must recognise the logic of hard facts. When it has been clearly demonstrated that, owing to natural causes, climatic influences or racial considerations, a particular industry has failed and must always fail in Bengal, then it is worse then useless to go on with experiments in this particular line. If we find that a particular article can be manufactured cheaper and better in another part of India, it is useless to persist in manufacturing it in Bengal. However high our imaginary wall of protection may be against outside aliens, I do not suppose anyone in Bengal proposes to set up a wall of protection against Behar or Bombay or Madras. With these two notes of warning, I turn briefly to the main recommendations which have been put before us by Mr. Swan and by the Hon'ble Mr. Banerji.

First, as regards glass: This is an attractive subject for demonstration and perhaps we may ultimately see success. But we must remember that as far as we know at present in no part of Bengal can we get the best kind of sand for making glass. The sand has to be imported from other parts of India. That being so, it may well be that after our Director has made his experiments he will advise us that glass is not the best line for Bengal. If so, we should reluctantly give up glass and try something which is better. I may mention that my friends in Harrison Road were not using sand as their raw material. They were using broken glass collected, I suppose, from the rubbish heaps. This would, of course, limit the production of these small workers, but I am not yet convinced that they will be unable to supply the demands of Colonel Buchanan, even if they have to use broken glass as their raw material.

Then there is the question of hides and tanning. The hide question, as we all know, is mixed up with the Germans. We have now got a great opportunity for taking the hide trade out of the hands of the Germans and putting it in the hands of Indians. British traders, as I understand, avoid hides. They think that the profit does not counterbalance the smell. Hindus have religious objections to the trade. It is therefore a matter between the Germans and the Muhammadans. I am one of those who think that the right way to make war is to knock your enemy down and then put your heel on his face and turn it round and round. The last process is mainly commercial. We should place our commercial heel on the face of the prostrate Germans and we should not hesitate to turn it round and round. We should begin to do this while the Germans are still in Ahmednagar. The Muhammadan hide merchants should now bestir themselves and get a firm hold of the trade. How this is to be done is somewhat apart from our present discussion, but in the course of recent inquiries which had this end in view I came to learn certain facts about hides and tanning. In Madras they have a series of tanneries all the way from Berhampur to Tuticorin. The hides which are exported from Madras are the "half tanned" hides prepared in these tanneries. The demand in England is for half-tanned hides, and not for the salted or arsenicated hides which are in the Calcutta market. I made inquiries about the small tanneries in Madras and I found that they have been doing well since the outbreak of war. The capital required for such a tannery is only about Rs. 5,000. Why cannot we have such tanneries in Bengal? I am told that there are two reasons: first, that the best bark is available in Madras and not in Bengal: and secondly, that the Bengal worker gives less return for his wages than the Madras worker. These are matters which we must bring to the notice of our prospective Director of Industries. It may be that we shall get over the difficulties. On the other hand, we may have to abandon tanning and confine ourselves to raw hides.

The question of matches and pencils has been discussed by many gentlemen. I do not think that any one has so far referred to two interesting publications of the Forest Department. One of these is the "Commercial Guide to the Forest Economic Products of India", and the other is a "Monograph on the Prospects of the Match Industry in the Indian Empire with particulars of proposed Match Factory Sites and Woods suitable for Match Manufacture." I do not know whether the Hon'ble Mover has seen these books. I commend them to his study and the study of all interested in this question.

THE HON'BLE BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI, interrupting, said :—"Are these Government Publications?"

THE HON'BLE MR. BEATSON BELL :—

"Yes, they are for sale to the public. The price of the first book is Re. 1-12 and that of the second book is Re. 1. If any one studies these books, he begins to wonder whether after all we are wise in selecting matches or pencils as one of the most suitable objects for our experiments. We see from these books that if we want to have a really successful match or pencil factory, we must have three necessary factors. First, the right kind of wood should be available in a compact and homogeneous forest; secondly, the factory should be near the forest; and thirdly, the factory should be connected by rail or steamer with centres or commercial activity. Unless we have all these conditions co-existing, we are in great danger in throwing away our money. I do not want to throw cold water on this proposal, but it is quite possible that our Director may advise us that until we have a compact and homogenous forest in a suitable place, we should not undertake this industry. At present there is a good deal of wood more or less suitable, but it is scattered through forests of other wood and the collection of it is a very expensive process. The Hon'ble Mover has referred to the experience of Mr. Sailendra Nath Mitra. I have looked up his papers and I find that we did all that we could for him. He was dealing, he had to deal, with contractors and not direct with the Forest Department. What he wanted was that the Forest Department should guarantee the supply of a minimum quantity per annum of a particular kind of wood. This the contractors were not in a position to do, and the Forest Department was not in a position to force the contractors to give such a guarantee. But the Forest Department promised to help Mr. Mitra in his dealings with the contractors, and they still hold out that promise. It is incorrect to suppose that the Forest Department is obstructive. I represent that Department in this Council and I can assure the Hon'ble Member that if any reasonable proposal is put before us we shall meet it in a reasonable spirit.

I think I have dealt with the main industries which have been mentioned in the course of the debate. The Hon'ble Mover has not mentioned saltpetre. At present there is a great demand for saltpetre, as the world is now shut off from the German supply of potash. This is a glorious opportunity, but what are we doing? There are two saltpetre factories in Calcutta, but one of them is about to be closed because the owners are quarrelling among themselves. If we want to make real headway in any industry, the first essential is that we should trust one another. The fact that many of our promising enterprises have failed in the past has simply been due to want of business character. I am not here to preach. My Resolutions—Babu S. N. Ray.

Hon'ble friends know the state of affairs only too well themselves. But let us not despair. We accept this resolution and we accept it heartily, for Government are as anxious as the Hon'ble Members opposite to give a helping hand to the industries of Bengal."

THE HON'BLE BABU SURENDRA NATH RAY SAID :—

"My Lord, we are very grateful to your Lordship's Government for accepting the resolution of my Hon'ble friend Babu Surendra Nath Banerji which I have very great pleasure in supporting. My Lord, we Bengalis must move on with the times if we want to live as a nation and have our necessaries supplied by the manufactured products of our own country and not by those of other countries. In these days when we ask for bread and receive a stone in return we must give up all sentimentalism and even our ঘুরলাং ঘুরলাং মলয়জ শীতলাং শস্য শ্যামলাং মাতরং will have to be converted into a place darkened with soot and smoke because the question of the hour is how the Bengalis will survive as a nation.

I must say at the outset that the report of Mr. Swan on the industrial development of Bengal not only contains many useful suggestions but it contains some outspoken criticisms on the policy of Government regarding the industries of the land. It appears that Government have from time to time during the last quarter of a century made some efforts to revive indigenous industries. This will appear from the reports which have appeared under the auspices of Government. Mr. Collin was entrusted with the preparation of the industrial Survey and his report on the existing arts and industries in Bengal was made at the end of 1890. Mr. Cumming was entrusted in 1907-08 with the same duties when Swadeshi movement was at its height and now last, though not least, we have the report of Mr. Swan.

My Lord, the history of the industries of India or of Bengal has been for more than a century and a half a sad one. Whether it was the East India Company professedly acting as a body of trades people or whether it was the Government of India under a Viceroy the policy pursued has been the same—how best to foster British manufacture even though it be at the expense of Indian manufactures.

Mr. John Ranking, one of the merchants of Calcutta, examined before a Committee of the House of Commons in 1813 testified to the prohibitive duties imposed upon piece goods, calicoes, muslins and coloured goods imported into England and said that the real object of these prohibitive duties was to encourage British manufacture.

Speaking of this very place where Your Lordship is holding your Council to-day, Sir Charles Trevelyan in his evidence before the said Committee said "Dacca, which was the Manchester of India, has fallen off from a very flourishing town to a very poor and small one ; the distress there has been very great indeed."

The testimony of Mr. H. H. Wilson is unequivocal. Speaking of the industries of India he said. "It is also a melancholy instance of the wrong done to India by the country on which he has become dependent. It was stated in evidence (1813) that the cotton and silk goods of India up to the period could be sold for a profit in the British market at a price from 50 to 60 per cent. lower than those fabricated in England. It consequently became necessary to protect the latter by duties of 70 and 80 per cent. on their value, or by positive prohibition. Had this not been the case, had not such prohibitory duties and decrees existed, the mills of Paisley and Manchester would have been stopped in their outset, and could scarcely have been again set in motion even by the power of steam. They are created by the sacrifice of the Indian manufacture."

There are the testimonies of Englishmen about the treatment of Indian manufactures when the Government was in the hands of the Company. Their treatment after the country had passed under the direct Government of the Crown had been no less fortunate. On pressure being put by Lancashire mill owners upon the then Secretary of State Lord Salisbury, Lord Lytton exempted from duty all goods made from yarns not finer than 30 S and all yarns up to 26 S and 42 S mule, whereas comparatively heavy duties were imposed upon the cotton fabrics of the Bombay Mills. The members of the Indian Civil Service, who then formed the members of the Viceroy's Executive Council, protested against the sacrifice of Indian Finance but to no purpose. But the indirect effect of all this exemption, of reduction of import duties and imposition of duties upon cotton-made cloths had certainly been to discourage Indian manufature. This is the simple story of how the people of India whose unrivalled manufacturing skill had been testified to by so high an authority as Sir Thomas Munroe in his evidence before the Committee of the House of Commons being deprived of their occupations had turned chiefly to agriculture.

But cotton industry and silk industry were not the only industries of Bengal or of India. For various causes, the sugar, hide and other important industries gradually declined till India has become the exporter of raw materials for other countries to reap a rich havest. Even ships used to be built in India and we read that in 1795-96 six ships as well as large vessels were built in Calcutta.

I have said that for the last quarter of a century Government have been taking some interest in the industries of the country, but that interest has so far been of an academic character. Far from Government helping any industries with subsidy as is done in some of the continental countries, Government have not thought it fit to extend their patronage to articles of local manufacture by making purchases. We find from Mr. Swan's report, "a partner in a large Engineering firm complained to me that they do not get a chance of tendering before indents are sent to the Director-General of Stores. When they got an order, it is for a small quantity required to meet an unforeseen demand, or because the amount indented for has proved insufficient. In another case I found that certain articles of local manufacture had been brought to the notice of the Head of a Department by Mr. Cumming in 1908. When the factory asked for an order they received the reply, "should occasion arise for the purchase of these articles locally, your letter will then be considered." Mr. Swan suggests that the fullest opportunity of tendering should be given to local firms before indents are sent to the India Office. But I think this is not the first time that this suggestion has been made. If my memory serves me right, it is nearly a quarter of a century ago, that Sir Griffiths Evans from his place in the Imperial Council thoroughly exposed these tenders and purchases of articles by the India Office but his criticisms and suggestions fell upon deaf ears.

Mr. Swan considers (1) insufficient capital, and (2) inefficient management to be the causes of failure of industrial enterprises of this country, but I would put it to another cause also. It is the extreme apathy and want of patronage by Government.

My Lord, we all must admit that a great impetus was given to the revival of industries by the Swadeshi movement which was synchronous with the partition agitation. Not only were some of the dying industries revived but new industries were started. According to Mr. Swan, companies for the manufacture of pencils, matches and soap, for cotton-weaving, hosiery and tanning were floated and the middle classes showed considerable enthusiasm and gave practical demonstration of their interest by subscribing largely to these concerns. But unfortunately young men who had absolutely no experience of manufactures and industries or whose practical knowledge consisted in serving as an apprentice in a factory for five or six months in Japan or America thought that they could undertake or be put in charge of any industrial enterprise. The result has been that in many cases, machines have been brought out, money has been spent in building factories, but men have been found to be wanting to carry on the work owing to insufficient knowledge, inefficient training and want of business capacity. But there is another cause why the Swadeshi industries which were the outcome of of the Swadeshi movement of 1905 prospered so little. Government were in a temper. All movements which savoured of Swadeshi were looked upon with suspicion and distrust by Government and men who had anything at stake in the country could not openly take an active part in any of these industrial movements. That there were however in some instances sufficient justifiction for the unsympathetic attitude of Government admits of no question. But if industrial enterprises—the outcome of the Swadeshi movement of 1905, had forfeited justly or unjustly the claims to Government patronage, other enterprises of pre-partition days, such as the Bengal Chemical and Pharmaceutical works, met with no better treatment at the hands of the Government. While the European druggists of Calcutta had orders from Government to supply tinctures and medicines, the Bengal Chemical and Pharmaceutcal works had no direct orders from Government except as regards some chemicals. It is a fact well-known to many, that Government issue instructions to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal, now known as Surgeon-General, to Government and Municipal dispensaries and hospitals for the purchase of medicines, etc., from particular firms. Special arrangements are made for payment to these firms. Has it occurred to any official to indent medicines from this enterprising establishment? Similar has been the fate of the Calcutta Pottery Works. Government in all countries specially in India are large consumers of many manufactured articles and it is but natural that the people who undertake industrial enterprises should look upon Government to patronise them if not by subsidising, at least by making purchases.

The only patronage extended by Government so far has been to give a contract since 1908 for the supply of pens to Messrs. Goopta & Co. for the Controller of Stationery. I think it was during the Viceroyalty of Lord Ripon that Mr. P. M. Bagchi had orders to supply ink to all Government offices. The only active form in which the Bengal Government have shown their sympathy towards the industries of the land is by the establishment of a weaving school at Serampore within the last few years. We are not aware if Government have given any other practical demonstration of their sympathy to improve or to foster the local industries. The Governments of Madras and the United Provinces have spent large sums in improving the industries of their respective Provinces.

My Lord, the recommendations and suggestions made by Mr. Swan to foster the industries of the land are not of a far-reaching character. They are very simple, and such as would or ought to commend themselves to every Government. They are as follows :—

(1) Co-operative Credit Societies should be established among cottage-workers, such as cotton weavers, silk weavers and brass workers, so that they may be free from the hands of the Mahajan. The officer in charge of these societies should assist in the purchase of raw materials and in finding markets for the finished articles.

(2) Demonstrations in the use of improved processes and appliances should be given at suitable centres. Demonstrations might also be given in such matters as the use of the fly-shuttle for Tusser and silk-weaving and the use of an improved dye-stamping machine for brass work.

(3) (a) The Forest Department should make special arrangements for the supply of suitable wood on favourable terms to such industries as matches, pen and pencil-making.

(3) (b) That State Railways should in certain cases only charge for the actual weight of timber carried and not for the full capacity of the wagon.

(4) That Government patronage might be extended more freely than at present to articles of local manufactures.

Some of the above suggestions of Mr. Swan have the support of recognized authorities on Economics. Professor Bastabelle in his book on Public Finance lays down almost similar expedients for encouraging industry.

Resolutions—Babu S. N. Ray and Dr. Nilratan Sarkar.

There is one other suggestion which has not been made by Mr. Swan but it is an important factor in the encouragement of industry. It is the encouragement by means of bounties on production, or premiums for the establishment of new industries. It is, however, beyond the scope of the present Resolution to speak with reference to this matter and I refrain from doing so.

My Lord, it is a notorious fact that for a number of years continental goods had been displacing British goods in this country. Winter cloths of all sorts, matches, soap, glass, pencil, dye, hide which were being sold in the Indian market were practically all imported from Germany and Austria. The British people are essentially tradespeople. One can very well understand the steps taken by them to foster their own industry at the expenses of Indian industry. But what shall we say when we see that the attitude of Government towards the industries of the country has the effect or at least had the effect of indirectly fostering the growth of industries of your Teutonic relations. The time has come when the Government should assume a different attitude towards the development of the industries of the country to that which they have done in times past—the hour has come when the Government should lay down and pursue a settled policy with regard to the industrial development of this country. It needs no word of mine to impress upon Your Lordship's Government the present sad industrial state of the country. The cloths that we wear every day and the sugar which we use, the iron vessels with which we cook our food, the shoes, the soap and other articles of everyday use, even the implements of husbandry are generally of European manufacture. Under the influence of Swadeshi Movement some of the industries have been partially revived and some fresh ones have been started but the progress made has not been so far very encouraging. It is no doubt upon the honesty, the business capacity, the perseverance of our own countrymen that the country must look up to for the revival of its dying and dead industries or for the starting of new ones. But, My Lord, we are handicapped in many ways. What with the duties both here and in foreign countries upon the manufactured articles of this country, what with competition with bounty-fed articles of other countries, the prospect of our industries is not and cannot be of an encouraging character. The outlook is anything but cheering. It behoves therefore for the Government not to remain anymore an idle spectator of the scene. Government themselves are partially responsible for the present state of things. If this ruinous war succeeds in bringing about the industrial development of this country, in at least displacing German, Austrian and Japan goods from the markets of India, and in giving work and food to millions of Bengal's population by reviving the indigenous industries, an incalculable good would then come out of evil and the people of Bengal will bless the days that are to come and bless your Lordship's Government for having inaugurated an era of prosperity among the teeming millions of a poor and law abiding people."

THE HON'BLE DR. NILRATAN SARKAR SAID :—

"My Lord, the present industrial situation in India is one which calls for great watchfulness as well as prompt action on the part of both the Government and the people. The disappearance of Germany from the Indian market implies a displacement of trade of enormous value, a widespread disturbance of the economic equilibrium, which, unless it is guided by far-seeing and provident statemanship is bound to end in disaster. For Japan's industrial conquest of India by methods of peaceful penetration will not be restricted to those spheres of interest which have been vacated by Germany; this invasion already a fait accompli, and proceeding by rapid strides, if unperceived, will gather an irresistible momentum as it goes forward, carrying everything before it,—not merely chemicals, soaps, toys, or other commodities made in Germany and imported therefrom but also cotton, silk, glass, leather, matches, etc., in fact the staple commodities of Indian Industry and of India's trade with Great Britain, and the real significance of the transfer of trade lies deep below the surface. In all the factors which go to build up the economic organization of a people, whether geographical or social, in cultural traditions as well as in the standard of living. Japan combines the hereditary virtues of the East with the scientific acquisition of the West, the fecundity, the tenacity, the subtlety of an Oriental stock, with the versatility, the progressiveness, the efficiency, the spurt and dash of the most go-a head Occidential type. And the Japanese will, therefore, penetrate in an Oriental country to spheres of interest which the Germans or other European people found effectually closed against them.

And it must always be remembered that the British economic connection with India has this great advantage that Great Britain and India have in one sense been complementary economic units, one predominantly manufacturing, and the other predominantly agricultural; and even as regards manufacturing industries the dividing line between large-scale machine products and small-scale machine-cum-hand production is the line which will for some time keep Indian and British interests from wide or injurious overlapping as well as from irresistible conflict. Japan's combination of hand-power with the power of machinery, of small-scale as well as of large-scale production, of cheap labour with hereditary skill, of low consumption with an increasing efficiency, of artistic craftsmanship with mechanical manipulative and inventive gifts,—all this has been rendered possible because her manufactures have an indigenous agricultural basis, such as Great Britain lacks. The unique combination of gifts and advantages gives her an irresistible power in the Indian market which she will not be slow to employ, is in fact even now employing, with marked or rather unmarked success. And it ought to be borne in mind in this connection that none of the Continental European countries (barring Russia, which does not yet count in the tale of economic expansion) has any political ambition, possibilities or spheres of influence in this country, while as much cannot be said of the power in the Far East. The question, therefore, of India keeping to herself the fields of trade which till recently were occupied by Germany is one which neither the Government nor the people can shelve, and it will require for its solution the prompt and whole-hearted co-operation of both the vast resources of the Government in organising, financing, and if need be, legislating power, being judiciously employed in helping and equipping the people to meet this new economic situation.

The economic revolution in India in the last century was the displacement of the hereditary Indian artisan class by European machinery. In the present century a new revolution is threatened,—the fresh displacement of India's hard-earned economic balance by a hardy and fecund race of Orientals gifted with Occidental efficiency and resourcefulness, and yet in the coming struggle most of the factors are in India's favour if only the fight is properly led. Indian labour is sufficient in quantity, cheap, teachable, and capable of becoming more and more efficient under economic pressure. The overseers and middlemen are available; as also are, in some industries, even the trained scientific experts, who require only business experience and knowledge of local materials and conditions to become competent guides.

The raw materials are also there, lying unutilised, or utilised in a small part in the country; and improvements in agriculture and mining will supply whatever finer staples or improved materials may be required for successful competition. Private capital, though insufficient, is not entirely wanting, but it is shy and cannot be attracted towards "fresh fields" and new ventures without some degree of reasonable security. No doubt in Bengal we are somewhat lacking in business ability and instinct, but it is only after many costly failures, and much trial and error that we can expect to have in our midst captains of industry, entrepreneurs able to create favourable conditions and command success. The crying evil in this field is that the people are without power of initiative and without power of joint action and organization. It, therefore, behoves the Government, as being the ultimate directors in this great co-operative business and joint concern which constitutes the life of a nation, to supply the organising power.

But what stands in our way is a theory or a ghost of a theory, concerning the legitimate scope and functions of the Government, a theory which is now obsolete, dead even in England—its Home. The theory of laissez faire, laissez aller, of leaving things to the course and drift of nature, the forces of competition and of individual effort, may be, and no doubt, are a sound rule for the ordinary conduct of administration, but in all international struggles where the problem is to equip the nation as a unit in the international struggle, this theory has hopelessly broken down and nowhere more so in recent times than in Great Britain, where the whole trend of recent legislative, financial, and administrative activity has been in the opposite direction. But Indian conservatism is a hardy perennial; even in the hey-day of Lloyd Georgian finance with its gospel of State Aid and State Insurance, the Secretary of State ordered a retreat in India even from those spheres of State-aided Industry into which a gradual, continuous and successful advance had been made under a paternal Government keenly conscious of its obligations of guardianship to the millions of artisans. The experiments of the Directors of Industries in Madras had given aluminium and chrome leather to the depressed classes of South Indian artisans and they promised to be the mothers of a hundred more fruitful industries, but these were strangled in the womb. No doubt we can point to same beneficent State institutes in aid of industry; Agricultural Research Institutes and Technological Institutes doing research work—even an Advisory Board of Commerce and Industries with a minister presiding over it—but only the big capitalists and capitalistic organizations can possibly avail themselves of their valuable advice and profit by the fruit of their valuable researches; and the people who are most in need, remain as helpless and hopeless as before; for them the one thing needful is not to be advised but to be trained to practical work, to be shown the way by being led by the hand, and to be supported with capital and credit, the sinews of their economic war; and it is certain they will in the threatened economic vicissitudes and revolution drift helplessly and aimlessly as before—a disorganized rabble, until and unless the Government give them the lead, the practical driving power, which is their one supreme need of the time.

No distribution of blue books and pamphlets, no model farming, breeding, or seed distributing, no activities of bureaus or research institutes, no technical education in the country or provision for such education abroad, no labours of Labour-Committees, Mining Committees or Conferences will save the situation created by the present crisis. In fact what is now needed is a more active industrial policy of Government—the Government should take the initiative in organizing such industries as may have a hopeful outlook in the present condition of the market and with the available resources at the disposal of the country. The methods of Government help and organization will vary according to the varying needs of the industries so selected.

Some industries, as sugar and indigo, may require a great deal of preliminary experimenting, both as regards the cultivation of crops and the subsequent manipulation of the raw material; and these important industries, for which India has special capabilities, can be rehabilitated only if Government were to carry the initial experimental stages to completion so as to place them on a market basis and then make over the concerns to private parties or companies on fair and reasonable terms. In some industries Government may help by the supply of the raw material as Mr. Swan points out in his Report. The Forest Department may make a suitable arrangement for the supply of suitable wood to industries such as matches, and pen and pencil making. In other cases, the chief difficulty is to find an adequate market for the manufactured commodity which cannot be profitably produced except on a large scale, and here Government may help by placing large orders and contracts during the initial stages, as for example at the Tata Steel and Iron Works. In other industries, such as those of cotton, weavers, silk-weavers and brass founders, improved tools, for example, fly-shuttle looms, lathes, hand machines may be supplied on a system of loan and recovery by instalments. Local demonstrations may be given in the use of these tools and processes, and co-operative credit societies may also be established among cottage-workers where the conditions are suitable. But of all the ways in which

Resolutions—Dr. Nilratan Sarkar.

Government can render material help to the growth of new industries in the country the most fruitful and far-reaching are :—

(i) the supply of loanable capital on easy terms on the basis of reasonable security, and,

(ii) the grant of transport facilities by the control of railway rates and steamer freight, as well as by extension of railway lines.

As regards the supply of capital, it may be noted that there are important industries, for example, dyes, glass-ware, etc., which under present conditions of competition require larger capital than private individuals in India are in a position to invest, and joint-stock companies as yet do not command sufficient credit to raise the money.

For financing such industries a central bank advancing loans on adequate security, on cheap terms, should be among the first concerns of the State in India. It is a matter of common knowledge that in France and in Japan State Banks such as the State Bank of France and the Bank of Japan were originally founded with the object among others of assisting industry and agriculture by supplying the use of loanable capital at a moderate charge to farmers and manufacturers on reasonable security. For some time here in India the project of a Central State Bank has been in the air ; but in the various schemes proposed while such necessary matters as the custody of the Government balances and the Government reserves, the adjustment of the currency, etc., have been properly kept in view, I do not notice that one of the primary objects of such banks in all progressive countries, namely, the supply of loanable capital to support agriculture and industry has been at all mooted in the course of the discussion. It will be said that this will be within the province of the Presidency Banks. But as a matter of fact the Presidency Banks do not serve the primary need of financing the indigenous industries. They enjoy many of the advantages of State Banks as custodians of Government deposits and balances and in many other ways, but they confine themselves to financing the carrying trade and the export and import business and some well-established mills, and their resources though repleted by public funds are not available for discharging some of the vital obligations and responsibilities of State Banks. Only the establishment of a State Bank in India with the object of not only carrying on the currency operations but also of supporting the agriculture and industries of the country with the use of capital on reasonable security can meet the needs of the situation.

In the same way facilities for transport are necessary in a much larger degree than are now granted by the existing Railway administrations. My friend Mr. S. C. Ghose points out in his note, "increased control on the part of the Government in the matter of fixing Railway rates is required in the public interest as well as the appointment of a permanent commissioner to hear complaints from the trading interests concerned." There have been instances, as Sir V. Thackersay once remarked, where equal rates under equal conditions have been refused to certain mills and traders. The following extract from Mr. Ghose's report will show the anomalous position in this regard :—

"According to the East Indian Railway scale the charge for flour for 550 miles is As. 7-2 per maund and over the Great Indian Penunsula Railway As. 8-9. But if the traffic was carried for 275 miles over the East Indian Railway and 275 miles over the Great Indian Penunsula, the freight would be As. 11 per maund."

Whatever may be thought of the policy of the State working of Railways in India there can be no doubt that the control over rates should bo assumed by the Government in the public interest.

Another important help which the Government may render to the development of indigenous industries would be by the starting of bureaus and agencies for the creation and expansion of markets in the country and abroad, and in this matter we cannot do better than follow the example set by the Japanese Government.

Resolutions—Babu S. N. Banerji and Babu U. L. Ray.

These are some of the ways in which the Government may help the Indian people to meet the growing economic situation brought on by the war. Indeed this momentous problem can be solved only by the Government assuming the leadership of the people."

THE HON'BLE BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI SAID :—

"My Lord, I desire to express my thanks to the Government for accepting this resolution, and I am sure the country will be grateful to Your Excellency's Government for the pronouncement which the Government have made that they will do all in their power to help on Indian industries in Bengal by direct efforts. Only one more comment I desire to make on my friend's observations. The Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell has, in the course of the debate, said that we do not know where we can get indigenous articles. It is perfectly true that we have often failed owing to this cause. But the remedy is in the hands of the Government; all that we have to do is to establish a Museum for the permanent exhibition of indigenous industries. In 1899 such an exhibition was held in London. The Japanese Government holds such an exhibition for the purpose of the exhibition of Japanese goods. Last year, I think, Japanese agents came over to this country and exhibited a lot of their goods. This is, my Lord, a matter which the Government should take up, namely, that it should start a permanent museum for the exhibition of indigenous articles. People would then know where they are made. All that information would also be available to the Government and to the public. That is a suggestion which I desire to throw out for the acceptance of my Hon'ble friend."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 7.

7. The Hon'ble Babu Upendra Lal Ray moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the Government of India be approached with a request to provide funds for the purchase and maintenance of a second dredger for the Port of Chittagong.

He said :—

"MY LORD,

When replying to an address from the Port Commissioners of Chittagong in the year 1904, His Excellency the Viceroy stated that Government would assist them by supplying a dredger to clear the bars for big steamers. In fulfilment of this promise the Government of India presented the Port with its present Dredger Karnafuli No. 1. This has done good work and though one dredger was considered sufficient at the beginning the time has come when it can hardly cope with the demand.

When Your Excellency visited Chittagong for the first time in August 1912 the members of the Chittagong Chamber of Commerce brought to Your Excellency's notice the recommendations of a sub-committee of experts who advocated the necessity for a second dredger for the Port. Your Excellency in reply was pleased to remark as follows :—

"I can assure you that the Government of Bengal are deeply interested in the prosperity of Chittagong. We have already given you, I hope, a proof of our interest in the recent grant of 1½ lakhs from Provincial Funds. We gave you this grant for your dredging and revetment, although we have received nothing towards it from the Government of India * * * * We will do our best to represent your views to the Government of India who will after all be the chief gainers by the development of your port. If your port is to be kept in its present state of efficiency, dredging operations must continue and the revetment work must be maintained."

At that time Your Excellency was under the impression that the Karnafuli No. 1 was sufficient for the needs of the port until such time as the expansion of trade should attract steamers of a larger draught. The necessity for a second dredger is being keenly felt not merely on account of the expansion of trade but also in consequence of the rapid shoaling of the river at various places. The salt trade of the port has a constant tendency to expand and it will be a matter of surprise to many when I say that in spite of a higher rate of freight for salt to Chittagong than to Calcutta from the manufacturing countries the price of all descriptions of salt has for the last few years been considerably less at Chittagong than at Calcutta. And yet salt steamers have been the worst sufferers at the former port. The steamers Benlawers, Sutlej and Heligoland which came to Chittagong with salt within the last four months and the Olive which is now discharging her cargo of salt at that port had all been detained outside the bar in some cases for over ten days for lack of sufficient water at the bars. Other steamers also had similar experience and at present agents for steamship companies hesitate to consider Chittagong as a port of discharge owing to this very cause. In his speech on the last budget the Hon'ble Mr. Bayley gave some instances of clan Line steamers being compelled to sail without full cargoes either to avoid being neaped or because of being neaped. Steamers with rice and paddy also had similar experience. Further evidence is not required to convince your Excellency's Government about the need of a second Dredger for the port of Chittagong. The Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell in closing the debate on the budget on the 6th April last referred to the resolution I was permitted to move in this very hall last year and which your Excellency's Government so kindly accepted, and he also remarked that he could make no pronouncement beyond referring to the said resolution. The public are anxious to know what effect has been given to the resolution. The Hon'ble Member paid a visit to the port recently accompanied by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley and both found out for themselves what are the things urgently needed. Both of them recognized that the present dredging arrangements are clearly defective and should be improved as soon as funds can be obtained. Your Excellency also during your recent visit to the port was convinced of the urgency of the scheme. Your Excellency's Government are aware of the recommendations made by Sir Francis Spring in this connection. and when the necessity has been established beyond any doubt the ways and means to meet it rest entirely with your Excellency's Government. There is an apprehension in certain quarters that the repartition of Bengal has resulted in the brushing aside of the needs of this port in the interests of Calcutta ; whether it is true or not we have the assurance that your Excellency's Government "always have had and always will continue to have a very kindly eye on the port of Chittagong." We are thankful for this sympathetic assurance and relying on it I venture to suggest that the Government of India be moved to come to the rescue by supplying the immediate requirements in the shape of a more powerful Dredger with suitable appliances and hopper barges as asked for by the Port Commissioners of Chittagong at a total cost of about 14 lakhs of rupees which they would welcome to have as a grant and not as a loan and also by meeting the costs of maintenance of the same. Otherwise the enormous amounts of money already spent for revetment and dredging as well as the capital outlay for the Railway and the terminal jetties will prove a sheer waste.

The Port of Chittagong is yet a young one and will take some time to become financially strong. Government subsidies have been liberally granted for its improvements and will have to be continued for some years before substantial proofs of return can be expected. The present income of the port is not sufficient to bear the burden of interest charges and of repayment of instalments of a large loan. Facilities given to ocean-going steamers of heavier draughts will no doubt result in the expansion of trade, thereby securing good return in the near future, a reliable forecast of which cannot be given at present by even the best experts in the mercantile line.

Resolutions—Mr. Bayley and Mr. Beatson Bell—Adjournment.

Apart from the benefit derivable by the Port and the Railway, the present large addition of about 15 lakhs of rupees to the Imperial Revenue from customs duty on salt alone at Chittagong will justify liberal contributions from the Imperial Revenue for the improvement of this port."

THE HON'BLE MR. BAYLEY SAID :—

"My Lord I beg to associate myself with the remarks made by the Hon'ble Babu Upendra Lal Ray in moving his Resolution in which he recommends that the Government of India be approached with the request to provide funds for the purchase and yearly maintenance of a second dredger for the Port of Chittagong. In my remarks in this Council in April of this year I gave reasons to show that a second dredger is urgently required. There is no need for me to repeat what I then said. Also the Port Commissioners, Chittagong, have since then had the advantage of a visit from the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell, who, after inquiring into the matter on the spot, intimated that necessary funds could only be expected from the Government of India. Chittagong has also quite recently had the honour of a visit from Your Excellency, during which, I think, Your Excellency was able to inquire yourself as to whether the request for a second dredger is reasonable or not. It is agreed, I think, that the river requires immediate attention, and that dredging is the first requirement, and I trust, therefore, that Your Excellency's Government will at a very early date urge the Government of India to afford the desired relief at the earliest possible moment.

With these words, My Lord, I beg to support the Resolution."

THE HON'BLE MR. BEATSON BELL SAID :—

"My Lord, I am glad to say that we accept this Resolution. Our letter to India on this subject was under preparation before we received notice of this Resolution. We are now in correspondence with the Port Commissioners in order to obtain some further information. I need hardly say that we desire to make our reference to India as cogent and convincing as possible."

The motion was then put and agreed to

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First Forecast of the Cotton Crops of Bengal, 1915-16.

(Note. On the average of the five years ending 1912-13, the area under the Cotton Crop in Bengal represents some 0·2 per cent. of the total area under Cotton in India.)

Character of the season.—Early cotton is grown in the districts of Bankura, Midnapore, Mymensingh, the Chittagong Hill Tracts and in the State of Hill Tippera, and late cotton in the districts of Bankura and Midnapore only. The condition of the early crop in all the districts is reported to be fairly good excepting in Midnapore, where the condition of both varieties of the crop is reported to be unsatisfactory owing to want of timely rain. In Bankura the late crop has not been sown yet.

Area sown.—The area sown with early cotton is reported to be 85,698 acres, against the estimate of 89,460 acres reported at the corresponding date of last year and against the estimate of 89,477 acres of last year, now revised, owing to inclusion of 17 acres for Mymensingh for the first time.

Of the late crop 700 acres have been sown up to date, against 500 acres reported at the corresponding date of last year.

CALCUTTA,
The 9th August 1915.

II. Progress of agricultural operations.—The preparation of fields for winter rice and the transplantation of the seedlings were in full swing, but more rain was wanted for the operations in the western districts. The weeding of bhadoi crops was over. The harvesting of aus paddy and jute continued in the eastern districts and commenced in some of the western districts also.

III. State of the standing crops.—Excepting in some of the low lands in the Eastern Bengal districts, where the standing crops were reported to have been submerged owing to excessive rain and flood, the season was generally favourable.

IV. Prospects and probable outturn.—The prospects of standing crops excepting in some of the northern and eastern districts were reported to be fairly good.

V. Damage to standing crops.—The standing crops on low lands in some Eastern Bengal districts were damaged to some extent by the accumulation of water. During the third week of the month locusts were reported to have appeared and caused some damage in certain tea gardens of the Darjeeling district. Damage to paddy and jute by insect-pests in parts of the 24-Parganas, Murshidabad, Jessore and Howrah was reported towards the end of the month.

VI. Condition of agricultural stock.—The condition of agricultural stock was fair. Cattle-disease was reported to be prevalent in parts of the 24-Parganas, Nadia, Murshidabad, Jessore, Khulna, Birbhum, Bankura, Midnapore, Hooghly, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Rangpur, Malda, Mymensingh, Chittagong, Noakhali and Cooch Behar.

VII. Failure of pasturage and fodder.—Fodder was reported to be scarce everywhere in Tippera throughout the month and in parts of Mymensingh during the week ending on the 19th July.

VIII. Prices of food-grains.—During the second fortnight of the month under review, the prices of common rice rose in eight districts, fell in five and remained stationary in the rest. It varied from 8 seers 8 chittacks per rupee at Chittagong to 6 seers 3 chittacks at Comilla.

IX. Condition of agricultural people.—The condition of agricultural population throughout the Province was fair excepting in Noakhali and in parts of Tippera, where some distress prevailed owing to low prices of jute last year. Test relief-works were opened in places and gratuitous relief and agricultural loans were given in the affected parts.

For the week ending on the 9th August 1915.

Summary.—During the week under review seasonable rain fell throughout the province. More rain is, however, still wanted in some districts, especially those in the Burdwan Division. The transplantation of winter paddy and the harvesting of aus paddy and jute are in progress. Some damage to the standing crops by insect-pests is reported from parts of the 24-Parganas, Nadia and Jessore; the prospects are fairly good. Cattle-disease exists in eight districts. Scarcity of fodder continues to be reported from parts of the Mymensingh and Tippera districts. The distress in Noakhali has practically ceased. Scarcity, however, still prevails in parts of Tippera. The daily average of persons engaged on relief-works in Tippera during the week amounted to 260. A sum of Rs. 2,450 was distributed in the form of agricultural loans in Noakhali. The average price of common rice has risen slightly as compared with that of the previous week.

PROSPECTUS OF THE GOVERNMENT COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE.

THE Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta, affords a training of a practical and businesslike character, well up to date and capable of direct application to the commerce and trade of the city. It is neither a business college in which the academic element exceeds the vocational in relative importance nor a secondary school of commerce, but a higher school of commerce in which the vocational element predominates but in a liberal manner.

2. There is a specialised Day Course extending over two years, ending in the Commercial Course Final Examination. Provision is also made for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures on Advanced Book-keeping, high speed in Shorthand and Typewriting, Political Economy, Mercantile Law, Annuities and Insurance, Banking and Currency, and Accountancy, ending annually in Special Examinations in each of the subjects. These lectures are intended to give persons already employed in business a chance of improving their efficiency as first-rate Shorthand-writers, Typists, Book-keepers, or Auditors, and of gaining an intelligent insight into the economical, financial and legal principles on which commerce is based.

3. The aim of the Institute is to turn out a type of young man who, if he has received a thorough grounding in the ordinary school subjects, especially in English, has the makings of a useful assistant either in commercial or in Government offices, and who, if he is willing to avail himself of the facilities offered for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures, may become well equipped to be a businessman.

THE DAY COURSE.

4. There are two day classes—a first-year class and a second-year class. Papers are now before the Government proposing the following course of study, which, if sanctioned, will be introduced for the coming session :*—

COMPULSORY SUBJECTS.	OPTIONAL SUBJECTS.
(1) Modern English, and especially English correspondence, including commercial correspondence, letter drafting and précis-writing.	(1) Shorthand.
(2) Arithmetic, including commercial and mental arithmetic.	(2) Typewriting.
(3) An Indian Vernacular, such as Bengali, Hindi, Urdu, Uriya, &c.	(The marks obtained in optional subjects will count towards scholarships, a class, or a mark of distinction.)
(A special paper for Anglo-Indian candidates.)
(4) Commercial Geography.
(5) Book-keeping.

* Note—The course of study has hitherto been as follows :—

(1) Modern English, and especially English correspondence, including commercial correspondence, letter drafting and précis-writing.

(2) Arithmetic including commercial and mental arithmetic.

(3) One of the following languages, namely, Bengali, Hindi, Urdu, Uriya, French, German or Latin.

(4) One of the following subjects, namely, book-keeping, shorthand-writing or typewriting.

(5) Commercial Geography.

English.—The English teaching is as severely practical as it can be made. In the first-year class, the students regularly practise dictation and essay-writing. They also practise writing easy letters, both official and business, as between a private man and a firm, and making index and précis of such letters.

In the second-year class they study the advanced stages of Commercial Practice or Business Methods and are drilled constantly to work out complete transactions, enabling them to appreciate not only the exact relation which one item bears to another but also the place of each in the completed whole, the transactions given in outline furnishing material for unaided work on the part of the students. They now practise making index and continuous précis, not only of all the series of letters arising in the transactions given but also of longer official letters and their replies from such bodies as Chambers of Commerce and other Associations. Their papers are corrected and returned soon after they are submitted. No text-books being prescribed, the students are under no temptation to cram, their capacity to write simple correct English with perspicuity and brevity thus developing under careful guidance.

Modern Bengali, including Bengali commercial correspondence, etc.—In Bengali "Kapalkundala" by Bankim Chandra Chatterjea is prescribed as a text-book affording a model for style and diction. Besides this language work, practices and principles obtaining in the commercial transactions covering different branches are also taught in Bengali, giving the Bengali students a further opportunity to learn them and to practise drafting business letters in their mother-tongue. They are required also to make index and précis, in Bengali, of commercial letters.

In order that they may be able to express themselves clearly and accurately in Bengali and in English and with a view more effectively to supplement the practical teaching in English, special attention is paid to translation of passages from English into Bengali and retranslation after some time has elapsed, and vice versa.

Commercial Geography.—The course in Commercial Geography deals specially with the relations of cause and effect that hold good between the general principles of geography and the occurrence, production, and exchange of commodities. It also deals in an elementary way with the history of commodities.

The Commercial Geography text-books used are "Commercial Geography of the World" by A. J. Herbertson, "A Short Commercial Geography" by L. W. Lyde, "Elementary Commercial Geography" by H. R. Mill, "A School Economic Atlas" by J. G. Bartholomew, and "A New Geography of the Indian Empire and Ceylon" by Morrison.

Commercial and Mental Arithmetic.—In Arithmetic the students are taught addition, subtraction, multiplication and division—simple and compound; approximation in multiplication and division; G. C. M. and L. C. M.; fractions—vulgar and decimal; practice; proportion—simple and compound (i.e., simple rule of three and double rule of three); the metric system; percentages, commission, etc.; proportional division; profit and loss; mixtures; interest—simple and compound; present worth and discount; stocks and shares; exchange—chain rule; square root. Grant and Hill's "Commercial Arithmetic" and "Mental Arithmetic" are used.

Shorthand.—During the first-year of the course the students are thoroughly grounded in the theory of Pitman's Shorthand and are expected to attain a speed of 50 words per minute at the end of the year. "Pitman's Shorthand Instructor" (centenary edition) is the text-book used. Throughout the second-year they practise speed. The minimum speed sought to be attained is 80 words per minute. The best students are found to attain a speed of 120 words a minute. In the Final Examination speed tests are held at 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute.

Typewriting.—The "Touch" system of Typewriting is carefully taught from the beginning. No particular text-book is used. The students are required to attain a minimum speed of 30 words per minute at the end of the two years' course. The maximum speed prescribed for the examination, is 55 words per minute. The intermediate standard of speed test is 40 words per minute. There is also a tabulating examination corresponding to each speed test.

Book-keeping.—The full course of the Day classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in the elementary stage. It is expected that a student shall have already received a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic. A Double Entry system is taught with simple accounts and commercial transactions. Students are taught to open and keep the following books: Purchase Day Book, Sales Day Book, Cash Book, Bill Book, Journal, and Ledger. Instruction is also given in making entries for outgoing and incoming single consignments. In connection with these books instruction is given in Trial Balance and the preparation of Profit and Loss Accounts and Balance Sheets.

5. Fee.—The students pay an admission fee of Rs. 3. The monthly tuition fee is Rs. 3. The text-books which the students have to buy cost about Rs. 16.

6. Attendance.—The classes are held between 11 A.M. and 4 P.M. except on Saturdays, when they are held between 11 A.M. and 2 P.M. Students of typewriting are allowed to stay later for extra practice.

7. Session.—The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the end of April. The usual Autumn and Christmas holidays are given.

8. Standard of admission.—Candidates who have passed the Matriculation examination are eligible for admission. Others are admitted, provided they satisfy the Education Department, by passing a preliminary test examination of a similar standard, that they have sufficient general education to enable them to derive advantage from the teaching. Graduates and Intermediates may be admitted in the second year class provided they have sufficient knowledge in Book-keeping.

Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal before the end of June.

THE EVENING COURSE.

The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the middle of April.

9. Evening classes.—If a sufficient number of students join, evening classes will be formed for the following subjects: Shorthand-writing, Typewriting, Book-keeping, Accountancy and Auditing, Political Economy, Annuities and Insurance, Mercantile Law, Modern English, and Banking and Currency. Fees are paid according to the number of lectures delivered in each subject. Classes were formed last year in all the subjects except Political Economy and Modern English. A student may be a member of one or more classes at his option.

10. Accountancy and Auditing.—A new class will be commenced this year to prepare candidates for the Government Examination in Auditing. It has been proposed to hold examinations for a Diploma in Accountancy in Bombay and other centres, but the question has not been finally settled.

11. Shorthand.—Students are admitted in July and also in December every year. The examination is held in April. For the session July to November the fee is Rs. 12, payable in four instalments of Rs. 3 each. Only those having a minimum speed of 60 words per minute are admitted in July. For the session December to mid-April, the fee is Rs. 16, payable in four instalments of Rs. 4 each. Those having a speed of 80 words a minute or more are admitted in December. Speed classes are so held as to enable a student to attain any of the four grades of speed required for the Special Examination, viz., 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute. There is no Theory class in the evening. The class sits at 6 P.M. daily (except on Saturdays and holidays).

12. Typewriting.—Beginners are admitted in July. They are carefully taught the "Touch" system. Advanced students are also admitted in this session. In December, only students having a speed of at least 20 words per minute are admitted. No beginner can join this session. By mid-April, when the examination is held, the minimum speed sought to be attained is 35 words per minute and the maximum is 60 words per minute. There is an intermediate speed test at 45 words per minute. For each of the three speed tests there is a corresponding accuracy test in tabulating, which is carefully taught. The fee is the same as that of the Shorthand class ; but a reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student, who is simultaneously a member of both the Shorthand and Typewriting classes, is granted, and the same reduction per instalment of each of the three fees payable is made when a student is simultaneously a member of three classes, viz., Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping. The Typewriting class is divided into two groups, the first of which practise from 5 to 6-30 P.M. and the second from 6-30 to 8 P.M. (except on Saturdays and holidays).

13. Book-keeping.—The full course of the evening classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in two stages—the Elementary and the Advanced. Preparatory to the Elementary work it is expected that a student shall have a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic—

(a) The first-year class ends with the Special Examination in Elementary Book-keeping.

(b) In the second-year class, ending in the Special Examination in Advanced Book-keeping, the course includes matters as under :—

In the advanced stage there is considered the nature of capital, whether as money or property, stocks, shares, classification of capital, revenue accounts, the use of departmental ledgers, also the establishment and recoupment of sinking funds, investment accounts, public, railway, gas and water companies' accounts. Joint-stock companies' accounts are dealt with completely. Instruction is also given in joint consignments, partnerships, contracts, etc. The nature and purposes of allowances to be made for depreciation in value of property are also made clear.

The fee for the elementary Book-keeping class is Rs. 24, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 3 each, and that of the advanced Book-keeping class is Rs. 32, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 4 each. A reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of two of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting, or Book-keeping will be granted, and the same reduction is granted per instalment of each of the three fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of three of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping.

14. Standard of admission.—Candidates who have attended the lectures in the day course will be eligible for admission to the evening course. Others will be admitted, provided they appear qualified for the class or classes they seek to join. Candidates for admission to Typewriting and the first-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient general education. Candidates for admission to the Shorthand and the second-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient knowledge of Shorthand or Book-keeping, as the case may be.

15. Examinations and certificates.—The following examinations will be held annually in April :—

(1) The Commercial Course Final Examination.
(2) A special Examination in Mercantile Law.
(3) Ditto ditto Banking and Currency.
(4) Ditto ditto Outline of Political Economy.
(5) Ditto ditto Annuities and Insurance.
(6) Ditto ditto Modern English.
(7) Ditto ditto Book-keeping (Elementary).
(8) Ditto ditto Book-keeping (Advanced).
(9) Ditto ditto Shorthand-writing.
(10) Ditto ditto Typewriting.

The fee is Rs. 5 for each Special Examination and Rs. 8 for the Final Examination. The Commercial Course Final Examination at the end of the two years' Day course and the Commercial Course Special Examinations in each of the subjects specified for evening lectures at the end of each year are controlled by the Commercial Course Advisory and Examination Board, a body consisting of educational officers and gentlemen engaged in commerce in Calcutta. On the results of these examinations certificates are granted by the Education Department, these certificates being endorsed by the Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce, which body, as also the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce, have undertaken to publish the list of the successful candidates.

16. Scholarships.—Three scholarships of Rs. 12 each per mensem, tenable for one year, will be awarded to those among the students admitted in the first-year Day class in the Government Commercial Institute who have secured the highest number of marks in English in the Matriculation examination of the Calcutta University, and three scholarships of Rs. 20 each per mensem, tenable for one year, will be awarded to the students of the second-year Day class who will obtain the highest total number of marks at a preliminary examination to be held at the end of the first year for the purpose of awarding the scholarships and determining promotion. Holders of junior and senior University Scholarships are not eligible for these scholarships.

Prizes.—First and second prizes of Rs. 75 and Rs. 50 respectively will be offered by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce for competition by the students of the Day class and another prize of Rs. 50 will be offered by the same body for competition among the students of the Evening classes in each of the following subjects :—

Mercantile Law, Banking and Currency, Annuities and Insurance, Political Economy, Modern English, Shorthand and Advanced Book-keeping.

Three prizes are offered by the Remington Typewriter Company to be awarded to the three students of the Institute obtaining the highest marks for efficiency in Typewriting.

17. Prospects of passed students.—345 students have been successful in the Final and Special Examinations. All of these are now employed in various offices, both mercantile and Government. A good many of them, viz., those that had joined either the Day or Evening classes with a tolerably fair grounding in English and could therefore make the best use of the training received here, have risen above the level of ordinary clerks and are now drawing from Rs. 60 to Rs. 120. Some of them are reported to be shaping very well in their respective spheres, and are receiving rapid promotion. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce has issued a circular letter containing a request to its members to make it a rule to take the passed students of the Day classes, whenever possible, in preference to other clerks, and the Advisory Board has recommended that the Government should pass orders that one-third of the vacancies in the Secretariat Clerical Services (Lower grade) every year should be reserved for our successful candidates in the Final examination. The matter has been sent up for the consideration of Government.

Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal before the end of June.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 895L.—The 16th August 1915.—His Excellency the President having been pleased to direct, under rule 39 (b) of the Bengal Legislative Rules, 1912, the publication of the Report of the Select Committee, to which the Bill to decentralize and otherwise to facilitate the administration of certain enactments in force in Bengal, was referred, the Report of the Select Committee, with the Bill, as amended by them, annexed, is hereby published for general information.

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE BENGAL DECENTRALIZATION BILL, 1915.

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee, to which the Bill to decentralize and otherwise to facilitate the administration of certain enactments in force in Bengal, was referred, have considered the Bill and have the honour to submit this our Report with the Bill, as amended by us, annexed thereto. In reprinting the Bill, the changes made by us have been underlined.

2. In order to give effect to the arrangement under which the Board of Revenue has been relieved of all work connected with excise matters, we have inserted a provision to repeal clause Tenth of section 8 of the Bengal Land-revenue Regulation, 1793 (Bengal Regulation II of 1793).

3. In section 47A (4) of the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866 (Ben. Act II of 1866) and section 78A (4) of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866 (Ben. Act IV of 1866), we have substituted "control" for "administrative control", as we consider that the word "administrative" adds nothing to the meaning and may, on the contrary, lead to misunderstanding. We notice that it does not appear in the Government of India's Decentralization Act (IV of 1914).

4. In section 6 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866 (Ben. Act IV of 1866) the form of the proposed amendment has been altered. The words "with the sanction of the Governor General of India in Council" have now been omitted.

5. We have thought it desirable to omit the proposed amendment of section 61 of the Court of Wards Act, 1879 (Ben. Act IX of 1879). An adoption by a ward of the Court may be a matter of State importance, and we think it necessary that the sanction of the Local Government should be obtained.

6. The opportunity has been taken to extend to Eastern Bengal the delegations of powers made for Western Bengal in sections 12, 14, 15, 16, 36, 37, 46 (2), 54 and 57 of the Cess Act, 1880 (Ben. Act IX of 1880) by the Bengal Cess (Amendment) Act, 1910 (Ben. Act IV of 1910).

Certain delegations have also been made in sections 11, 42, 46 (1), 83 88 and 100 of the Cess Act, 1880, transferring to the Board of Revenue sundry powers at present vested in the Local Government.

Two consequential amendments have been made in section 4 and Schedule D of the same Act.

7. After some discussion, we decided that all the amendments relating to the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884 (Ben. Act III of 1884) proposed in the Bill as introduced in Council would be more suitably considered when a general amendment of that Act is next taken in hand. We understand that such legislation is contemplated by Government. We have, therefore, omitted these amendments from the Bill.

8. For a similar reason we have omitted the amendments relating to the Estates Partition Act, 1897 (Ben. Act V of 1897).

9. We have no modifications to suggest in regard to the other portions of the Bill and we recommend that the Bill, as amended by us, be passed.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE INDIAN COMPANIES ACT (VII OF 1913), PROVIDENT INSURANCE SOCIETIES ACT (V OF 1912), AND THE SOCIETIES REGISTRATION ACT (XXI OF 1860), IN BENGAL, FOR THE YEAR 1914-15.

No. 410, dated Calcutta, the 1st June 1915.

From—W. STATHER HALE, ESQ., A.C.A., Registrar of Joint-Stock Companies, Bengal,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Dept.

I HAVE the honour to submit the Annual Report on the Working of the Indian Companies Act (VII of 1913), Provident Insurance Societies Act (V of 1912), and the Societies Registration Act (XXI of 1860), in Bengal, for the year 1914-15, together with the eleven statistical tables prescribed by the Government of India.

STATEMENT No. I.

2. The number of companies limited by shares in operation at the end of the year was 970 as compared with 973 at the commencement of the year, and their capital was as follows:—

Nominal.		Rs.	Paid up.		Rs.
1913-14	...	92,89,62,900	1913-14	...	28,51,34,118

STATEMENT No. II.

3. The number of companies registered during the year was 73 as against 165 in the year ending 31st March 1914. Of these 57 were limited by shares, 4 were limited by guarantee, and 11 were registered under Act XXI of 1860. One company out of 73 was struck off under sections 101 and 247 of the Indian Companies Act (VII of 1913).

4. The classified list of companies limited by shares registered during the past and preceding years is as follows:—

	1913-14.	1914-15.
Banking and Loan	21	4
Insurance	40	7
Trading	54	27
Mills and Presses	6	...
Tea and Planting	19	5
Mining and Quarrying	9	7
Land and Building	2	1
Ice manufacturing	1	...
Railway and Tramway	...	1
Shipping, Landing and Warehousing ...	...	2
Printing, Publishing and Stationery ...	...	1
Sugar manufacturing	.	1
Other Companies	1	1
	153	57

5. It will be noticed that there is a considerable falling off in the number of companies registered during the year under review as compared with previous years, doubtless due to disturbance in the financial market in the latter months of 1914 owing to the European War.

6. Two-thousand six-hundred and seventy-five documents and papers were registered during the past year, and fees amounting to Rs. 34,920-14 were received. The decrease in the fees is accounted for by the smaller number of new companies registered during the period, but it will be observed that there is a considerable increase in the number of documents filed, the figures being 1,703 for the year 1913-14 as against 2,675 for the year under review, this increase is due to two causes, viz., the coming into operation of the Indian Companies Act (VII of 1913) and the persistent effort which has been made throughout the year to compel companies to register the required papers in proper time.

EXPENDITURE.

7. The following is a summary of the expenditure in this office for the year 1914-15:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Registrar's salary	9,600	0	0
Establishment	4,752	8	11
Furniture	3,231	4	0
Contingent	1,828	5	3
Travelling	52	15	0

THE INDIAN COMPANIES ACT (VII OF 1913).

8. This Act came into force on the 1st April 1914, and on that date the office of the Registrar of Joint-Stock Companies was separated from that of the Registrar of Assurances and Mr. F. R. Corson, A.C.A., was appointed to the new post then created. Mr. Corson resigned his appointment on the 15th March last and I was appointed in his place.

9. A good deal of ignorance of and some hostility towards the new Act was displayed by the Directors and officials of Indian companies. It was ascertained that, on 1st May 1914, some 300 companies were in default in respect of filing documents required by the provisions of Act VI of 1882, and as already stated, a persistent effort has been made throughout the year to bring the filing of papers up to date. This necessitated the institution of 120 prosecutions against companies and their officers: 61 convictions were obtained, 5 were dismissed, 24 were withdrawn, and the remainder were still pending at the close of the financial year. The result of these prosecutions has been that, in a great majority of cases, compliance was made with the provisions of the Act, two companies however persisted in their defiance of the law and were prosecuted for the second time.

10. It was found that a number of companies were actually defunct, although no liquidation proceedings had been carried out, and in these cases the companies were struck off under section 247. Although more than 12 months have elapsed since the commencement of the working of the Act, it is still noticeable that Directors and other officers of Indian companies fail to realize the responsibilities resting upon them. In fact it would seem that many of them have not taken the trouble to make themselves acquainted with their duties. In almost every case where a prosecution has been instituted against a Director he has pleaded ignorance and protested against being held responsible, and in some cases, especially in the mufassal, Magistrates have been, in my opinion, too lenient with this class of offender.

11. The provisions of section 277 as regards the registration of companies established outside British India were entirely new to the commercial community in Bengal, and although there was some delay in the issue of the rules under the Act, it is a matter of satisfaction to be able to report that every endeavour was made on the part of those concerned to comply with the new conditions. During the year 358 companies were registered under this section.

12. Section 144 forbids the employment by a company, other than a private company, of auditors other than those duly authorized by the Government of India or who have obtained certificates from the Local Government entitling them to act as auditors of companies. A number of applications for certificates were received during the year, and four applicants received unrestricted certificates and 24 restricted certificates. In every case the certificates were issued for a period of two years only.

13. In connection with the auditing of companies' accounts it has come to my knowledge that many Indian-managed companies systematically ignore the provisions of the Act, with regard to the election and re-election of auditors. The Directors call for tenders from authorized auditors and appoint the person sending in the lowest tender. This is not in accordance with the terms of the Act, which provides that if auditors are not appointed by shareholders in annual general meeting, the Local Government may, on the application of any member of the company, appoint an auditor, but no power is reserved to the Directors to do so. This practice also displays a total lack of knowledge of the traditions of the profession of an accountant and auditor on the part of those who stoop to compete for such audits.

14. One of the most important changes in Company Law effected by the new Act is the provision for the registration of mortgages or charges upon the property of limited liability companies as provided by section 109. During the past year 81 such charges were registered in this office, the total money value being Rs. 10,44,45,000. Whilst it would appear that companies are observing the provisions of the Act with regard to the registration of mortgages and charges, they are not so particular in filing a memorandum of satisfaction. The effect of this neglect will be that in many cases companies will appear to be more heavily indebted than is actually the case.

Provident Insurance Societies Act (V of 1912).

15. This Act came into force in the year 1912, but as the rules to be made by the Government of Bengal were not published until 5th August 1914, it may be said to have remained inoperative until that date.

A large number of societies—some 120 in all—were affected by the Act, and it was laid down that within six months from 4th August 1914, each society must submit its rules for registration. These rules were required to be in accordance with a model schedule prescribed by Government and to contain all the information and stipulations therein set forth.

Almost without exception those companies which forwarded their rules endeavoured to omit all restrictions which they disliked, the result being that their schedules were returned for amendment. In some cases these had to be returned three times before they were correct, and so dilatory were the methods of many companies that the period of six months elapsed with only 25 companies registered. All companies which were not already dissolved under the Companies Act were then prohibited from carrying on business until their rules were registered, this applying to 103 companies. The result was an immediate rush for registration, the officials now realizing that delay was dangerous, and 55 companies have since registered their rules.

16. In conclusion I desire to mention that Mr. Corson has rendered me great assistance in preparation of this Report.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 16th August 1915.

Summary.—During the week under report heavy rain fell over the greater part of Eastern Bengal, but the fall was generally light to moderate elsewhere. More rain is urgently wanted in the West Bengal districts for the transplantation of winter paddy and for the growth of the standing crops. The transplanting of winter rice and harvesting of autumn rice and jute continue. Some damage to the standing crops by heavy rainfall and floods is reported from some East Bengal districts. The prospects of standing crops are, otherwise, fairly good. Fodder is reported to be scarce in parts of Mymensingh and Tippera. Cattle-disease prevails in nine districts. Scarcity still exists in some parts of Tippera. Test-works are being opened in parts of Bankura. The average price of common rice for the province has slightly risen as compared with that of the previous week.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

No. 757.—The Governor-General in Council has much pleasure in directing the publication of the following letter from the Chief of the General Staff, dated the 29th July 1915, submitting a despatch from General Sir J E. Nixon, K.C.B., Commanding, Indian Expeditionary Force "D," describing the operations in the vicinity of Shaiba,—12th to 14th April 1915. The Governor-General in Council concurs in the opinion expressed by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, regarding the conduct of the troops engaged in the operations and the manner in which the latter were carried out. His Excellency in Council also shares the opinion of the Commander-in-Chief that the manner in which the attack on the 14th April 1915 was executed, reflects the greatest credit on Major-General C. J. Melliss, V C., C.B., and on the troops engaged.

Simla, the 29th July 1915.

FROM

SIR,

I am directed by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief in India to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the following report :—

Report by General Sir J. E. Nixon, K.C.B., Commanding Indian Expeditionary Force "D," on the Operations in the vicinity of Shaiba, 12th—14th April 1915.

2. His Excellency considers that the conduct of the troops in these operations was exemplary throughout, that the operations were skilfully carried out and that in particular, the manner in which the attack on the 14th April was executed, reflects the greatest credit both on Major-General Melliss and on the troops engaged.

3. His Excellency recommends that this report be treated as a despatch and published in the Gazette of India.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Sd.) P. LAKE, Lieutenant-General,

No. 168-4-O.

General Headquarters.

INDIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE "D."

Basrah, 6th May 1915.

FROM

GENERAL SIR JOHN ECCLES NIXON, K.C.B.,

Commanding Force "D."

To

THE CHIEF OF THE GENERAL STAFF, SIMLA.

SIR,

I have the honour to forward, for the information of the Government of India, the accompanying despatches from Major-General C. J. Fry, regarding the fighting at Shaiba on the 12th April, and from Major-General C. J. Melliss, V.C., C.B. regarding the action at Shaiba on the 13th, followed by the defeat of the Turkish forces on the 14th at the battle of Barjisiyah.

2. The Shaiba garrison on the 11th April 1915, consisted of the troops named in the margin, the whole under the command of Major-General Fry.

6th Division. 16th Brigade.

Brigadier-General W. S. Delamain, C.B., D.S.O.—
2nd Dorset Regiment.
104th Wellesley's Rifles.
117th Mahrattas.

18th Brigade.

Major-General C. I. Fry—
2nd Norfolk Regiment.
110th Mahratta Light Infantry.
120th Rajputana Infantry.
48th Pioneers.
63rd Battery, Royal Field Artillery (less 1 gun). } 10th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery.
76th Battery, Royal Field Artillery. }
23rd Mountain Battery.
17th Company, Sappers and Miners.
22nd Company, Sappers and Miners.
No. 34 Divisional Signal Company.

Cavalry Brigade.

Brigadier-General H. Kennedy.—
"S" Battery, Royal Horse Artillery.
7th Lancers.
16th Cavalry.
33rd Cavalry.

The defensive perimeter, in which this force was camped, extended over 3½ miles.

During the flood season from February to June, water, varying in depth from one to four feet, lies between Basrah and the further shore, and two methods of approach are in use across this lagoon, one by wading across 6 miles and landing near Old Basrah, whence troops and convoys have to march another 4 miles to reach Shaiba; the other by using the native boat, known as "bellum," which is punted by two men and carries 8 to 10 armed men or their equivalent in stores or ammunition. This latter line of approach passes through nearly 8 miles of water and is traversed transversely by a creek too deep to wade.

3. I took over command of this Force on the 9th April at Basrah from Lieutenant-General Sir A. A. Barrett, K.C.B., K.C.V.O., who was granted leave on the 10th by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief owing to ill-health.

The same morning, about daybreak, a party of the horsemen reconnoitered close to Shaiba, but retired before our cavalry.

On the 11th it was reported that the enemy's cavalry had occupied Barjisiyah wood, and that some 4,000 infantry were moving into Shwebda; later in the day Major-General Fry, who had succeeded to the command of the 6th Division, reported that he considered them to be the advanced guard of the enemy's main forces, and that a serious engagement was probable within the next day or two.

I ordered the 30th Brigade, reinforced by the 30th Mountain Battery, under the command of Major-General Melliss, V.C., C.B., to move to Shaiba the following morning, and since he, as senior officer, would command all the forces there, I placed at his disposal the staff of the 6th Division and ordered them to proceed to Shaiba with him.

4. At about 7-30 A.M. on the 12th, General Fry reported that he was attacked from the south in force, and at 11-20 A.M. that he was confident of being able to resist all attacks but was unable to prevent the occupation of Old Basrah by the enemy.

Meanwhile, General Melliss' Brigade, having marched from Makina Masus, commenced its crossing about 9 A.M.

The water was high and the enemy disclosed guns and infantry near Old Basrah; at about 10 A.M. General Fry sent word to say that the enemy were in force between Shaiba and Old Basrah, and that he could not spare more than two battalions to co-operate with General Melliss' Brigade.

As, owing to the distance, I was unable to cover with guns the crossing of General Melliss' Brigade, and, moreover, as he could make no use in the water of the Mountain Battery which accompanied him, I ordered him to return after he had accomplished about one-third of the journey, and to cross by "bellum" by the second route.

The boatmen refused to assist and only about 80 "bellums" were available; I therefore ordered men of the 20th Punjabis, who readily came forward, to punt them. By about 4 P.M. General Melliss, accompanied by the Staff of the 6th Division and most of the 24th Punjabis, started and got successfully across to Shaiba that evening by about 10-30 P.M. During the return journey these "bellums" were attacked by the enemy in some force.

These were the only reinforcements which I found it possible to send by the evening of the 14th. The enemy in "bellums" were in considerable force in the lagoon on the route taken on the 13th, and it was therefore necessary to organise better protection for the next day in the shape of a special guard with mountain guns placed on "bellum" rafts. This convoy got across on the 14th with gun ammunition and the remainder of the 24th Punjabis and the arrangements made would have allowed this convoy to be continued daily.

5. The actions themselves are described by the Commanders, and I will now pass on to the part played by the Euphrates Blockade Flotilla, consisting of armed launches, small steamers and gun barges on which were mounted two 4·7", one 12-pr. and three 3-pr. Naval guns, one 5" B. L. and one 18-pr. gun. This flotilla, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel R. P. Molesworth, R.G.A., was enabled to do good service, aided as it was by the valuable assistance of Lieutenant A. G. Seymour, R.N., H.M.S. "Espiegle," officers and men of the Royal Navy on this station.

When the fighting commenced round Shaiba on the 12th, this flotilla was operating off Nakhailah intercepting supplies, which were coming to the enemy across the water in "mahailas" (country boats of from 30 to 80 tons burthen).

The Officer Commanding the Blockade, having observed the action of Barjisiyah on the 14th, approached Nakhailah early on the morning of the 15th and finding that many of the enemy were escaping in native craft, at once gave chase and pursued them to Ratawi, destroying 8 and capturing 4 large "mahailas"; a heavy gale on the following day forced him to lie to.

On the 17th he reached Chubashiah but found it entirely deserted. The enemy were seen retiring in scattered groups accross the desert, and though he fired a few rounds at them, they offered no target. It would appear, from subsequent information, that, during their retreat, the enemy were harassed and robbed by their former allies, the Arabs, and that they fled across the desert in wild confusion, scarcely halting until they reached Kamsieh, a distance of close on 90 miles from the scene of their defeat, so thoroughly disorganised were they.

It is now known that Suleiman Askeri, the Turkish Commander, shot himself at Nakhailah after assembling his officers and denouncing the faithlessness of the Arabs.

A large quantity of ammunition, both gun and rifle, was captured upon the battlefield at Barjisiyah and subsequently at Nakhailah; this was either brought in or destroyed on the spot. The total in round numbers amounts to some—

1,500 shell—4·5", 15-pr., and Mountain gun.

400—500,000 rounds S. A. A.

3,000 hand-grenades, some boxes of lyddite and a number of bombs, fuzes and primers.

6. I cannot speak too highly of the steadiness, spirit and pluck shown by the troops in these actions, nor of the able manner in which they were handled by their Commanders.

In the battle of Barjisiyah our troops had to attack over open ground a superior force of the enemy, skilfully entrenched and concealed, on a front of over 3 miles.

The Turkish troops showed themselves well trained and exhibited tenacity and courage; while their musketry and machine gun fire were remarkably effective.

In driving such an enemy from his position by a bayonet charge, after a steady advance in the face of a hot fire, the British force performed a feat of which any troops might be proud.

7. The races, from which the portion of the Southern Army engaged here are drawn, have shown, in the stiffest fight which has fallen to their lot for years, a steadfastness and gallantry worthy of all praise.

Mahrattas, Dekhani Mahomedans, men from Rajputana, Gujars and Mers have earned for themselves in these operations a proud reputation. They vied with their British comrades in this field, the Royal Artillery—the Norfolks—the Dorsets, in spirit and resolution, and have added lustre to their former traditions.

8. Major-General Fry, under whose orders the defences of Shaiba had been organised, made a very successful defence against the enemy's constant attacks for the first 24 hours, during which the enemy suffered heavy losses and were everywhere repulsed.

9. I would specially bring to notice the services of Major-General C. J. Melliss, V.C., C.B., who at once seized the opportunity of taking the offensive and, after driving the enemy from the vicinity of Shaiba on the 13th April, followed up this success the next day by attacking the Turkish forces in the strong position to which they had retired.

The determination and skill with which he handled his troops on the 14th April resulted in the complete defeat of the enemy after a very hard-fought action, and I fully endorse his recommendation that Barjisiyah be commemorated as a battle honour for the corps engaged.

10. I entirely agree with the recommendations made by Major-Generals Fry and Melliss in the Despatches I am now forwarding and I will only add remarks with regard to the following officers:—

Brigader-General W. S. Delamain, C. B., D. S. O.—This officer has consistently distinguished himself in command of his Brigade throughout the campaign, and has shown marked ability as a Commander.

Colonel R. N. Gamble, D.S.O., General Staff Officer, 6th Division, was Senior Officer to Major-General Melliss, who speaks most warmly of the services he rendered throughout the hard-fought and successful operations of the 13th and 14th April. I would also add that his thorough knowledge of the locality, of the troops, and of earlier operations has been of the greatest assistance to me.

Lieutenant-Colonel E. S. Cleeve, Royal Field Artillery.—This officer has shown himself an exceptionally able Artillery Commander, who, until disabled by a wound on the 14th April, handled his guns, not only to the admiration of his own side, but also to that of the Officer commanding the opposing artillery. That Turkish Officer, when taken prisoner, particularly requested that he might be presented to the officer who had directed the fire of the British guns, as our artillery fire, he said, had silenced the Turkish batteries in rapid succession in a way that he would not have considered possible.

11. In addition I wish to mention the following who prominently came to my notice, and who were not under the orders of either Major-General Fry or Major-General Melliss.

Major-General G. F. Gorringe, C. B., C.M.G., D.S.O.—In addition to the command of his own Division, he ably commanded the local defence troops and also undertook the temporary organization of the Communications and Base. His experience of river expeditions rendered him most valuable in arranging the despatch of troops and supplies across the lagoon between Basrah and Shaiba.

Lieutenant-Colonel R. P. Molesworth, R.A., for some weeks commanded the Euphrates Blockade Flotilla, which, with the aid of the Royal Navy, often under extremely arduous and hazardous conditions, did excellent service in stopping the enemy's supplies and harassing his retreat. Lieutenant-Colonel Molesworth has shown much enterprise and energy in these duties and also in reconnaissance work which has been most valuable.

Captain C. A. Pogson, 117th Mahrattas, has done very valuable intelligence work in connection with the Euphrates Blockade and showed much enterprise and daring. He has probably undergone more continuous hardships than any other individual in the force.

Lieutenant R. H. Dewing, Royal Engineers.—On April 15th, the Euphrates Blockade guns drove two "mahailas" (large country cargo-boats) into the reeds. Lieutenant Dewing went in after them and destroyed them with explosives.

Lieutenant Commander A. G. Seymour, R. N. (H. M. S. Espiegle).—The guns and gun crews of the Royal Navy under this officer have contributed largely to the success of the Euphrates Blockade, while his advice on Naval matters and constant support were most valuable to the Officer Commanding.

Major (temporary Lieutenant-Colonel) L. H. Queripel, R. A., Deputy Director of Army Signals, Head Quarters, has shown energy and capability in meeting the sudden strain thrown on the signal service by the operations round Shaiba.

Captain F. Booth, The King's Own (Royal Lancaster Regiment) No. 34 (Divisional Signal) Company.—His zeal and unremitting supervision successfully disposed of the heavy traffic that was unceasing between 12th and 16th April.

2nd-Lieutenant J. McConville, The King's (Liverpool Regiment) No. 34 (Divisional Signal) Company, from 12th to 16th April never left his station day or night, doing very valuable work.

No. 46, Serjeant A. Butcher, No. 34 (Divisional Signal) Company, between 12th and 16th constantly helped the Signallers in their work besides directing traffic and supervising the repair of lines. His services were of the greatest use.

Jemadar Marugesan, No. 34 (Divisional Signal) Company, made two brave attempts on 12th April to repair the Shaiba line, but on both occasions was recalled by the General Officer Commanding, 30th Brigade. Between that date and the 16th supervised his station with unremitting zeal.

No. 370, Naik Sher Ali, 20th Duke of Cambridge's Own Infantry (Brownlow's Punjabis), behaved with initiative and gallantry during the attack on a "bellum" convoy on night of the 12th-13th April.

Colonel P. Hehir, Indian Medical Service, Acting Deputy Director of Medical Services, materially assisted the operations by the ability and untiring energy which he displayed in the working of the important department over which he at the time was presiding.

Major H. A. Bransbury, Royal Army Medical Corps, commanded the sections of No. 19 Combined Clearing Hospital that carried out the evacuation of the wounded after Shaiba—attended himself to all cases (over 1,100 wounded including those of the enemy) as they arrived, displaying much initiative and resource.

4th Class Assistant Surgeon H. N. Murphy, Indian Subordinate Medical Department, was attached to No. 19 Combined Clearing Hospital during the evacuation of wounded from Shaiba—worked with untiring energy and marked intelligence, proving himself to be very capable and reliable.

12. Others of the Medical Service I consider worthy of commendation are:—

Lieutenant-Colonel H. M. Adamson, Royal Army Medical Corps.—(Commanding No. 3 A., British General Hospital up to 21st April.)

Lieutenant-Colonel G. B. Irvine, Indian Medical Service.—(Commanding No. 9, Indian General Hospital.)

Lieutenant-Colonel D. J. Collins, Royal Army Medical Corps.—(Commanding No. 3A., British General Hospital after 21st April.)

Lieutenant-Colonel F. J. Palmer, Royal Army Medical Corps.—(Surgical Specialist, No. 3A., British General Hospital.)

Major H. R. Brown, Indian Medical Service.—(Commanding No. 19 Combined Clearing Hospital.)

Captain C. C. C. Shaw, Indian Medical Service.—(No. 19 Combined Clearing Hospital.)

1st Class Assistant Surgeon W. H. Brown, Indian Subordinate Medical Department.—(In charge of Depôt of Medical Stores.)

13. In conclusion I cannot fail to mention the great assistance I received from Major-General G. V. Kemball, C.B., D.S.O.—Major-General, General Staff, and Brigadier-General W. G. Hamilton, D.S.O., Deputy Adjutant and Quartermaster-General, to whom I am much indebted for their able support; also to Lieutenant-Colonel Sir P. Z. Cox, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., the Chief Political Officer.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN NIXON, General,

Commanding Indian Expeditionary Force "D".

Report on the Operations at Shaiba on 11th and 12th April 1915, by Major-General C. I. Fry, Indian Army, Commanding at Shaiba.

No. 1815 (Confidential), dated Dirhamiyah, 21st April 1915.

From—MAJOR-GENERAL C. I. FRY, Commanding at Shaiba,
To—Major-General, General Staff, Indian Expeditionary Force "D."

I HAVE the honour to submit this report which deals with the first portion of the operations at Shaiba and covers the period during which I was in command of the garrison.

2. The first indication of the advance of the Turkish forces from Nakhailah was a message received from my normal Protective Cavalry reconnaissance at 7 A.M., to the effect that Barjisiyah Wood and Shwebda were occupied by hostile cavalry and that further troops were advancing on the latter place from the north-west. 11th April 1915. 7 A.M.

The Protective Cavalry were reinforced by the 33rd Cavalry and at 9 A.M., information was received that a large body of the enemy's cavalry had been located in Barjisiyah Wood, another body behind it, a large body of Arabs to the north-west of Shwebda and a large column of regular infantry estimated at 4,000 men was advancing on Shwebda from the direction of Nakhailah. No guns could be distinguished and there were no signs of enemy in other directions. 9 A.M.

Except for the approach of the columns on Shwebda, the situation remained unchanged till about 3-30 P.M., when our advanced patrols were driven back by hostile cavalry. 3-30 P.M.

At 4 P.M., the 6th Cavalry Brigade under Brigadier-General H. Kennedy moved out, supported by a small mixed column always held in readiness for the occasion. The enemy, however, retired into Barjisiyah Wood and by 7 P.M. all was quiet. 4 P.M.

3. My intelligence this evening pointed to an attack during the later portion of the night by a force of some 7 P.M.

12 Field Guns.
10,000 Tribesmen.

The plan of attack was said to be—

(a) An attack by the Turkish Regulars direct on the Fort.
(b) Saiyid Yezdi and his following were to attack, from Ana's Tomb, the north of our position.
(c) Ajaimi's Tribesmen on the south of Shaiba from Zubair.
(d) Yusuf, with the "beni malick", from Old Basrah.

All tents were struck and troops occupied their alarm posts.

The distribution of the Garrison, which varied only slightly during the ensuing day, is given in the sketch Map of Shaiba Defences.*

4. The expected attack was actually made at 5 A.M., on 12th April 1915, and turned out to be very much on the above plan. Heavy fire was opened on the Fort Section of the defences from the west and south-west just as it was becoming light, our two piquets in this direction making the enemy disclose themselves and retiring without loss. 12th April 1915 5 A.M.

The enemy's advanced line reached to about 900 yards of the position and were then checked.

At 5-45 A.M., enemy's gun fire was opened on the Fort from 2 guns to the westward and these were engaged by our Field Artillery. 5-45 A.M.

A determined advance of the Turkish Infantry was made at 6-10 A.M., supported by heavy rifle fire mainly against South Salient, but their attacking line was extended round the west of the Fort up to Kiln Post. 6-10 A.M.

Large bodies of enemy's infantry were seen advancing over the horizon to the westward and masses were also seen occupying the ridge of hills immediately north of Old Basrah.† 6-30 A.M.

By 7 A.M. the enemy were definitely repulsed and retired leaving small parties in observation, who entrenched themselves about 1,700 yards from 7 A.M.

* Vide Map No. 1 in pocket (not reproduced).

the west and south-west of our position. The attack against Cairn post was not very determined and broke up about 8 A.M., considerable numbers, however, collecting in the tamarisk wood to the south of that post.

8 A.M

5. Hitherto on the northern face of the position all had been quiet and the defences at Kiln Post and West Work had not been seriously engaged, but at 9 A.M. a large force of irregulars with 6 standards occupied North Mound and houses in the vicinity. Here they remained all day and the subsequent night, making various attempts to advance on our positions but they were easily checked by rifle and machine gun fire.

9 A.M

6. Meanwhile further enemy's guns had opened on the position till it was estimated that they had two heavy 4·5", six Field and four Mountain guns dispersed mostly in pairs in an arc extending from west to the south.

Their heavy guns kept up a good and accurate fire but never exactly located our batteries, which were under cover, while their other guns did little harm, their shells in most cases bursting too high. Our artillery observing officers on Kiln Post located the flashes of the enemy's artillery and in most cases their detachments were driven off, and 6 guns were completely silenced—these guns were withdrawn in the middle of the day while the mirage rendered their position invisible. Two guns of 23rd Mountain Battery, which had been placed for the night immediately south of the Fort, were withdrawn about 11 A.M. without difficulty.

11 A.M

7. Preparations had been made for the despatch of a column of all arms towards Old Basrah to cover the landing of the 30th Brigade and a Mountain Battery, which were known to have left Basrah. This, however, was not put into effect as that force was recalled to Basrah.

2-15 P.M

8 The enemy resumed their attack at 2-15 P.M., mainly directed as before on the South Salient, and to prevent them establishing themselves on the western portion of the Dorset position I sent ½ Battalion 2nd Norfolk Regiment from the reserve to occupy this place, replacing them in my General Reserve by ½ Battalion 2nd Dorset Regiment from 16th Brigade.

2-30 P.M

9. Up to this time nothing of note had occurred on the Eastern Defence work beyond some sniping, but at 2-30 P.M. as the snipers had become troublesome to the Artillery observation post, Major Wheeler, 7th Lancers, volunteered to take his squadron and clear them. The movement was made at the gallop, but the original objective was covered by enemy's irregulars in a hidden position—these were ridden over and many lanced, while "S" Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, and machine guns repelled an attempted counter-attack by hostile horsemen. The manœuvre was very effective and the squadron was admirably led with great dash by Major Wheeler, who lost only one man and three horses wounded.

3 P.M

10. At 3 P.M. the attack died away and sniping tactics were resorted to—and soon afterwards about 3-25 P.M. further enemy's guns opened fire from a southerly direction, and at 4 P.M., the enemy's artillery appeared to be registering ranges on various portions of the positions with percussion fuze without doing much damage.

Night arrangements

11. For the ensuing night I reinforced Cairn Post with a Double Company 120th Infantry from the southern portion of East Work, their place being taken by a Double Company 110th Light Infantry. The ½ Battalion, 2nd Norfolk Regiment, was withdrawn from Dorset position to their original position and the ½ Battalion, 2nd Dorset Regiment, rejoined the 16th Brigade. To increase my reserve, however, I asked General Delamain for ½ Battalion from 16th Brigade and this, furnished by the 117th Infantry, was placed centrally between the two portions of Piquet Hill Works. During the earlier part of the night the 24th Punjabis arrived in "bellums" from Basrah and bivouacked near the Cavalry Camp.

5 P.M

12. About 5 P.M. a distinct rearward movement was noticed in front of our north defensive line and 14 big "bellums" were seen going off in a northerly direction filled with Arabs from North Mound vicinity.

6-45 P.M

13. At dusk a furious attack was made from the western extremity of Dorset position, supported by fire from south-west and west, heavy rifle and machine gun fire being brought to bear on the South Salient and ground immediately east and west of the Fort, but they made no progress and the attack died away to intermittent firing. The machine gun in South Salient was out of action from 7 P.M. to 9 P.M. but was replaced by one from the 48th Pioneers during this time, and the searchlight here too was put out of action by rifle fire 15 minutes after it had opened up.

14. Throughout the night intermittent firing, with occasional heavy bursts with machine gun fire, took place to cover bold attempts to cut our wire entanglements, especially on South Salient where the enemy's main efforts were concentrated, though these attacks extended to the north end of the Fort on our right and to Cairn Post on the left. The brunt of these attacks fell on the 48th Pioneers and 17th Company, 3rd Sappers and Miners, which units with ceaseless vigilance repelled every effort of the enemy. During the heavier periods of the attacks the star shell fired by Field and Mountain Artillery greatly assisted in the defence. The machine gun of the 2nd Norfolk Regiment at the southern extremity of South Salient did most excellent service throughout the day and night in a very exposed position. The 120th Infantry and portion of the 110th Light Infantry in East Work and Cairn Post were less heavily engaged, but frequently repelled the efforts of wire-cutters and were throughout alert for developments.

15. At 11 P.M. the enemy were heard digging off South Salient and a half Double Company, 48th Pioneers, was held in readiness to meet any penetration by the enemy, while I held 1 Double Company, 2nd Norfolk Regiment, ready for particular support in this direction. 11 P.M.

16. The night thus passed with occasional lulls till 3-30 A.M., when the final attempt was made and small parties were seen close up to the entanglements (one party was heard to call out in Hindustani "Do not fire"). After this no further attacks were made and all became quiet. 18th April

17. From 4-30 A.M. Major-General Melliss, V.C., C.B., who had arrived late the previous evening with the 6th Divisional Staff, took over command of the garrison, but not being 'au fait' with the defence arrangements, had left the conduct of the operations for the night to me, and my report on subsequent operations has been submitted to him. 4-30 A.M.

18. The casualties during this action were comparatively slight and were, approximately, British officers, wounded, 4; Rank and file killed 5, wounded 62.

19. The artillery expended some 1,495 shrapnel and 15 star shell during the above period of the action.

20. The 6th Cavalry Brigade were not employed during the day except one squadron 7th Lancers and "S" Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, under Lieutenant-Colonel C. A. Sykes, Royal Horse Artillery, which did good work in co-operation with the Infantry and other Artillery; they however came in for many casualties among their horses as, unfortunately, their camp was situated directly behind the Fort Section of the defence and in line with the main hostile attacks. I wish to mention:—

Major G. G. M. Wheeler, 7th Lancers.—For the gallant and admirable leading of his Squadron in the charge against a body of the enemy south of Piquet Works, who had been causing much annoyance to our artillery observation post, with a most successful and effective result.

21. The Artillery afforded, as has been my experience throughout the campaign, a magnificent support and their rapid location of the enemy's guns was followed by a slackening and in many cases a cessation of their fire. Lieutenant-Colonel E. S. Cleeve, R.F.A., most efficiently directed the artillery during the defence as my C. R. A. and I would also mention—

Major E. V. Sarson, R.F.A.
Major H. Broke Smith, R.F.A.
Major E. E. Edlmann, D.S.O., R.G.A.
} for their clever handling of their batteries and accuracy of fire in silencing the enemy's guns and repelling his attack.

22. The 16th Infantry Brigade were not seriously engaged during the day or night and the General Officer Commanding has no recommendations to make. I would like however to pay tribute to Brigadier-General W. S. Delamain, C.B., D.S.O., and his Brigade, who originally constructed the defences which the 18th Infantry Brigade were occupying.

23. I wish to bring forward to special notice the very gallant defence made by the 48th Pioneers and 17th Company, 3rd Sappers and Miners, who bore the brunt of the enemy's attacks. All ranks behaved with great steadiness and their vigilance and good shooting repelled all attempts of the Turkish forces to break through the defences. This section of the defence was admirably commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel A. J. N. Harward, 48th Pioneers.

The following further names are brought forward for recognition:—

No. 365 Naik Hukmi, 48th Pioneers, when at dawn No. 7 Piquet retired, refused to leave the piquet until the last man had got away safely under a heavy fire.

No. 345 Havildar Harchand, 48th Pioneers, commanded No. 7 Piquet and withdrew his men with skill and coolness so well that the enemy continued to fire into the piquet position after its evacuation.

No. 1686 Sepoy Chanda Singh } 48th Pioneers, stretcher-bearers,
No. 1406 Sepoy Narain Singh } brought in a dangerously wounded man to the aid post for 100 yards under very heavy enfilade fire.

24. The 17th Company, 3rd Sappers and Miners (with 48th Pioneers), withstood all the shocks of the Turkish attacks, being in occupation of the South Salient, with utmost coolness and steadiness and were ably commanded by Captain E. J. Loring, R.E., I would mention—

No. 31125 Sapper C. A. Wells, R.E., Searchlight Section, who did excellent work under heavy fire till his light was put out of action.

Jemadar Mohammed Din, No. 17 Company, 3rd Sappers and Miners.—For his coolness under heavy fire and the able way in which he directed the fire of his men under trying circumstances in a particularly exposed part of the defences.

25. The 120th Rajputana Infantry under Major P. F. Pocock, though not very seriously attacked during the day, were frequently assailed at night in attempts of the enemy to cut their wire entanglement. They occupied a somewhat exposed position at Cairn Post and behaved very steadily and with great coolness.

26. The 2nd Norfolk Regiment and 110th Light Infantry, excepting 1 Double Company of the latter under Lieutenant-Colonel Britten, who were engaged during the night in repelling attempts on their obstacles, were not seriously engaged, though kept continually on the alert, especially at night, to meet developments. I mention—

Lieutenant H. S. Farebrother, 2nd Norfolk Regiment, for his skilful handling of the machine gun at South Salient until seriously wounded.

No. 6592 Lance-Corporal R. Waller, 2nd Norfolk Regiment, was in charge of the machine gun at South Salient after Lieutenant Farebrother was wounded and handled his gun exceedingly well and assisted largely in keeping off the attack when it was heaviest. Though wounded, he still continued to direct the work of the gun throughout the night 12th-13th.

The action of Lieutenant Farebrother and Lance-Corporal Waller has also been brought to my notice by Lieutenant-Colonel Harward, Commanding the Fort Section, in which this machine gun was employed in a very important and exposed position. He reports that the accuracy and intensity of the fire was remarkably good.

27. Medical.—I cannot speak too highly of the behaviour of the Medical Department in all its ranks. There was no flinching during the bombardment and perfect steadiness, and their work was done in a most efficient manner under the able direction of Lieutenant-Colonel J. Hennessey, R.A.M.C. As I have already noted during this campaign the Army Bearer Corps and Hospital Corps behaved excellently. I would particularly bring to notice the good work done by—

Major T. G. Foster, R.A.M.C., and Captain R. E. Wright, I.M.S., No. 3 Field Ambulance, who were working in the Fort Section of the defence and most exposed to fire.

28. 34th Divisional Signal Company.—I wish to specially notice the excellent work done by the 18th Brigade Section of this company. Throughout the operations under report they were constantly engaged in the dual capacity of Brigade Signal Section and Divisional Signal Section, being the link between me and my whole force. They were consequently exceedingly hardworked and got no rest. I cannot speak too highly of their work and they were ably commanded by Captain H. G. Morrell who was untiring in his exertions.

I would also bring to favourable notice—

No. 41 Sergeant F. Murphy for continuous hard work supervising both telephone and visual signalling.

No. 16 Corporal J. Sleven for unremitting assistance in looking after and keeping telephones in working order. He also laid a fresh line to Cairn Piquet under heavy fire when the line was broken.

No. 47 Pte. A. Cloud.
No. 44 Pte. A. Barker.
No. 53 Pte. A. Palmer.
No. 8597 Lance-Corporal J. Anderson, Cameron Highlanders (attached).

For continuous hard and willing work requiring care and great coolness.

29. Finally I wish to bring to special notice the good work done by my Staff Officers, Captain E. G. Dunn, Royal Irish Rifles, Brigade Major, and Captain W. F. C. Gilchrist, 52nd Sikhs (F. F.), Staff Captain. They have had on their shoulders the Staff work of the Shaiba Force and of the 18th Infantry Brigade up to the time of the arrival of the Divisional Headquarters on the night of 12th, and have carried out their duties with untiring zeal and efficiency, especially during the enemy's attack on the 12th, when their forethought and general good staff work were of the greatest assistance to me.

I would also mention Major H. Smyth, Cheshire Regiment, Intelligence Officer, attached to my Staff. The information collected by this Officer was wonderfully accurate and was of the greatest assistance to me.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your obedient servant,

C. I. FRY, Major-General,
Commanding at Shaiba.

REPORT ON OPERATIONS ON 13th AND 14th APRIL NEAR SHAIBA.

No. 250-G.

HEADQUARTERS 6TH DIVISION,
Shaiba, 24th April 1915.

FROM

THE GENERAL OFFICER COMMANDING, SHAIBA FORCE,

TO

THE MAJOR-GENERAL, GENERAL STAFF,
INDIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE "D."

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to submit reports on the operations of the Shaiba Force on 13th and 14th April 1915.

I arrived at Shaiba by "bellum" convoy at 8-30 P.M on the 12th April with the 24th Punjabis (less 1 Double Company) and 6th Divisional Staff, placed at my disposal by the Army Commander. A general all-round night attack on the landward sides of the defensive perimeter was in progress at the time of my arrival. This attack was nowhere pressed home, but continued with varying intensity throughout the night of 12-13th, the enemy endeavouring without success to cut the barbed wire entanglement at various points.

As senior, I assumed command from Major-General C. I. Fry that night, after making myself acquainted with the distribution and disposition of the troops.

The night attack died away at 4 A.M.

13th April.

The Cavalry Brigade,* in pursuance of orders issued by Major-General Fry on the afternoon of the 12th instant and approved by me that night, moved out at 7 A.M. towards North Mound in order to clear our right flank and ascertain the enemy's strength and dispositions to the north-west. The 104th Rifles (Lieutenant-Colonel Clery) followed as a support and were placed under the orders of the Cavalry Brigadier.

* "S" Royal Horse Artillery.
7th Lancers
16th Cavalry.
33rd Cavalry.
3 squadrons, each unit.

The Cavalry, 7th Lancers leading, remainder following in support, on nearing North Mound came under a very heavy rifle fire from superior forces advancing from North Mound, the broken ground near House A,† and from House B.†

† Vide large map No. IV in pocket (not reproduced).

The 7th Lancers, under Lieutenant-Colonel Cook, made a gallant charge on North Mound and vicinity and a large number of hostile Arabs were put to flight. Trenches, however, immediately behind North Mound and House A were strongly held, and a hot fire was poured into the Cavalry ranks. A squadron of the 7th Lancers most gallantly led by Major Wheeler actually charged the mound itself. Major Wheeler, closely supported by Jemadar Sudhan Singh, 7th Lancers, road at the enemy's standard planted on the mound and both were shot dead in their gallant attempt. The remaining squadrons of the 7th Lancers, under Lieutenant-Colonel Cook's command, made a gallant attempt to clear the enemy from the palm groves, but from good cover the enemy's fire at short range proved so effective that the 7th Lancers had to retire and Brigadier-General Kennedy, realizing that the enemy in force were firmly established and that his main body (16th and 33rd Cavalry) were exposed to a severe flanking fire from entrenched infantry, decided not to press the attack and to withdraw his Brigade. I had previously instructed him verbally not to commit his Brigade at this phase of the action if serious opposition were encountered. This took place at 7-45 A.M.

The actions of the Cavalry Brigade were well supported by "S" Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, under Lieutenant-Colonel Sykes, while the 104th Rifles, posted just north of House C,† covered the retirement by a well sustained and accurate fire. I ordered the withdrawal to camp of this battalion on the retirement of the Cavalry.

From Kiln Post, where I established my Headquarters, an excellent view of the whole of the terrain to the north of Shaiba is obtainable and large bodies of the enemy were visible advancing near North Mound and to the east of it. At 8-30 A.M. I ordered Brigadier-General Delamain, Commanding 16th Brigade, to move out from the defensive perimeter with 3 battalions (2nd Dorsets, 104th Rifles and 24th Punjabis) with North Mound as his first objective, covering his advance with the concentrated fire of the 63rd and 76th Batteries, Royal Field Artillery, and 23rd Mountain Battery, whilst "S" Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, also co-operated. The concentrated fire of the guns and the engaging of successive enemy's targets was most skilfully controlled and directed by the Divisional Artillery Commander, Lieutenant-Colonel Cleeve, whose valuable assistance throughout the operations of the 13th I particularly desire to bring to notice.

The co-operation between Infantry and Artillery in the attack and indeed throughout the action of the 13th was most marked, and very largely contributed to the success of the operations. By 11 A.M. Brigadier-General Delamain was in occupation of North Mound and the enemy, many of whom had clung to their trenches with great tenacity, were in full retreat to the northward. Over 90 of his dead were found on North Mound itself. Meanwhile consistent sniping and desultory attacks were in progress to the west-south-west, and south of my perimeter, and troops, computed at 3 battalions, were visible to the south-west of the Brick Kiln and a considerable force to the westward. I now decided to continue the clearing movement against this unbroken enemy, and incidentally to capture two of their guns, which their teams owing to our accurate shell fire had been unable to remove.

With this object I ordered the General Officer Commanding, 16th Brigade, to make a partial left wheel pivotting on North Mound, which was to be held to protect his right flank. I pushed a ½ Battalion 119th Infantry (Lieutenant-Colonel Chitty) to reinforce Brigadier-General Delamain's left and ordered 1½ Battalions of the 18th Brigade (2nd Norfolks, 2 Double Companies 48th Pioneers) under Lieutenant-Colonel Peebles to prolong the line of the 16th Brigade to the left, co-operating with their advance. The Cavalry Brigade were again moved forward and placed under Brigadier-General Delamain's orders, to protect his right flank. Supported by a sustained and accurate shrapnel fire from our batteries, the enemy, though in considerable force in well constructed trenches, were unable to withstand the élan of our Infantry. Many surrendered and the two abandoned mountain guns were secured. The Cavalry Brigade on the right flank succeeded in getting home into the now broken enemy and accounting for more than 100 of them.

By 2-30 P.M. the whole vicinity of the camp was clear of the enemy, but large numbers could still be seen to the southward in direction of South Mound, where 2 Turkish guns had been located. The General Officer Commanding 16th Brigade, reported at 2-35 P.M. that he was advancing on South Mound some 3 miles distant and hoped to capture these guns.

I decided that at this late hour it was not desirable to undertake a general engagement with the enemy's main forces with my troops who had been under arms continuously throughout the previous night and were in need of rest.

I therefore issued orders to break off the engagement for the day and ordered a general retirement to the Fort at 3 P.M.

The enemy's casualties were estimated at 1,000, many of their dead being left on the field while over 400 prisoners, 2 guns and a standard fell into our hands.

The night of the 13-14th, in marked contrast to the previous night, was entirely undisturbed by hostile sniping or shell-fire.

Report on operations on [illegible] April 1915.

From personal observation shortly after dawn on 14th April 1915, from the Kiln Post, considerable bodies of the enemy were seen in the direction of South Mound some 2½ miles south-west of Shaiba Fort, while the immediate vicinity of the fort was practically clear of the enemy.

The exact whereabouts of the enemy's main force was uncertain. On the 12th April a large force had been reported to be at Old Basrah, while all reports pointed to the Barjisiyah Woods being strongly held, but it was evident that the enemy had been severely shaken by the action of the 13th April. I decided therefore to continue the offensive without awaiting the arrival of the remainder of the 30th Brigade (2 battalions). These reinforcements would, I was aware, be necessarily delayed by the difficulty of transport through the area which is inundated to a depth of from 2 to 4 feet and which extends for some 8 miles between Shaiba and Basrah. Moreover the necessary line of advance to Shaiba from Old Basrah had been, as I was aware, hitherto closed by the enemy, while reports of withdrawal from Barjisiyah Wood in a north-west direction rendered it desirable to advance without further delay.

Note.—63rd Battery had only 6 guns.

I therefore ordered the whole force (less 104th Rifles, 48th Pioneers and 3 field guns as Camp Garrison) to start at 9 A.M. to engage the enemy wherever found.

Operation Orders were issued accordingly. 300 rounds rifle ammunition and water pakhals were taken by the troops, who carried a haversack ration.

The troops moved off at 9-30 A.M. in preparatory formation for Artillery fire, the 16th Brigade, with the 23rd Mountain Battery, 22nd Company Sappers and Miners and 24th Punjabis attached moving with their left directed on a point 300 yards to the west of South Mound, while the three Battalions of the 18th Brigade, with 17th Company Sappers and Miners, moved off on the left of the 16th Brigade, echeloned back, left refused. The Cavalry Brigade was moved wide on the right flank of the 16th Brigade, detaching ½ squadron to protect our extreme left flank guns in rear of centre and Divisional Headquarters with the guns.

The 16th Brigade were directed on South Mound, with 18th Brigade refused on my left, as I apprehended a possible attack from the direction of Old Basrah or Zubair. The advance on South Mound took place under ineffective long range rifle fire from the enemy's advanced troops—mostly mounted men who soon gave way before our advance, South Mound being occupied and Divisional Headquarters established there by 10-30 A.M.

It now became apparent that the enemy's main force was in position in the vicinity of Barjisiyah Wood and that Old Basrah and Zubair were not strongly held. I accordingly ordered the left of the 16th Brigade to be directed somewhat north of the Watch Tower while I ordered 2 battalions of the 18th Brigade (2nd Battalion, Norfolk Regiment, and 120th Rajputana Infantry) to pass from left to the right rear of the 16th Brigade and the remaining battalion of the 18th Brigade (110th Mahratta Light Infantry) to remain echeloned on left of 16th Brigade. Whilst these movements were in progress I rode forward to where the Cavalry Brigade were in position on my right flank, engaged in dismounted fire action. From this point I endeavoured to make a reconnaissance of the enemy's position, but owing to the mirage this proved extremely difficult. It was not possible to locate any of the enemy's trenches, but I was able to determine that his right extended as far south as the high Watch Tower, but where his left rested I could not ascertain. On returning to Divisional Headquarters I therefore ordered General Delamain to direct the left of his advance on the Watch Tower and requested General Fry, Commanding 18th Brigade, to pass over his remaining battalion (110th Mahratta Light Infantry) to the right rear of his own Brigade. My plan of operations was to engage the enemy along his front extending from a point to the west of the Watch Tower, while I drove back his left with the 18th Brigade and thereby threatened his line of retirement towards Nakhailah. I ordered my Cavalry Brigade to co-operate with this object, while giving the Brigadier a free hand to seize any opportunity for vigorous action which might offer.

It soon became evident that the enemy occupied a very extensive front of some 3½ miles and considerably overlapped our line. The 18th Brigade had to come up into line with and on the right of the 16th Brigade in order to engage the enemy along his front—the 110th Infantry being my sole reserve. By 11-15 A.M. I discovered definitely that the enemy's line covered over 3 miles, extending from west of Watch Tower to the north end of Barjisiyah Wood ("Dry Wells" on map).*

* Not reproduced

The 18th Brigade having come into line with the 16th Brigade a general advance from South Mound was continued for a mile without incident. By 11-30 A.M. the two battalions in the front line of the 16th Brigade (2nd Battalion, Dorset Regiment and 24th Punjabis) became suddenly heavily engaged with the enemy in position at 900 yards distance from the Dorsets and 600 from the Punjabis, while on the right the 18th Brigade were also fully engaged, the Norfolks and 120th Infantry coming under heavy rifle and machine gun fire from trenches some 400 yards to their front.

The enemy's trenches were well sited and practically invisible from the front, while the glacis-like slope of the ground trending towards the Barjisiyah Woods afforded them an ideal position for defence, and a large proportion of our casualties occurred at this stage.

At 1 P.M. I ordered the 18th Brigade to advance direct on the gap in the trees near the north end of Barjisiyah Wood and the 16th Brigade to close the gap between the 2 Brigades—both to co-operate in the attack. Heavy firing now became general all along the line, the whole of our Artillery being engaged in close support of the Infantry attack. At 11·30 P.M. three casualties occurred in the Divisional Staff, my C. R. A., Lieutenant-Colonel Cleeve, being wounded and his successor Major Edlmann being hit before he could take over his duties, while Captain Cardew, Assistant Director, Army Signals, was also wounded. At this period the General Officer Commanding, 16th Brigade, ordered the 22nd Company Sappers and Miners to prolong the right of the 24th Punjabis, and ½ battalion, 117th Mahrattas, to reinforce on the right of the Sappers and Miners, and with these reinforcements a further advance was effected in this part of the field. The General Officer Commanding, 18th Brigade, now pushed forward ½ battalion of 110th Mahratta Light Infantry on the right of the 120th Infantry, holding the remaining wing of the 110th and No. 17 Company, Sappers and Miners, in reserve, but owing to an enfilading fire from the right flank the advance of the 18th Brigade was checked.

At 2-30 P.M. I called on the Cavalry Brigade for vigorous action to assist the forward movement of the 110th on the extreme right flank. The Cavalry assisted by dismounted rifle fire, while "S" Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, also co-operated.

At 3·0 P.M the fight was practically stationary, the enemy clinging to his trenches with desperate tenacity while the Cavalry reported their inability to press forward on the enemy's left flank owing to severe shell fire and the mud line. The Artillery were supporting our Infantry attack to the utmost, but such support was extremely difficult to render owing to the mirage and the invisibility of the enemy's trenches. Our gunners did splendid work and I must mention one of many instances of it. The Norfolks were losing heavily and asked for further Artillery support, Lieutenant Gilpin, 63rd Battery, Royal Field Artillery, went forward into the Norfolk firing line for observation of fire, and communication with his Battery Commander was maintained by Captain De Grey, Adjutant of the Norfolks, who from the firing line flag signalled back to the Battery the result of Lieutenant Gilpin's observations. Many were the gallant deeds of resolute courage by all ranks on this day, but this appears a striking example of the right kind of Infantry and Artillery co-operation.

The day was now waning and I told both Infantry Brigadiers that the enemy's position in advance of Barjisiyah Woods must be taken and that a general advance with the whole of the Artillery in close support must now be made. The troops responded most gallantly to this fresh call, the 76th Battery in action close to the Watch Tower supporting the 16th Brigade, the 63rd Battery and 23rd Mountain Battery, the 18th Brigade.

At 4-15 P.M. the 2nd Battalion, Norfolks, and 120th Infantry under Colonel Peebles and Major Pocock respectively, dashed at the enemy's trenches with the bayonet, while the 110th, also under heavy fire, pressed unflinchingly forward on the right supported by "S" Battery and dismounted Cavalry fire. Almost simultaneously part of the 16th Brigade consisting of the 2nd Battalion, Dorsets, 24th Punjabis, 119th Infantry (less 1 Double Company in reserve) and 1 Double Company, 117th Mahrattas, withdrawn from the left flank guard, made a general advance and by 5-0 P.M. the enemy abandoned the front trenches all along the line and fled, many surrendering.

In the meantime at 4-0 P.M., in view of the necessary withdrawal before nightfall, the 48th Pioneers with all available Jaipur carts were ordered out from Shaiba. The Pioneers were directed to take up a rearguard position about South Mound to cover the retirement of the main body and the carts were also directed there to be ready to assist in the collection and evacuation of the wounded. The arrangements for the collection and disposal of the large numbers of wounded were ably arranged for by Lieutenant-Colonel H. O. B. Browne-Mason, Royal Army Medical Corps, Officiating Assistant Director of Medical Services.

The retirement timed for 5-30 actually commenced at 6-0 P.M. owing to the difficulty of collection and removal of the wounded scattered over a wide area. Our withdrawal was entirely unmolested and the troops reached Shaiba with all wounded by 8-30 P.M.

It is impossible to conceive a more exposed tract of ground than the plain devoid of cover over which our Infantry had to attack the Turkish trenches, cleverly concealed and sited. Our advance in the last 400 yards was down a glacis-like slope. It was on the crest of this slope that so many of our losses occurred. Splendid dash, combined with resolute courage, alone carried our men across that bullet-swept glacis. It was a sheer dogged soldiers' fight and no words of mine can adequately express my admiration of the conduct of those gallant regiments who won through, viz., 2nd Battalion, Norfolks, 2nd Battalion Dorsets, 24th Punjabis, 110th Mahratta Light Infantry, 119th Infantry, 117th Mahrattas, 120th Infantry, 17th and 22nd Companies of the 3rd Sappers and Miners.

It is gratifying to record the fact that all the Indian troops engaged (24th Punjabis excepted) are old Bombay Presidency Regiments. They have proved on this occasion that they are worthy to stand shoulder to shoulder with the best troops that the Empire can produce, and I trust that these Corps may be permitted to inscribe the battle honour of "Barjisiyah" on their colours as a fitting tribute to their gallant conduct on this hard-fought field.

From—THE FIELD-MARSHAL COMMANDING-IN-CHIEF, THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE.

To—THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR WAR, War Office, London, S. W.

General Headquarters,

15th June 1915.

MY LORD,—

I HAVE the honour to report that since the date of my last despatch (5th April 1915) the Army in France under my command has been heavily engaged opposite both flanks of the line held by the British Forces.

1. In the North the town and district of Ypres have once more in this campaign been successfully defended against vigorous and sustained attacks made by large forces of the enemy, and supported by a mass of heavy and field artillery, which, not only in number, but also in weight and calibre, is superior to any concentration of guns which has previously assailed that part of the line.

In the South a vigorous offensive has again been taken by troops of the First Army, in the course of which a large area of entrenched and fortified ground has been captured from the enemy, whilst valuable support has been afforded to the attack which our Allies have carried on with such marked success against the enemy's positions to the east of Arras and Lens.

2. I much regret that during the period under report the fighting has been characterised on the enemy's side by a cynical and barbarous disregard of the well-known usages of civilised war and a flagrant defiance of the Hague Convention.

All the scientific resources of Germany have apparently been brought into play to produce a gas of so virulent and poisonous a nature that any human being brought into contact with it is first paralysed and then meets with a lingering and agonising death.

The enemy has invariably preceded, prepared and supported his attacks by a discharge in stupendous volume of these poisonous gas fumes whenever the wind was favourable.

Such weather conditions have only prevailed to any extent in the neighbourhood of Ypres, and there can be no doubt that the effect of these poisonous fumes materially influenced the operations in that theatre, until experience suggested effective counter-measures, which have since been so perfected as to render them innocuous.

The brain power and thought which has evidently been at work before this unworthy method of making war reached the pitch of efficiency which has been demonstrated in its practice shows that the Germans must have harboured these designs for a long time.

As a soldier I cannot help expressing the deepest regret and some surprise that an Army which hitherto has claimed to be the chief exponent of the chivalry of war should have stooped to employ such devices against brave and gallant foes.

3. On the night of Saturday, April 17th, a commanding hill which afforded the enemy excellent artillery observation toward the West and North-West was successfully mined and captured.

This hill, known as Hill 60, lies opposite the northern extremity of the line held by the 2nd Corps.

The operation was planned and the mining commenced by Major-General Bolfin before the ground was handed over to the troops under Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Fergusson, under whose supervision the operation was carried out.

The mines were successfully fired at 7 P.M. on the 17th instant, and immediately afterwards the hill was attacked and gained, without difficulty, by the 1st Battalion, Royal West Kent Regiment, and the 2nd Battalion, King's Own Scottish Borderers. The attack was well supported by the Divisional Artillery, assisted by French and Belgian batteries.

During the night several of the enemy's counter-attacks were repulsed with heavy loss, and fierce hand-to-hand fighting took place; but on the early morning of the 18th the enemy succeeded in forcing back the troops holding the right of the hill to the reverse slope, where, however, they hung on throughout the day.

On the evening of the 18th these two battalions were relieved by the 2nd Battalion, West Riding Regiment, and the 2nd Battalion, King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, who again stormed the hill under cover of heavy artillery fire, and the enemy was driven off at the point of the bayonet.

In this operation fifty-three prisoners were captured, including four officers.

On the 20th and following days many unsuccessful attacks by the enemy were made on Hill 60, which was continuously shelled by heavy artillery.

On May 1st, another attempt to recapture Hill 60 was supported by great volumes of asphyxiating gas, which caused nearly all the men along a front of about 400 yards to be immediately struck down by its fumes.

The splendid courage with which the leaders rallied their men and subdued the natural tendency to panic (which is inevitable on such occasions), combined with the prompt intervention of supports, once more drove the enemy back.

A second and more severe "gas" attack, under much more favourable weather conditions, enabled the enemy to recapture this position on May 5th.

The enemy owes his success in this last attack entirely to the use of asphyxiating gas. It was only a few days later that the means, which have since proved so effective, of counteracting this method of making war were put into practice. Had it been otherwise, the enemy's attack on May 5th would most certainly have shared the fate of all the many previous attempts he had made.

4. It was at the commencement of the Second Battle of Ypres on the evening of the 22nd April, referred to in paragraph 1 of this report, that the enemy first made use of asphyxiating gas.

Some days previously I had complied with General Joffre's request to take over the trenches occupied by the French, and on the evening of the 22nd the troops holding the lines east of Ypres were posted as follows :—

From Steenstraate to the east of Langemarck, as far as the Poelcappelle Road, a French Division.

Thence, in a south-easterly direction toward the Passchendaele-Becelaere Road, the Canadian Division.

Thence, a Division took up the line in a southerly direction east of Zonnebeke to a point west of Becelaere, whence another Division continued the line south-east to the northern limit of the Corps on its right.

Of the 5th Corps there were four battalions in Divisional Reserve about Ypres; the Canadian Division had one battalion in Divisional Reserve and the first Canadian Brigade in Army Reserve. An Infantry Brigade, which had just been withdrawn after suffering heavy losses on Hill 60, was resting about Vlamertinghe.

Following a heavy bombardment, the enemy attacked the French Division at about 5 P.M., using asphyxiating gases for the first time. Aircraft reported that at about 5 P.M., thick yellow smoke had been seen issuing from the German trenches between Langemarck and Bixschoote. The French reported that two simultaneous attacks had been made east of the Ypres-Staden Railway, in which these asphyxiating gases had been employed.

What follows almost defies description. The effect of these poisonous gases was so virulent as to render the whole of the line held by the French Division mentioned above practically incapable of any action at all. It was at first impossible for anyone to realise what had actually happened. The smoke and fumes hid everything from sight, and hundreds of men were thrown into a comatose or dying condition, and within an hour the whole position had to be abandoned, together with about 50 guns.

I wish particularly to repudiate any idea of attaching the least blame to the French Division for this unfortunate incident.

After all the examples our gallant Allies have shown of dogged and tenacious courage in the many trying situations in which they have been placed throughout the course of this campaign it is quite superfluous for me to dwell on this aspect of the incident, and I would only express my firm conviction that, if any troops in the world had been able to hold their trenches in the face of such a treacherous and altogether unexpected onslaught, the French Division would have stood firm.

The left flank of the Canadian Division was thus left dangerously exposed to serious attack in flank, and there appeared to be a prospect of their being overwhelmed and of a successful attempt by the Germans to cut off the British troops occupying the salient to the East.

In spite of the danger to which they were exposed the Canadians held their ground with a magnificent display of tenacity and courage and it is not too much to say that the bearing and conduct of these splendid troops averted a disaster which might have been attended with the most serious consequences.

They were supported with great promptitude by the reserves of the Divisions holding the salient and by a Brigade which had been resting in billets.

Throughout the night the enemy's attacks were repulsed, effective counter-attacks were delivered, and at length touch was gained with the French right, and a new line was formed.

The 2nd London Heavy Battery, which had been attached to the Canadian Division, was posted behind the right of the French Division, and, being involved in their retreat, fell into the enemy's hands. It was recaptured by the Canadians in their counter-attack, but the guns could not be withdrawn before the Canadians were again driven back.

During the night I directed the Cavalry Corps and the Northumbrian Division, which was then in general reserve, to move to the west of Ypres, and placed these troops at the disposal of the General Officer Commanding the Second Army. I also directed other reserve troops from the 3rd Corps and the First Army to be held in readiness to meet eventualities.

In the confusion of the gas and smoke the Germans succeeded in capturing the bridge at Steenstraate and some works south of Lizerne, all of which were in occupation by the French.

The enemy having thus established himself to the west of the Ypres Canal, I was somewhat apprehensive of his succeeding in driving a wedge between the French and Belgian troops at this point. I directed, therefore, that some of the reinforcements sent north should be used to support and assist General Putz, should he find difficulty in preventing any further advance of the Germans west of the canal.

At about 10 o'clock on the morning of the 23rd connection was finally ensured between the left of the Canadian Division and the French right, about eight hundred yards east of the canal; but as this entailed the maintenance by the British troops of a much longer line than that which they had held before the attack commenced on the previous night, there were no reserves available for counter-attack until reinforcements, which were ordered up from the Second Army, were able to deploy to the east of Ypres.

Early on the morning of the 23rd I went to see General Foch, and from him I received a detailed account of what had happened, as reported by General Putz. General Foch informed me that it was his intention to make good the original line and regain the trenches which the French Division had lost. He expressed the desire that I should maintain my present line, assuring me that the original position would be re-established in a few days. General Foch further informed me that he had ordered up large French reinforcements, which were now on their way, and that troops from the North had already arrived to reinforce General Putz.

I fully concurred in the wisdom of the General's wish to re-establish our old line, and agreed to co-operate in the way he desired, stipulating, however, that if the position was not re-established within a limited time, I could not allow the British troops to remain in so exposed a situation as that which the action of the previous twenty-four hours had compelled them to occupy.

During the whole of the 23rd the enemy's artillery was very active, and his attacks all along the front were supported by some heavy guns which had been brought down from the coast in the neighbourhood of Ostend.

The loss of the guns on the night of the 22nd prevented this fire from being kept down and much aggravated the situation. Our positions, however, were well maintained by the vigorous counter-attacks made by the 5th Corps.

During the day I directed two Brigades of the 3rd Corps, and the Lahore Division of the Indian Corps, to be moved up to the Ypres area and placed at the disposal of the Second Army.

In the course of these two or three days many circumstances combined to render the situation east of the Ypres Canal very critical and most difficult to deal with.

The confusion caused by the sudden retirement of the French Division, and the necessity for closing up the gap and checking the enemy's advance at all costs, led to a mixing up of units and a sudden shifting of the areas of command, which was quite unavoidable. Fresh units, as they came up from the South, had to be pushed into the firing line in an area swept by artillery fire which, owing to the capture of the French guns, we were unable to keep down.

All this led to very heavy casualties; and I wish to place on record the deep admiration which I feel for the resource and presence of mind evinced by the leaders actually on the spot.

The parts taken by Major-General Snow and Brigadier-General Hull were reported to me as being particularly marked in this respect.

An instance of this occurred on the afternoon of the 24th when the enemy succeeded in breaking through the line at St. Julien.

Brigadier-General Hull, acting under the orders of Lieutenant-General Alderson, organised a powerful counter-attack with his own Brigade and some of the nearest available units. He was called upon to control, with only his Brigade Staff, parts of battalions from six separate divisions which were quite new to the ground. Although the attack did not succeed in retaking St. Julien, it effectually checked the enemy's further advance.

It was only on the morning of the 25th that the enemy were able to force back the left of the Canadian Division from the point where it had originally joined the French line.

During the night and the early morning of the 25th, the enemy directed a heavy attack against the Division at Broodseinde crossroads which was supported by powerful shell fire, but he failed to make any progress.

During the whole of this time the town of Ypres and all the roads to the East and West were uninterruptedly subjected to a violent artillery fire, but in spite of this the supply of both food and ammunition was maintained throughout with order and efficiency.

During the afternoon of the 25th many German prisoners were taken including some officers. The hand-to-hand fighting was very severe, and the enemy suffered heavy loss.

During the 26th the Lahore Division and a Cavalry Division were pushed up into the fighting line, the former on the right of the French, the latter in support of the 5th Corps.

In the afternoon the Lahore Division, in conjunction with the French right, succeeded in pushing the enemy back some little distance toward the North, but their further advance was stopped owing to the continual employment by the enemy of asphyxiating gas.

On the right of the Lahore Division the Northumberland Infantry Brigade advanced against St. Julien and actually succeeded in entering, and for a time occupying the southern, portion of that village. They were, however, eventually driven back, largely owing to gas and finally occupied a line a short way to the South. This attack was most successfully and gallantly led by Brigadier-General Biddell, who, I regret to say, was killed during the progress of the operation.

Although no attack was made on the south-eastern side of the salient, the troops operating to the east of Ypres were subjected to heavy artillery fire from this direction which took some of the battalions, which were advancing North to the attack, in reverse.

Some gallant attempts made by the Lahore Division on the 27th, in conjunction with the French, pushed the enemy further North; but they were partially frustrated by the constant fumes of gas to which they were exposed. In spite of this, however, a certain amount of ground was gained.

The French had succeeded in retaking Lizerne, and had made some progress at Steenstraate and Het Sas; but up to the evening of the 28th no further progress had been made toward the recapture of the original line.

I sent instructions, therefore, to Sir Herbert Plumer, who was now in charge of the operation, to take preliminary measures for the retirement to the new line which had been fixed upon.

On the morning of the 29th I had another interview with General Foch, who informed me that strong reinforcements were hourly arriving to support General Putz and urged me to postpone issuing orders for any retirement until the result of his attack, which was timed to commence at daybreak on the 30th, should be known. To this I agreed, and instructed Sir Herbert Plumer accordingly.

No substantial advance having been made by the French, I issued orders to Sir Herbert Plumer at one o'clock on May 1st to commence his withdrawal to the new line.

The retirement was commenced the following night, and the new line was occupied on the morning of May 4th.

I am of opinion that this retirement, carried out deliberately with scarcely any loss, and in the face of an enemy in position, reflects the greatest possible credit on Sir Herbert Plumer and those who so efficiently carried out his orders.

The successful conduct of this operation was the more remarkable from the fact that on the evening of May 2nd, when it was only half completed, the enemy made a heavy attack, with the usual gas accompaniment, on St. Julien and the line to the west of it.

An attack on a line to the east of Fortuin was made at the same time under similar conditions.

In both cases our troops were at first driven from their trenches by gas fumes, but on the arrival of the supporting battalions and two brigades of a Cavalry Division, which were sent up in support from about Potijze, all the lost trenches were regained at night.

On the 3rd May, while the retirement was still going on, another violent attack was directed on the northern face of the salient. This was also driven back with heavy loss to the enemy.

Further attempts of the enemy during the night of the 3rd to advance from the woods west of St. Julien were frustrated entirely by the fire of our artillery.

During the whole of the 4th the enemy heavily shelled the trenches we had evacuated, quite unaware that they were no longer occupied. So soon as the retirement was discovered the Germans commenced to entrench opposite our new line and to advance their guns to new positions. Our artillery, assisted by aeroplanes, caused him considerable loss in carrying out these operations.

Up to the morning of the 8th the enemy made attacks at short intervals, covered by gas, on all parts of the line to the east of Ypres, but was everywhere driven back with heavy loss.

Throughout the whole period since the first break of the line on the night of April 22nd all the troops in this area had been constantly subjected to violent artillery bombardment from a large mass of guns with an unlimited supply of ammunition. It proved impossible whilst under so vastly superior fire of artillery to dig efficient trenches, or to properly reorganise the line, after the confusion and demoralisation caused by the first great gas surprise and the subsequent almost daily gas attacks. Nor was it until after this date (May 8th) that effective preventatives had been devised and provided. In these circumstances a violent bombardment of nearly the whole of the 5th Corps front broke out at 7 A.M. on the morning of the 8th, which gradually concentrated on the front of the Division between north and south of Frezenberg. This fire completely obliterated the trenches and caused enormous losses.

The artillery bombardment was shortly followed by a heavy infantry attack, before which our line had to give way.

I relate what happened in Sir Herbert Plumer's own words :—

"The right of one Brigade was broken about 10-15 A.M.; then its centre and then part of the left of the Brigade in the next section to the south The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, however, although suffering very heavily, stuck to their fire or support trenches throughout the day. At this time two battalions were moved to General Headquarters 2nd line astride the Menin road to support and cover the left of their Division.

"At 12-25 P.M. the centre of a Brigade further to the left also broke; its right battalion, however, the 1st Suffolks, which had been refused to cover a gap, still held on and were apparently surrounded and overwhelmed. Meanwhile, three more battalions had been moved up to reinforce, two other battalions were moved up in support to General Headquarters line, and an Infantry Brigade came up to the grounds of Vlamertinghe Chateau in Corps Reserve.

"At 11-30 A.M. a small party of Germans attempted to advance against the left of the British line, but were destroyed by the 2nd Essex Regiment.

"A counter-attack was launched at 3-30 P.M. by the 1st York and Lancaster Regiment, 3rd Middlesex Regiment, 2nd East Surrey Regiment, 2nd Royal Dublin Fusiliers and the 1st Royal Warwickshire Regiment. The counter-attack reached Frezenberg, but was eventually driven back and held up on a line running about north and south through Verlorenhoek, despite repeated efforts to advance. The 12th London Regiment on the left succeeded at great cost in reaching the original trench line, and did considerable execution with their machine gun.

"The 7th Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders and the 1st East Lancashire Regiment attacked in a north-easterly direction towards Wieltje, and connected the old trench line with the ground gained by the counter-attack, the line being consolidated during the night.

"During the night orders were received that two Cavalry Divisions would be moved up and placed at the disposal of the 5th Corps, and a Territorial Division would be moved up to be used if required.

"On the 9th the Germans again repeated their bombardment. Very heavy shell fire was concentrated for two hours on the trenches of the 2nd Gloucestershire Regiment and 2nd Cameron Highlanders, followed by an Infantry attack which was successfully repulsed. The Germans again bombarded the salient, and a further attack in the afternoon succeeded in occupying 150 yards of trench. The Gloucesters counter-attacked, but suffered heavily, and the attack failed. The salient being very exposed to shell fire from both flanks, as well as in front, it was deemed advisable not to attempt to retake the trench at night, and a retrenchment was therefore dug across it.

"At 3 P.M. the enemy started to shell the whole front of the centre Division, and it was reported that the right Brigade of this Division was being heavily punished, but continued to maintain its line.

"The trenches of the Brigades on the left centre were also heavily shelled during the day and attacked by infantry. Both attacks were repulsed.

"On the 10th instant the trenches on either side of the Menin-Ypres Road were shelled very severely all the morning. The 2nd Cameron Highlanders, 9th Royal Scots, and the 3rd and 4th King's Royal Rifles, however, repulsed an attack made, under cover of gas, with heavy loss. Finally, when the trenches had been practically destroyed and a large number of the garrison buried, the 3rd King's Royal Rifles and 4th Rifle Brigade fell back to the trenches immediately west of Bellewaarde Wood. So heavy had been the shell fire that the proposal to join up the line with a switch through the wood had to be abandoned, the trees broken by the shells forming an impassable entanglement.

"After a comparatively quiet night and morning (10th-11th) the hostile artillery fire was concentrated on the trenches of the 2nd Cameron Highlanders and 1st Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders at a slightly more northern point than on the previous day. The Germans attacked in force and gained a footing in part of the trenches, but were promptly ejected by a supporting company of the 9th Royal Scots. After a second short artillery bombardment the Germans again attacked about 4-15 P.M., but were again repulsed by rifle and machine-gun fire. A third bombardment followed, and this time the Germans succeeded in gaining a trench—or rather what was left of it—a local counter-attack failing. However, during the night the enemy were again driven out. The trench by this time being practically non-existent, the garrison found it untenable under the very heavy shell fire the enemy brought to bear upon it, and the trench was evacuated. Twice more did the German snipers creep back into it, and twice more they were ejected. Finally, a retrenchment was made, cutting off the salient which had been contested throughout the day. It was won owing solely to the superior weight and number of the enemy's guns, but both our infantry and our artillery took a very heavy toll of the enemy, and the ground lost has proved of little use to the enemy.

"On the remainder of the front the day passed comparatively quietly, though most parts of the line underwent intermittent shelling by guns of various calibres.

"With the assistance of the Royal Flying Corps the 31st Heavy Battery scored a direct hit on a German gun, and the North Midland Heavy Battery got on to some German howitzers with great success.

"With the exception of another very heavy burst of shell fire against the right Division early in the morning the 12th passed uneventfully.

"On the night of the 12th-13th the line was re-organised, the centre Division retiring into Army Reserve to rest, and their places being taken in the trenches by the two Cavalry Divisions; the Artillery and Engineers of the centre Division forming with them what was known as the 'Cavalry Force' under the command of General De Lisle.

"On the 13th the various reliefs having been completed without incident, the heaviest bombardment yet experienced broke out at 4-30 A.M., and continued with little intermission throughout the day. At about 7-45 A.M. the Cavalry Brigade astride the railway, having suffered very severely, and their trenches having been obliterated, fell back about 800 yards. The North Somerset Yeomanry on the right of the Brigade, although also suffering severely, hung on to their trenches throughout the day, and actually advanced and attacked the enemy with the bayonet. The Brigade on its right also maintained its position; as did also the Cavalry Division, except the left squadron which, when reduced to sixteen men, fell back. The 2nd Essex Regiment, realising the situation, promptly charged and retook the trench, holding it till relieved by the Cavalry. Meanwhile a counter-attack by two Cavalry Brigades was launched at 2-30 P.M., and succeeded, in spite of very heavy shrapnel and rifle fire, in regaining the original line of trenches, turning out the Germans who had entered it, and in some cases pursuing them for some distance. But a very heavy shell fire was again opened on them and they were again compelled to retire to an irregular line in rear, principally the craters of shell holes. The enemy in their counter-attack suffered very severe losses.

"The fighting in other parts of the line was little less severe. The 1st East Lancashire Regiment were shelled out of their trenches, but their support company and the 2nd Essex Regiment, again acting on their own initiative, won them back. The enemy penetrated into the farm at the north-east corner of the line, but the 1st Rifle Brigade, after a severe struggle, expelled them The 1st Hampshire Regiment also repelled an attack, and killed every German who got within fifty yards of their trenches. The 5th London Regiment, despite very heavy casualties, maintained their position unfalteringly. At the southern end of the line the left Brigade was once again heavily shelled, as indeed was the whole front. At the end of a very hard day's fighting our line remained in its former position, with the exception of the short distance lost by one Cavalry Division. Later, the line was pushed forward, and a new line was dug in a less exposed position, slightly in rear of that originally held. The night passed quietly.

"Working parties of from 1,200 to 1,800 men have been found every night by a Territorial Division and other units for work on rear lines of defence, in addition to the work performed by the garrisons in reconstructing the front line trenches which were daily destroyed by shell fire.

"The work performed by the Royal Flying Corps has been invaluable. Apart from the hostile aeroplanes actually destroyed, our airmen have prevented a great deal of aerial reconnaissance by the enemy, and have registered a large number of targets with our artillery.

"There have been many cases of individual gallantry. As instances may be given the following:—

"During one of the heavy attacks made against our infantry gas was seen rolling forward from the enemy's trenches. Private Lynn of the 2nd Lancashire Fusilier at once rushed to the machine gun without waiting to adjust his respirator. Single-handed he kept his gun in action the whole time the gas was rolling over, actually hoisting it on the parapet to get a better field of fire. Although nearly suffocated by the gas, he poured stream of lead into the advancing enemy and checked their attack. He was carried to his dug-out, but, hearing another attack was imminent, he tried to get back to his gun. Twenty-four hours later he died in great agony from the effects of the gas.

"A young subaltern in a cavalry regiment went forward alone one afternoon to reconnoitre. He got into a wood, 1,200 yards in front of our lines, which he found occupied by Germans, and came back with the information that the enemy had evacuated a trench and were digging another—information which proved most valuable to the artillery as well as to his own unit.

"A patrol of two officers and a non-commissioned officer of the 1st Cambridgeshires went out one night to reconnoitre a German trench 350 yards away. Creeping along the parapet of the trench, they heard sounds indicating the presence of six or seven of the enemy. Further on they heard deep snores, apparently proceeding from a dug-out immediately beneath them. Although they knew that the garrison of the trench outnumbered them, they decided to procure an identification. Unfortunately, in pulling out a clasp knife with which to cut off the sleeper's identity disc, one of the officer's revolvers went off. A conversation in the agitated whispers broke out in the German trench, but the patrol crept safely away, the garrison being too startled to fire.

"Despite the very severe shelling to which the troops had been subjected, which obliterated trenches and caused very many casualties, the spirit of all ranks remains excellent. The enemy's losses, particularly on the 10th and 13th, have unquestionably been serious. On the latter day they evacuated trenches (in face of the cavalry counter-attack) in which were afterwards found quantities of equipment and some of their own wounded. The enemy have been seen stripping our dead, and on three occasions men in khaki have been seen advancing."

The fight went on by the exchange of desultory shell and rifle fire, but without any remarkable incident until the morning of May 21th. During this period, however, the French on our left had attained considerable success. On the 15th instant they captured Steenstraate and the trenches in Het Sas, and on the 16th they drove the enemy headlong over the canal, finding two thousand Germans dead. On the 17th they made a substantial advance on the east side of the canal, and on the 20th they repelled a German counter-attack, making a further advance in the same direction, and taking one hundred prisoners.

On the early morning of the 24th a violent outburst of gas against nearly the whole front was followed by heavy shell fire, and the most determined attack was delivered against our position east of Ypres.

The hour the attack commenced was 2-45 A.M. A large proportion of the men were asleep, and the attack was too sudden to give them time to put on their respirators.

The 2nd Royal Irish and the 9th Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders overcome by gas fumes, were driven out of a farm held in front of the left Division, and this the enemy proceeded to hold and fortify.

All attempts to retake this farm during the day failed, and during the night of the 24th-25th the General Officer Commanding the left Division decided to take up a new line which, although slightly in rear of the old one, he considered to be a much better position. This operation was successfully carried out.

Throughout the day the whole line was subjected to one of the most violent artillery attacks which it had ever undergone; and the 5th Corps and the Cavalry Divisions engaged had to fight hard to maintain their positions. On the following day, however, the line was consolidated, joining the right of the French at the same place as before, and passing through Wieltje (which was strongly fortified) in a southerly direction on to Hooge, where the Cavalry have since strongly occupied the chateau, and pushed our line further east.

5. In pursuance of a promise which I made to the French Commander-in-Chief to support an attack which his troops were making on the 9th May between the right of my line and Arras, I directed Sir Douglas Haig to carry out on that date an attack on the German trenches in the neighbourhood of Rougebance (north-west of Fromelles) by the 4th Corps, and between Neuve Chapelle and Givenchy, by the 1st and Indian Corps.

The bombardment of the enemy's positions commenced at 5 A.M.

Half-an-hour later the 8th Division of the 4th Corps captured the first line of German trenches about Rougebanc, and some detachments seized a few localities beyond this line. It was soon found, however, that the position was much stronger than had been anticipated, and that a more extensive artillery preparation was necessary to crush the resistance offered by his numerous fortified posts.

Throughout the 9th and 10th repeated efforts were made to make further progress. Not only was this found to be impossible, but the violence of the enemy's machine gun fire from his posts on the flanks rendered the captured trenches so difficult to hold that all the units of the 4th Corps had to retire to their original position by the morning of the 10th.

The 1st and Indian Divisions south of Neuve Chapelle met with no greater success, and on the evening of the 10th I sanctioned Sir Douglas Haig's proposal to concentrate all our available resources on the southern point of attack.

The 7th Division was moved round from the 4th Corps area to support this attack, and I directed the General Officer Commanding the First Army to delay it long enough to ensure a powerful and deliberate artillery preparation

The operations of the 9th and 10th formed part of a general plan of attack which the Allies were conjointly conducting on a line extending from the north of Arras to the south of Armentieres; and, although immediate progress was not made during this time by the British forces, their attack assisted in securing the brilliant successes attained by the French forces on their right, not only by holding the enemy in their front but by drawing off a part of the German reinforcements which were coming up to support their forces east of Arras.

It was decided that the attack should be resumed on the night of the 12th instant, but the weather continued very dull and misty, interfering much with artillery observation. Orders were finally issued, therefore, for the action to commence on the night of the 15th instant.

On the 15th May I moved the Canadian Division into the 1st Corps area and placed them at the disposal of Sir Douglas Haig.

The infantry of the Indian Corps and the 2nd Division of the 1st Corps advanced to the attack of the enemy's trenches which extended from Richebourg L'Avoue in a south-westerly direction.

Before daybreak the 2nd Division had succeeded in capturing two lines of the enemy's trenches, but the Indian Corps were unable to make any progress owing to the strength of the enemy's defences in the neighbourhood of Richebourg L'Avoue.

At daybreak the 7th Division, on the right of the 2nd, advanced to the attack, and by 7 A.M. had entrenched themselves on a line running nearly North and South, half-way between their original trenches and La Quinque Rue, having cleared and captured several lines of the enemy's trenches, including a number of fortified posts.

As it was found impossible for the Indian Corps to make any progress in face of the enemy's defences, Sir Douglas Haig directed the attack to be suspended at this point and ordered the Indian Corps to form a defensive flank.

The remainder of the day was spent in securing and consolidating positions which had been won, and endeavouring to unite the inner flanks of the 7th and 2nd Divisions, which were separated by trenches and posts strongly held by the enemy.

Various attempts which were made throughout the day to secure this object had not succeeded at nightfall in driving the enemy back.

The German communications leading to the rear of their positions were systematically shelled throughout the night.

About two hundred prisoners were captured on the 16th instant.

Fighting was resumed at daybreak; and by 11 o'clock the 7th Division had made a considerable advance, capturing several more of the enemy's trenches. The task allotted to this Division was to push on in the direction of Rue D'Ouvert, Chateau St. Roch and Canteleux.

The 2nd Division was directed to push on when the situation permitted towards the Rue de Marais and Violaines.

The Indian Division was ordered to extend its front far enough to enable it to keep touch with the left of the 2nd Division when they advanced.

On this day I gave orders for the 51st (Highland) Division to move into the neighbourhood of Estaires to be ready to support the operations of the First Army

At about noon the enemy was driven out of the trenches and posts which he occupied between the two Divisions, the inner flanks of which were thus enabled to join hands.

By nightfall the 2nd and 7th Divisions had made good progress, the area of captured ground being considerably extended to the right by the successful operations of the latter.

The state of the weather on the morning of the 18th much hindered an effective artillery bombardment, and further attacks had, consequently, to be postponed.

Infantry attacks were made throughout the line in the course of the afternoon and evening; but, although not very much progress was made, the line was advanced to the La Quinque Rue-Bethune Road before nightfall.

On the 19th May the 7th and 2nd Divisions were drawn out of the line to rest. The 7th Division was relieved by the Canadian Division and the 2nd Division by the 51st (Highland) Division.

Sir Douglas Haig placed the Canadian and 51st Divisions, together with the artillery of the 2nd and 7th Divisions, under the command of Lieutenant-General Alderson, whom he directed to conduct the operations which had hitherto been carried on by the General Officer Commanding First Corps; and he directed the 7th Division to remain in Army Reserve.

During the night of the 19th-20th a small post of the enemy in front of La Quinque Rue was captured.

During the night of the 20th-21st the Canadian Division brilliantly carried on the excellent progress made by the 7th Division by seizing several of the enemy's trenches and pushing forward their whole line several hundred yards. A number of prisoners and some machine guns were captured.

On the 22nd instant the 51st (Highland) Division was attached to the Indian Corps, and the General Officer Commanding the Indian Corps took charge of the operations at La Quinque Rue, Lieutenant-General Alderson with the Canadians conducting the operations to the north of that place.

On this day the Canadian Division extended their line slightly to the right and repulsed three very severe hostile counter-attacks.

On the 24th and 25th May the 47th Division (2nd London Territorial) succeeded in taking some more of the enemy's trenches and making good the ground gained to the east and north.

I had now reason to consider that the battle, which was commenced by the First Army on the 9th May and renewed on the 16th, having attained for the moment the immediate object I had in view, should not be further actively proceeded with; and I gave orders to Sir Douglas Haig to curtail his artillery attack and to strengthen and consolidate the ground he had won.

In the battle of Festubert above described the enemy was driven from a position which was strongly entrenched and fortified, and ground was won on a front of four miles to an average depth of 600 yards.

The enemy is known to have suffered very heavy losses, and in the course of the battle 785 prisoners and 10 machine guns were captured. A number of machine guns were also destroyed by our fire.

During the period under report the Army under my command has taken over trenches occupied by some other French Divisions.

I am much indebted to General D'Urbal, Commanding the 10th French Army, for the valuable and efficient support received throughout the battle of Festubert from three groups of French 75 centimetre guns.

In spite of very unfavourable weather conditions, rendering observation most difficult, our own artillery did excellent work throughout the battle.

6. During the important operations described above, which were carried on by the First and Second Armies, the 3rd Corps was particularly active in making demonstrations with a view to holding the enemy in its front and preventing reinforcements reaching the threatened areas.

As an instance of the successful attempts to deceive the enemy in this respect it may be mentioned that on the afternoon of the 24th instant a bombardment of about an hour was carried out by the 6th Division with the object of distracting attention from the Ypres salient.

Considerable damage was done to the enemy's parapets and wire; and that the desired impression was produced on the enemy is evident from the German wireless news on that day, which stated, "West of Lille the English attemps to attack were nipped in the bud."

In previous reports I have drawn attention to the enterprise displayed by the troops of the 3rd Corps in conducting night reconnaissances, and to the courage and resource shown by officers and other patrols in the conduct of these minor operations.

Throughout the period under report this display of activity has been very marked all along the 3rd Corps front, and much valuable information and intelligence have been collected.

7. I have much pleasure in again expressing my warm appreciation of the admirable manner in which all branches of the Medical Services now in the field, under the direction of Surgeon-General Sir Arthur Sloggett, have met and dealt with the many difficult situations resulting from the operations during the last two months.

The medical units at the front were frequently exposed to the enemy's fire, and many casualties occurred amongst the officers of the regimental Medical Service. At all times the officers, non-commissioned officers and men, and nurses carried out their duties with fearless bravery and great devotion to the welfare of the sick and wounded.

The evacuation of casualties from the front to the Base and to England was expeditiously accomplished by the Administrative Medical Staffs at the front and on the Lines of Communication. All ranks employed in units of evacuation and in Base Hospitals have shown the highest skill and untiring zeal and energy in alleviating the condition of those who passed through their hands.

The whole organisation of the Medical Service reflects the highest credit on all concerned.

8. I have once more to call your Lordship's attention to the part taken by the Royal Flying Corps in the general progress of the campaign, and I wish particularly to mention the invaluable assistance they rendered in the operations described in this report, under the able direction of Major-General Sir David Henderson.

The Royal Flying Corps is becoming more and more an indispensable factor in combined operations. In co-operation with the artillery, in particular, there has been continuous improvement both in the methods and in the technical material employed. The ingenuity and technical skill displayed by the officers of the Royal Flying Corps, in effecting this improvement, have been most marked.

Since my last despatch there has been a considerable increase both in the number and in the activity of German aeroplanes in our front. During this period there have been more than sixty combats in the air, in which not one British aeroplane has been lost. As these fights take place almost invariably over or behind the German lines, only one hostile aeroplane has been brought down in our territory. Five more, however, have been definitely wrecked behind their own lines, and many have been chased down and forced to land in most unsuitable ground.

In spite of the opposition of hostile aircraft and the great number of anti-aircraft guns employed by the enemy, air reconnaissance has been carried out with regularity and accuracy.

I desire to bring to your Lordship's notice the assistance given by the French Military Authorities, and in particular by General Hirschauer, Director of the French Aviation Service, and his assistants, Colonel Bottieaux and Colonel Stammler, in the supply of aeronautical material, without which the efficiency of the Royal Flying Corps would have been seriously impaired.

9. In this despatch I wish again to remark upon the exceptionally good work done throughout this campaign by the Army Service Corps and by the Army Ordnance Department, not only in the field, but also on the Lines of Communication and at the Base Ports.

To foresee and meet the requirements in the matter of Ammunition, Stores, Equipment, Supplies and Transport has entailed on the part of the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of these Services a sustained effort which has never been relaxed since the beginning of the war, and which has been rewarded by the most conspicuous success.

The close co-operation of the Railway Transport Department, whose excellent work, in combination with the French Railway Staff, has ensured the regularity of the maintenance services, has greatly contributed to this success.

The degree of efficiency to which these Services have been brought was well demonstrated in the course of the Second Battle of Ypres.

The roads between Poperinghe and Ypres, over which transport, supply and ammunition columns had to pass, were continually searched by hostile heavy artillery during the day and night; whilst the passage of the canal through the town of Ypres, and along the roads east of that town, could only be effected under most difficult and dangerous conditions as regards hostile shell fire. Yet, throughout the whole five or six weeks during which these conditions prevailed, the work was carried on with perfect order and efficiency.

10. Since the date of my last report some Divisions of the "New" Army have arrived in this country.

I made a close inspection of one Division, formed up on parade, and have at various times seen several units belonging to others.

These Divisions have as yet had very little experience in actual fighting; but, judging from all I have seen, I am of opinion that they ought to prove a valuable addition to any fighting force.

As regards the Infantry, their physique is excellent, whilst their bearing and appearance on parade reflects great credit on the officers and staffs responsible for their training. The units appear to be thoroughly well officered and commanded. The equipment is in good order and efficient.

Several units of artillery have been tested in the firing line behind the trenches, and I hear very good reports of them. Their shooting has been extremely good, and they are quite fit to take their places in the line.

The Pioneer Battalions have created a very favourable impression, the officers being keen and ingenious and the men of good physique and good diggers. The equipment is suitable. The training in field works has been good, but, generally speaking, they require the assistance of Regular Royal Engineers as regards laying out of important works. Man for man in digging the battalions should do practically the same amount of work as an equivalent number of sappers, and in rivetting entanglement, etc., a great deal more than the ordinary infantry battalions.

11. During the months of April and May several divisions of the Territorial Force joined the Army under my command.

Experience has shown that these troops have now reached a standard of efficiency which enable them to be usefully employed in complete divisional units.

Several divisions have been so employed; some in the trenches, others in the various offensive and defensive operations reported in this despatch.

In whatever kind of work these units have been engaged, they have all borne an active and distinguished part, and have proved themselves thoroughly reliable and efficient.

The opinion I have expressed in former despatches as to the use and value of the Territorial Force has been fully justified by recent events.

12. The Prime Minister was kind enough to accept an invitation from me to visit the Army in France, and arrived at my Headquarters on the 30th May.

Mr. Asquith made an exhaustive tour of the front, the hospitals and all the administrative arrangements made by Corps Commanders for the health and comfort of men behind the trenches.

It was a great encouragement to all ranks to see the Prime Minister amongst them; and the eloquent words which on several occasions he addressed to the troops had a most powerful and beneficial effect.

As I was desirous that the French Commander-in-Chief should see something of the British troops, I asked General Joffre to be kind enough to inspect a division on parade.

The General accepted my invitation, and on the 27th May he inspected the 7th Division, under the command of Major-General H. de la P. Gough, C. B., which was resting behind the trenches.

General Joffre subsequently expressed to me in a letter the pleasure it gave him to see the British troops, and his appreciation of their appearance on parade. He requested me to make this known to all ranks.

The Moderator of the Church of Scotland, the Right Reverend Dr. Wallace Williamson, Dean of the Order of the Thistle, visited the Army in France between the 7th and 17th May, and made a tour of the Scottish regiments with excellent results.

13. In spite of the constant strain put upon them by the arduous nature of the fighting which they are called upon to carry out daily and almost hourly, the spirit which animates all ranks of the Army in France remains high and confident.

They meet every demand made upon them with the utmost cheerfulness.

This splendid spirit is particularly manifested by the men in hospital, even amongst those who are mortally wounded.

The invariable question which comes from lips hardly able to utter a sound is, "How are things going on at the front?"

14. In conclusion, I desire to bring to Your Lordship's special notice the valuable services rendered by General Sir Douglas Haig in his successful handling of the troops of the First Army throughout the Battle of Festubert, and Lieutenant-General Sir Herbert Plumer for his fine defence of Ypres throughout the arduous and difficult operations during the latter part of April and the month of May.

I have the honour to be,

Your Lordship's most obedient Servant,

J. D. P. FRENCH, Field-Marshal,

Commanding-in-Chief, The British Army in France.

(2) For the purpose of the voyage of a ship from the jurisdiction of one court to that of another under such an order of removal, the ship, if not a British ship, shall be treated as if it were a British ship registered in the United Kingdom.

No. 13755-W.—The following regulations respecting certificates of origin for foreign goods imported into Russia are published for general information :—

REGULATIONS CONCERNING PROOF OF ORIGIN OF FOREIGN GOODS.

I. The following will be accepted as proof of the origin of goods subject to Customs duty at the rates of the "Conventional," or, as the case may be, "General" Tariff for European trade :—

1. Certificates of origin issued by (a) Russian diplomatic and consular officers, with the official seal affixed; (b) Chambers of Commerce, Municipal or Police Authorities, with the official seal affixed; (c) Customs houses discharging the goods from the country whose products are assessed in Russia at "Conventional" rates, or, as the case may be, "General" rates of the Tariff;
2. Accounts, invoices, or letters of manufacturers, wholesale stores, merchants, commission offices and traders.

II. The documents enumerated in point 1 (letters b and c) and point 2 of Section I will be recognised as sufficient proof of origin only when the said documents have been attested by Russian diplomatic or consular officers, if there be such in the country of origin. Not only the signatures in the documents must be so attested, but also the accuracy of the statements regarding the origin of the goods indicated. In the case of accounts, invoices, and letters of foreign manufacturers, etc. (point 2 of Section I), the above officials must also certify that the persons submitting these documents do in fact possess the commercial or industrial undertakings in the name of which the documents are submitted.

Note.—In countries where there are no Russian diplomatic or consular representatives, the documents may be attested by English, French, or Belgian diplomatic or consular officials, according to a list sanctioned by the Minister for Foreign Affairs.

III. Should Russian Customs establishments experience any difficulties in interpreting the foreign text of documents presented, the owner of the goods must, on demand, submit a translation in Russian, certifying the correctness of the same with his signature.

IV. The documents referred to in Section I will be accepted only if issued by persons residing, or institutions established in the country of origin of the goods, and not in countries through which they are being conveyed in transit.

V. These documents must contain information as to the quantity of packages, their marks and numbers, gross and net weight, and a description of the goods by their technical or trade name, the following exceptions being admitted :—

(a) In proof of origin of articles assessed in the Tariff not by weight but by piece, documents will be accepted without indication of the net and gross weight.

(b) In documents concerning vessels (ships), the dimensions may be indicated by gross capacity in tons.

(c) The net weight need not be given in the case of the following : all goods assessed in the Tariff by gross weight, and all goods allowed a deduction for tare if imported in packing specifically named in the Tare Table sanctioned by the Minister of Finance.

(d) Slight disparities in the marks and numbers of goods' packages, as compared with the entries in the documents, need not disqualify the documents if the Customs authorities have no doubt that the documents refer to the goods imported.

VI. It is sufficient to present one of the documents indicated in Section I if the goods come to Russia direct from the country of origin.

VII. By direct importation of goods from the country of origin is to be understood :

(a) the carriage of goods from a port of the country of origin to a Russian port without transhipment and without discharge at a port of a third country ;

(b) the carriage of goods by rail or by a mixed route, by rail and by steamer, with through waybills or bills of lading, if the place of despatch indicated in these documents is situated within the boundaries of the country of origin, and the place of destination is any interior or frontier point of Russia, even if the goods have to be conveyed vid other countries to the products of which favourable tariff rates are applied.

VIII. The conveyance of goods through German, Austro-Hungarian, or Turkish territories, as also the transhipment or discharge of goods at ports of these countries, shall deprive the goods of any right to favourable tariff rates.

IX. On the delivery of goods imported indirectly from the country of origin the following will be required :—

1. For goods coming from Customs warehouses, in addition to one of the documents indicated in Section I, a certificate of a Custom house of the country from which the goods are imported into Russia to the effect that the packages indicated in the said documents were not released from the warehouses of that Custom house, and indicating by what waybills or bills of lading they were despatched directly to Russia. This certificate must be attested by Russian diplomatic or consular officials ; and

2 For goods acquired in a foreign interior market, a certificate of origin from Russian diplomatic or consular officials, indicating that the goods, on delivery into that country, did not pass in transit through German, Austro-Hungarian or Turkish territory, and were not transhipped or discharged at ports of those countries.

X. Goods specified in the appended list, on direct import into Russia from the country of origin, do not require certificates of origin. If these goods are imported indirectly from the country of origin, they require a certificate of the Custom house of the country from which hey were despatched direct to Russia, this certificate indicating the country of origin, the point whence the goods were received at the place where the Custom house issuing the certificate is situated, and the routes by which the goods were proceeding to Russia. This certificate must be attested by a Russian diplomatic or consular officer.

Note.—At the desire of the owners of the goods, instead of the Customs certificate mentioned in this Section, documents mentioned in Sections I and IX may be presented.

XI. Asiatic goods, imported by Persian, Afghan, Mongolian and overland Chinese frontiers, do not require certificates of origin.

XII. In goods' declarations, when the amount of the duty depends on the country of origin, the owner must indicate the country of origin, otherwise the declaration will be returned for the insertion of this information.

XIII. Documents showing the origin or place of despatch of goods (Sections I to X) may be presented at Custom houses at the time of import of the goods together with the lading documents, or on delivery of the declaration, or afterwards with a separate statement handed in previous to the discharge of the goods from the Custom house, but in any case, not later than six months from the date of arrival of the goods at the Custom house.

XIV. On inspection of the goods, the Customs authorities must see that the proofs of origin presented correspond with the goods, and in cases of reasonable doubt, must verify the proofs, apart from the documents referred to above, and make an expert examination of the goods.

XV. If the number of packages of goods presented for inspection should be found to be less than that entered in the documents of origin, this circumstance alone should not be a reason for refusing to recognise the goods as subject to assessment under the "Conventional" or, as the case may be, "General" Tariff, and the documents of origin must not be returned to the owner of the goods. If the latter declares that the missing packages will be delivered later, the Custom house must, on his written request, deliver to him a copy of these documents with a note on the same explaining the circumstances.

XVI. The documents indicated in sections I to X of these regulations delivered at Custom houses with postal declarations, will be recognised as proof of origin of goods imported in postal parcels. For goods received in parcels, delivered to addressees direct from Custom houses (section 617 of the Customs Code, 1912, Supplement), proof or origin may also be presented by the receivers on the same basis as is established for the presentation of proof of origin of goods inspected according to declaration.

XVII. For goods inspected without inspection documents in the cases provided for in sections 197, 198, 257, 391, 399 and 417 of the Customs Code, proof of origin will be accepted on the same basis as is established for goods inspected according to declarations.

XVIII. Documents of origin, as also other documents, after payment of Customs duties on the goods, shall be sent to the competent Control Chambers with the inspection documents.

XIX. In the absence of proofs of origin, or non-compliance of the same with these regulations, the goods will be assessed for duty according to the rates established for goods of German, Austrian, and Turkish origin.

XX. Exemptions from the stipulations of these regulations may be made in exceptional cases on the special authorization, in each separate case of the Minister of Finance.

Third Supplement dated the 6th July 1915, to the "London Gazette" of the 2nd July 1915.

From the General Commanding the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force.

To the Secretary of State for War, War Office, London, S. W.

General Headquarters,
Mediterranean Expeditionary Force,
20th May 1915.

MY LORD,—

I have the honour to submit my report on the operations in the Gallipoli Peninsula up to and including the 5th May.

In accordance with your Lordship's instructions I left London on 13th March with my General Staff by special train to Marseilles, and thence in H.M.S. "Phæton" to the scene of the naval operations in the Eastern Mediterranean, reaching Tenedos on the 17th March shortly after noon.

Immediately on arrival I conferred with Vice-Admiral de Robeck, Commanding the Eastern Mediterranean Fleet; General d'Amade, Commanding the French Corps Expéditionnaire; and Contre Amiral Guepratte, in command of the French Squadron. At this conference past difficulties were explained to me, and the intention to make a fresh attack on the morrow was announced. The amphibious battle between warships and land fortresses took place next day, the 18th of March. I witnessed these stupendous events, and thereupon cabled your Lordship my reluctant deduction that the co-operation of the whole of the force under my command would be required to enable the Fleet effectively to force the Dardanelles.

By that time I had already carried out a preliminary reconnaissance of the north-western shore of the Gallipoli Peninsula, from its isthmus, where it is spanned by the Bulair fortified lines, to Cape Helles, at its extremest point. From Bulair this singular feature runs in a south-westerly direction for 52 miles, attaining near its centre a breadth of 12 miles. The northern coast of the northern half of the promontory slopes downwards steeply to the Gulf of Xeros, in a chain of hills, which extend as far as Cape Sulva. The precipitous fall of these hills precludes landing, except at a few narrow gullies, far too restricted for any serious military movements. The southern half of the peninsula is shaped like a badly-worn boot. The ankle lies between Kaba Tepe and Kalkmaz Dagh; beneath the heel lie the cluster of forts at Kilid Bahr, whilst the toe is that promontory, five miles in width, stretching from Tekke Burnu to Sedd-el-Bahr.

The three dominating features in this southern section seemed to me to be :—

(1) Saribair Mountain, running up in a succession of almost perpendicular escarpments to 970 feet. The whole mountain seemed to be a network of ravines and covered with thick jungle.

(2) Kilid Bahr plateau, which rises, a natural fortification artificially fortified, to a height of 700 feet to cover the forts of the Narrows from an attack from the Ægean.

(3) Achi Babi, a hill 600 feet in height, dominating at long field gun range what I have described as being the toe of the peninsula.

A peculiarity to be noted as regards this last southern sector is that from Achi Babi to Cape Helles the ground is hollowed out like a spoon, presenting only its outer edges to direct fire from the sea. The inside of the spoon appears to be open and undulating, but actually it is full of spurs, nullahs and confused underfeatures.

Generally speaking the coast is precipitous, and good landing places are few. Just south of Tekke Burnu is a small sandy bay (W),* and half a mile north of it is another small break in the cliffs (X).* Two miles further up the coast the mouth of a stream indents these same cliffs (Y2),* and yet another mile and a half up a scrub-covered gully looked as if active infantry might be able to scramble up it on to heights not altogether dissimilar to those of Abraham, by Quebec (Y).* Inside Sedd-el-Bahr is a sandy beach (V),* about 300 yards across, facing a semi-circle of steeply-rising ground, as the flat bottom of a half-saucer faces the rim, a rim flanked on one side by an old castle, on the other by a modern fort. By Eski Hissarlik, on the east of Morto Bay (S)* was another small beach, which was however dominated by the big guns from Asia. Turning northwards again, there are two good landing places on either side of Kaba Tepe. Farther to the north of that promontory the beach was supposed to be dangerous and difficult. In most of these landing-places the trenches and lines of wire entanglements were plainly visible from on board ship. What seemed to begun emplacements and infantry redoubts could also be made out through a telescope, but of the full extent of these defences and of the forces available to man them there was no possibility of judging except by practical test.

Altogether the result of this and subsequent reconnaissances was to convince me that nothing but a thorough and systematic scheme for flinging the whole of the troops under my command very rapidly ashore could be expected to meet with success; whereas, on the other hand, a tentative or piecemeal programme was bound to lead to disaster. The landing of an army upon the theatre of operations I have described—a theatre strongly garrisoned throughout, and prepared for any such attempt—involved difficulties for which no precedent was forthcoming in military history except possibly in the sinister legends of Xerxes. The beaches were either so well defended by works and guns, or else so restricted by nature that it did not seem possible, even by two or three simultaneous landings, to pass the troops ashore quickly enough to enable them to maintain themselves against the rapid concentration and counter-attack which the enemy was bound in such case to attempt. It became necessary, therefore, not only to land simultaneously at as many points as possible, but to threaten to land at other points as well. The first of these necessities involved another unavoidable if awkward contingency, the separation by considerable intervals of the force.

The weather was also bound to play a vital part in my landing. Had it been British weather there would have been no alternative but instantly to give up the adventure. To land two or three thousand men, and to then to have to break off and leave them exposed for a week to the attacks of 34,000 regular troops, with a hundred guns at their back, was not an eventuality to be lightly envisaged. Whatever happened the weather must always remain an incalculable factor, but at least by delay till the end of April we had a fair chance of several days of consecutive calm.

Before doing anything else I had to redistribute the troops on the transports to suit the order of their disembarkation. The bulk of the forces at my disposal had, perforce, been embarked without its having been possible to pay due attention to the operation upon which I now proposed that they should be launched.

Owing to lack of facilities at Mudros redistribution in that harbour was out of the question. With your Lordship's approval, therefore, I ordered all the transports, except those of the Australian Infantry Brigade and the details encamped at Lemnos Island, to the Egyptian ports. On the 24th March I myself, together with the General Staff, proceeded to Alexandria, where I remained until 7th April, working out the allocation of troops to transports in minutest detail as a prelude to the forthcoming disembarkation. General d'Amade did likewise.

On the 1st April the remainder of the General Headquarters, which had not been mobilised when I left England, arrived at Alexandria.

Apart from the rearrangements of the troops, my visit to Egypt was not without profit, since it afforded me opportunities of conferring with the G. O. C. Egypt and of making myself acquainted with the troops, drawn from all parts of the French Republic and of the British Empire, which it was to be my privilege to command.

By the 7th April my preparations were sufficiently advanced to enable me to return with my General Staff to Lemnos, so as to put the finishing touches to my plan in close co-ordination with the Vice-Admiral commanding the Eastern Mediterranean Fleet.

The covering force of the 29th Division left Mudros Harbour on the evening of 23rd April for the five beaches, S, V, W, X, and Y.* Of these V, W, and X were to be main landings, the landings at S and Y being made mainly to protect the flanks, to disseminate the forces of the enemy, and to interrupt the arrival of his reinforcements. The landings at S and Y were to take place at dawn, whilst it was planned that the first troops for V, W, and X beaches should reach the shore simultaneously at 5-30 A.M. after half an hour's bombardment from the fleet.

The transports conveying the covering force arrived off Tendos on the morning of the 24th, and during the afternoon the troops were transferred to the warships and fleet-sweepers in which they were to approach the shore. About midnight these ships, each towing a number of cutters and other small boats, silently slipped their cables and escorted by the 3rd Squadron of the fleet, steamed slowly towards their final rendezvous at Cape Helles. The rendezvous was reached just before dawn on the 25th. The morning was absolutely still; there was no sign of life on the shore; a thin veil of mist hung motionless over the promontory; the surface of the sea was as smooth as glass. The four battleships and four cruisers which formed the 3rd Squadron at once took up the positions that had been allotted to them, and at 5 A.M., it being then light enough to fire, a violent bombardment of the enemy's defences was begun. Meanwhile the troops were being rapidly transferred to the small boats in which they were to be towed ashore. Not a move on the part of the enemy; except for shells thrown from the Asiatic side of the Straits the guns of the Fleet remained unanswered.

The detachment detailed in S beach * (Eski Hissarlik Point) consisted of the 2nd South Wales Borderers (less one company) under Lieutenant-Colonel Casson. Their landing was delayed by the current, but by 7-30 A.M. it had been successfully effected at the cost of some 50 casualties, and Lieutenant-Colonel Casson was able to establish his small force on the high ground near De Totts Battery. Here he maintained himself until the general advance on the 27th brought him into touch with the main body.

The landing on Y beach* was entrusted to the King's Own Scottish Borderers and the Plymouth (Marine) Battalion, Royal Naval Division, specially attached to the 29th Division for this task, the whole under command of Lieutenant-Colonel Koe. The beach at this point consisted merely of a narrow strip of sand at the foot of a crumbling scrub-covered cliff some 200 feet high immediately to the west of Krithia.

A number of small gullies running down the face of the cliff facilitated the climb to the summit, and so impracticable had these precipices appeared to the Turks that no steps had been taken to defend them. Very different would it have been had we, as was at one time intended, taken Y 2* for this landing. There a large force of infantry, entrenched up to their necks, and supported by machine and Hotchkiss guns, were awaiting an attempt which could hardly have made good its footing. But at Y* both battalions were able in the first instance to establish themselves on the heights, reserves of food, water and ammunition were hauled up to the top of the cliff, and, in accordance with the plan of operations, an endeavour was immediately made to gain touch with the troops landing at X* beach. Unfortunately, the enemy's strong detachment from Y 2* interposed, our troops landing at X* were fully occupied in attacking the Turks immediately to their front, and the attempt to join hands was not persevered with.

Later in the day a large force of Turks were seen to be advancing upon the cliffs above Y* beach from the direction of Krithia, and Colonel Koe was obliged to entrench. From this time onward his small force was subjected to strong and repeated attacks, supported by field artillery, and owing to the configuration of the ground, which here drops inland from the edge of the cliff, the guns of the supporting ships could render him little assistance Throughout the afternoon and all through the night the Turks made assault after assault upon the British line. They threw bombs into the trenches, and, favoured by darkness, actually led a pony with machine gun on its back, over the defences and were proceeding to come into action in the middle of our position when they were bayonetted. The British repeatedly countercharged with the bayonet, and always drove off the enemy for the moment, but the Turks were in a vast superiority and fresh troops took the place of those who temporarily fell back. Colonel Koe (since died of wounds) had become a casualty early in the day, and the number of officers and men killed and wounded during the incessant fighting was very heavy. By 7 A.M., on the 26th only about half of the King's Own Scottish Borderers remained to man the entrenchment made for four times their number. These brave fellows were absolutely worn out with continuous fighting; it was doubtful if reinforcements could reach them in time, and orders were issued for them to be re-embarked. Thanks to H.M.S. "Goliath," "Dublin," "Amethyst," and "Sapphire," thanks also to the devotion of a small rearguard of the King's Own Scottish Borderers, which kept off the enemy from lining the cliff, the re-embarkation of the whole of the troops together with the wounded, stores and ammunition, was safely accomplished, and both battalions were brought round the southern end of the peninsula. Deplorable as the heavy losses had been, and unfortunate as was the tactical failure to make good so much ground at the outset, yet, taking the operation as it stood, there can be no doubt it has contributed greatly to the success of the main attack, seeing that the plucky stand made at Y* beach had detained heavy columns of the enemy from arriving at the southern end of the peninsula during what it will be seen was a very touch-and-go struggle.

The landing-place known at X beach* consists of a strip of sand some 200 yards long by 8 yards wide at the foot of a low cliff. The troops to be landed here were the 1st Royal Fusiliers, who were to be towed ashore from H.M.S. "Implacable" in two parties, half a battalion at a time, together with a beach working party found by the Anson Battalion Royal Naval Division. About 6 A.M., H.M.S. "Implacable," with a boldness much admired by the Army, stood quite close in to the beach, firing very rapidly with every gun she could bring to bear. Thus seconded, the Royal Fusiliers made good their landing with but little loss. The Battalion then advanced to attack the Turkish trenches on the Hill 114, situated between V and W beaches,* but were heavily counter-attacked and forced to give ground. Two more battalions of the 87th Brigade soon followed them, and by evening the troops had established themselves in an entrenched position extending from half a mile round the landing place and as far south as Hill 114. Here they were in touch with the Lancashire Fusiliers, who had landed on W beach.* Brigadier-General Marshall, commanding the 87th Brigade, had been wounded during the day's fighting, but continued in command of the brigade.

The landing on V beach* was planned to take place on the following lines:—

As soon as the enemy's defences have been heavily bombarded by the fleet, three companies of the Dublin Fusiliers were to be towed ashore. They were to be closely followed by the collier "River Clyde" (Commander

Unwin, R.N.), carrying between decks the balance of the Dublin Fusiliers, the Munster Fusiliers, half a battalion of the Hampshire Regiment, the West Riding Field Company, and other details.

The "River Clyde" had been specially prepared for the rapid disembarkation of her complement, and large openings for the exit of the troops had been cut in her sides, giving on to a wide gang-plank by which the men could pass rapidly into lighters which she had in tow. As soon as the first tows had reached land the "River Clyde" was to be run straight ashore. Her lighters were to be placed in position to form a gangway between the ship and the beach, and by this means it was hoped that 2,000 men could be thrown ashore with the utmost rapidity. Further, to assist in covering the landing, a battery of machine guns, protected by sandbags, had been mounted in her bows.

The remainder of the covering force detailed for this beach was then to follow in tows from the attendant battleships.

V beach* is situated immediately to the west of Sedd-el-Bahr. Between the bluff on which stands Sedd-el-Bahr Village and that which is crowned by No. 1 Fort the ground forms a very regular amphitheatre of three or four hundred yards radius. The slopes down to the beach are slightly concave, so that the whole area contained within the limits of this natural amphitheatre, whose grassy terraces rise gently to a height of a hundred feet above the shore, can be swept by the fire of a defender. The beach itself is a sandy strip some 10 yards wide and 350 yards long, backed along almost the whole of its extent by a low sandy escarpment about 4 feet high, were the ground falls nearly sheer down to the beach. The slight shelter afforded by this escarpment played no small part in the operations of the succeeding thirty-two hours.

At the south-eastern extremity of the beach, between the shore and the village, stands the old fort of Sedd-el-Bahr, a battered ruin with wide breaches in its walls and mounds of fallen masonry within and around it. On the ridge to the north, overlooking the amphitheatre, stands a ruined barrack. Both of these buildings, as well as No. 1 Fort, had been long bombarded by the fleet, and the guns of the forts had been put out of action; but their crumbled walls and the ruined outskirts of the village afforded cover for riflemen, while from the terraced slopes already described the defenders were able to command the open beach, as a stage is overlooked from the balconies of a theatre. On the very margin of the beach a strong barbed-wire entanglement, made of heavier metal and longer barbs than I have ever seen elsewhere, ran right across from the old fort of Sedd-el-Bah to the foot of the north-western headland. Two-thirds of the way up the ridge a second and even stronger entanglement crossed the amphitheatre, passing in front of the old barrack and ending in the outskirts of the village. A third transverse entanglement, joining these two, ran up the hill near the eastern end of the beach, and almost at right angles to it. Above the upper entanglement the ground was scored with the enemy's trenches in one of which four pom-poms were emplaced; in others were dummy pom-poms to draw fire. while the debris of the shattered buildings on either flank afforded cover and concealment for a number of machine guns, which brought a cross-fire to bear on the ground already swept by rifle fire from the ridge.

Needless to say, the difficulties in the way of previous reconnaissance had rendered it impossible to obtain detailed information with regard either to the locality or to the enemy's preparations.

As often happens in war, the actual course of events did not quite correspond with the intentions of the Commander. The "River Clyde" came into position off Sedd-el-Bahr in advance of the tows, and, just as the latter reached the shore, Commander Unwin beached his ship also. Whilst the boats and the collier were approaching the landing place the Turks made no sign. Up to the very last moment it appeared as if the landing was to be unopposed. But the moment the first boat touched bottom the storm broke. A tornado of fire swept over the beach, the incoming boats, and the collier. The Dublin Fusiliers and the naval boats' crews suffered exceedingly heavy losses while still in the boats. Those who succeeded in landing and in crossing the strip of sand managed to gain some cover when they reached the low escarpment on the further side. None of the boats, however, were able to get off again and they and their crews were destroyed upon the beach.

Now came the moment for the "River Clyde" to pour forth her living freight; but grievous delay was caused here by the difficulty of placing the lighters in position between the slip and the shore. A strong current hindered the work and the enemy's fire was so intense that almost every man engaged upon it was immediately shot. Owing, however, to the splendid gallantry of the naval working party, the lighters were eventually placed in position, and then the disembarkation began.

A company of the Munster Fusiliers led the way; but, short as was the distance, few of the men ever reached the father side of the beach through the hail of bullets which poured down upon them from both flanks and the front. As the second company followed, the extemporised pier of lighters gave way in the current. The end nearest to the shore drifted into deep water, and many men who had escaped being shot were drowned by the weight of their equipment in trying to swim from the lighter to the beach. Undaunted workers were still forthcoming, the lighters were again brought into position, and the third company of the Munster Fusiliers rushed ashore, suffering heaviest loss this time from shrapnel as well as from rifle, pom-pom, and machine gun fire.

For a space the attempt to land was discontinued. When it was resumed the lighters again drifted into deep water, with Brigadier-General Napier, Captain Costeker, his Brigade Major, and a number of men of the Hampshire Regiment on board. There was nothing for them all but to lie down on the lighters, and it was here that General Napier and Captain Costeker were killed. At this time, between 10 and 11 A.M., about 1,000 men had left the collier, and of these nearly half had been killed or wounded before they could reach the little cover afforded by the steep, sandy bank at the top of the beach. Further attempts to disemark were now given up. Had the troops all in open boats but few of them would have lived to tell the tale. But, most fortunately, the collier was so constructed as to afford fairly efficient protection to the men who were still on board, and, so long as they made no attempt to land, they suffered comparatively little loss.

Throughout the remainder of the day there was practically no change in the position of affairs. The situation was probably saved by the machine guns on the "River Clyde" which did valuable service in keeping down the enemy's fire and in preventing any attempt on their part to launch a counter-attack. One half-company of the Dublin Fusiliers, which had been landed at a camber just east of Sedd-el-Bahr village, was unable to work its way across to V beach,* and by mid-day had only twenty-five men left. It was proposed to divert to Y beach* that part of the main body which had been intended to land on V beach;* but this would have involved cosiderable delay owing to the distance, and the main body was diverted to W beach,* where the Lancashire Fusiliers had already effected a landing.

Late in the afternoon part of the Worcestershire Regiment and the Lancashire Fusiliers worked across the high ground from W beach,* and seemed likely to relieve the situation by taking the defenders of V beach* in flank. The pressure on their own front, however, and the numerous barbed-wire entanglements which intervened, checked this advance, and at nightfall the Turkish garrison still held their ground. Just before dark some small parties of our men made their way along the shore to the outer walls of the Old Fort, and when night had fallen the remainder of the infantry from the collier were landed. A good force was now available for attack, but our troops were at such a cruel disadvantage as to position, and the fire of the enemy was still so accurate in the bright moonlight that all attempts to clear the fort and the outskrits of the village during the night failed one after the other. The wounded who were able to do so without support returned to the collier under cover of darkness: but otherwise the situation at daybreak on the 26th was the same as it had been on the previous day except that the troops first landed were becoming very exhausted.

Twenty-four hours after the disembarkation began there were ashore on V beach* the survivors of the Dublin and Munster Fusiliers and of two companies of the Hampshire Regiment. The Brigadier and his Brigade-Major had been killed; Lieutenant-Colonel Carrington Smith, commanding the Hampshire Regiment, had been killed and the Adjutant had been wounded. The Adjutant of the Munster Fusiliers was wounded, and the great majority of the senior officers were either wounded or killed. The remnant of the landing-party still crouched on the beach beneath the shelter of the sandy escarpment which had saved so many lives. With them were two officers of my General Staff—Lieutenant-Colonel Doughty-Wylie and Lieutenant-Colonel Williams. These two officers, who had landed from the "River Clyde" had been striving with conspicuous contempt for danger, to keep all their comrades in good heart during this day and night of ceaseless imminent peril.

Now that it was daylight once more, Lieutenant-Colonels Doughty-Wylie and Williams set to work to organise an attack on the hill above the beach. Any soldier who has endeavoured to pull scattered units together after they have been dominated for many consecutive hours by close and continuous fire will be able to take the measure of their difficulties. Fortunately, General Hunter Weston had arranged with Rear-Admiral Wemyss about this same time for a heavy bombardment to be opened by the ships upon the Old Fort, Sedd-el-Bahr Village, the Old Castle north of the village, and on the ground leading up from the beach. Under cover of this bombardment, and led by Lieutenant-Colonel Doughty-Wylie and Captain Walford, Brigade-Major, R. A., the troops gained a footing in the village by 10 A M. They encountered a most stubborn opposition and suffered heavy losses from the fire of well-concealed riflemen and machine guns. Undeterred by the resistance, and supported by the naval gunfire, they pushed forward, and soon after midday they penetrated to the northern edge of the village, whence they were in a position to attack the Old Castle and Hill 141. During this advance Captain Walford was killed Lieutenant-Colonel Doughty-Wylie had most gallantly led the attack all the way up from the beach through the west side of the village under a galling fire. And now, when, owing so largely to his own inspiring example and intrepid courage, the position had almost been gained, he was killed while leading the last assault. But the attack was pushed forward without wavering, and, fighting their way across the open with great dash, the troops gained the summit and occupied the Old Castle and Hill 141 before 2 P M.

W. beach* consists of a strip of deep, powdery sand some 350 yards long and from 15 to 40 yards wide, situated immediately south of Tekke Burnu, where a small gully running down to the sea opens out a break in the cliffs. On either flank of the beach the ground rises precipitously but, in the centre, a number of sand dunes afford a more gradual access to the ridge overlooking the sea. Much time and ingenuity had been employed by the Turks in turning this landing place into a death trap. Close to the water's edge, broad wire entanglement extended the whole length of the shore, and a supplementary barbed network lay concealed under the surface of the sea in the shallows. Land mines and sea mines had been laid. The high ground overlooking the beach was strongly fortified with trenches to which the gully afforded a natural covered approach. A number of machine guns also were cunningly tucked away into holes in the cliff so as to be immune from a naval bombardment whilst they were converging their fire on the wire entanglements. The crest of the hill overlooking the beach was in its turn commanded by high ground to the north-west and south-east, and especially by two strong infantry redoubts near point 138 Both these redoubts were protected by wire entanglements about 20 feet broad, and could be approached only by a bare glacislike slope leading up from the high ground above W beach* or from the Cape Helles lighthouse. In addition, another separate entanglement ran down from these two redoubts to the edge of the cliff near the lighthouse, making intercommunication between V and W beaches* impossible until these redoubts had been captured.

So strong, in fact, were the defences of W beach* that the Turks may well have considered them impregnable, and it is my firm conviction that no finer feat of arms has ever been achieved by the British soldier—or any other soldier—than the storming of these trenches from open boats on the morning of 25th April.

The landing at W* had been entrusted to the 1st Battalion, Lancashire Fusiliers (Major Bishop), and it was to the complete lack of the senses of danger or of fear of this daring battalion that we owed our astonishing success. As in the case of the landing at X,* the disembarkation had been delayed for half an hour, but at 6 A.M. the whole battalion approached the shore together, towed by eight picket boats in line abreast, each picket boat pulling four ship's cutters. As soon as shallow water was reached, the tows were cast off and the boats were at once rowed to the shore. Three companies headed for the beach and a company on the left of the line made for a small ledge of rock immediately under the cliff at Tekke Burnu. Brigadier-General Hare, commanding the 88th Brigade, accompanied this latter party, which escaped the cross-fire brought to bear upon the beach, and was also in a better position than the rest of the battalion to turn the wire entanglements.

While the troops were approaching the shore no shot had been fired from the enemy's trenches, but as soon as the first boat touched the ground a hurricane of lead swept over the battalion. Gallantly led by their officers, the Fusiliers literally hurled themselves ashore and, fired at from right, left and centre, commenced hacking their way through the wire. A long line of men was at once mown down as by a scythe, but the remainder were not to be denied. Covered by the fire of the warships, which had now closed right into the shore and helped by the flanking fire of the company on the extreme left, they broke through the entanglements and collected under the cliffs on either side of the beach. Here the companies were rapidly reformed, and set forth to storm the enemy's entrenchments wherever they could find them.

In making these attacks the bulk of the battalion moved up towards Hill 114, whilst a small party worked down towards the trenches on the Cape Helles side of the landing-place.

Several land mines were exploded by the Turks during the advance. but the determination of the troops was in no way affected. By 10 A.M. three lines of hostile trenches were in our hands, and our hold on the beach was assured.

About 9-30 A.M more infantry had begun to disembark, and two hours later a junction was effected on Hill 114 with the troops who had landed on X beach *

On the right, owing to the strength of the redoubt on Hill 138, little progress could be made. The small party of Lancashire Fusiliers which had advanced in this direction succeeded in reaching the edge of the wire entanglements, but were not strong enough to do more, and it was here that Major Frankland, Brigade-Major of the 86th Infantry Brigade, who had gone forward to make a personal reconnaissance, was unfortunately killed. Brigadier-General Hare had been wounded earlier in the day, and Colonel Woolly-Dod, General Staff, 29th Division, was now sent ashore to take command at W beach* and organise a further advance.

At 2 P.M. after the ground near Hill 138 had been subjected to a heavy bombardment, the Worcester Regiment advanced to the assault. Several men of this battalion rushed forward with great spirit to cut passages through the entanglement ; some were killed, others persevered, and by 4 p.m. the hill and redoubt were captured.

An attempt was now made to join hands with the troops on V beach,* who could make no headway at all against the dominating defences of the enemy. To help them out, the 86th Brigade pushed forward in an easterly direction along the cliff. There is a limit however to the storming of barbed wire entanglements. More of these barred the way. Again the heroic wire-cutters came out. Through glasses they could be seen quitely snipping away under a hellish fire as if they were pruning a vineyard. Again some of them fell. The fire pouring out of No. 1 Fort grew hotter and hotter, until the troops, now thoroughly exhausted by a sleepless night and by the long day's fighting under a hot sun, had to rest on their laurels for a while.

When night fell, the British position in front of W beach* extended from just east of Cape Helles lighthouse, through Hill 138, to Hill 114. Practically every man had to be thrown into the trenches to hold this line, and the only available reserves on this part of our front were the 2nd London Field Company, R. E., and a platoon of the Anson Battalion, which had been landed as a beach working party.

During the night several strong and determined counter-attacks were made, all successfully repulsed without loss of ground. Meanwhile the disembarkation of the remainder of the division was proceeding on W and X beaches.*

The Australian and New Zealand Army Corps sailed out of Mudros Bay on the afternoon of April 24th, escorted by the 2nd Squadron of the Fleet, under Rear-Admiral Thursby. The rendezvous was reached just after half-past one in the morning of the 25th, and there the 1,500 men who had been placed on board H. M. ships before leaving Mudros were transferred to their boats. This operation was carried out with remarkable expedition, and in absolute silence. Simultaneously the remaining 2,500 men of the covering force were transferred from their transports to six destroyers. At 2-30 A.M. H. M. ships, together with the tows and the destroyers, proceeded to within some four miles of the coast, H. M. S. "Queen" (flying Rear-Admiral Thursby's flag) directing on a point about a mile north of Kaba Tepe. At 3-30 a.m. orders to go ahead and land were given to the tows, and at 4-10 A.M. the destroyers were ordered to follow.

All these arrangements worked without a hitch, and were carried out in complete orderliness and silence. No breath of wind ruffled the surface of the sea, and every condition was favourable save for the moon, which, sinking behind the ships, may have silhouetted them against its orb, betraying them thus to watchers on the shore.

A rugged and difficult part of the coast had been selected for the landing, so difficult and rugged that I considered the Turks were not at all likely to anticipate such a descent. Indeed, owing to the tows having failed to maintain their exact direction the actual point of disembarkation was rather more than a mile north of that which I had selected, and was more closely overhung by steeper cliffs. Although this accident increased the initial difficulty of driving the enemy off the heights inland, it has since proved itself to have been a blessing in disguise, inasmuch as the actual base of the force of occupation has been much better defiladed from shell fire.

The beach on which the landing was actually effected is a very narrow strip of sand, about 1,000 yards in length, bounded on the north and the south by two small promontories. At its southern extremity a deep ravine, with exceedingly steep, scrub-clad sides, runs inland in a north-easterly direction. Near the northern end of the beach a small but steep gully runs up into the hills at right angles to the shore. Between the ravine and the gully the whole of the beach is backed by the seaward face of the spur which forms the north-western side of the ravine. From the top of the spur the ground falls almost sheer, except near the southern limit of the beach, where gentler slopes give access to the mouth of the ravine behind. Further inland lie in a tangled knot the under-features of Saribair, separated by deep ravines which take a most confusing diversity of direction. Sharp spurs, covered with denese scrub and falling away in many places in precipitous sandy cliffs, radiate from the principal mass of the mountain, from which they run north-west, west, south-west, and south to the coast.

The boats approached the land in the silence and the darkness, and they were close to the shore before the enemy stirred. Then about one Battalion of Turks was seen running along the beach to intercept the lines of boats. At this so critical a moment the conduct of all ranks was most praiseworthy. Not a word was spoken—everyone remained perfectly orderly and quiet awaiting the enemy's fire, which sure enough opened, causing many casualties. The moment the boats touched land the Australian's turn had come. Like lightning they leapt ashore, and each man as he did so went straight as his bayonet at the enemy. So vigorous was the onslaught that the Turks made no attempt to withstand it and fled from ridge to ridge pursued by the Australian infantry.

This attack was carried out by the 3rd Australian Brigade, under Major (temporary Colonel) Sinclair Maclagan, D.S.O. The 1st and 2nd Brigades followed promptly, and were all disembarked by 2 P.M., by which time 12,000 men and two Batteries of Indian Mountain Artillery had been landed. The disembarkation of further artillery was delayed owing to the act that the enemy's heavy guns opened on the anchorage and forced the transports, which had been subjected to continuous shelling from his field guns, to stand further out to sea.

The broken ground, the thick scrub, the necessity for sending any formed detachments post haste as they landed to the critical point of the moment, the headlong valour of scattered groups of the men who had pressed far further into the peninsula than had been intended—all these led to confusion and mixing up of units. Eventually the mixed crowd of fighting men, some advancing from the beach, others falling back before the oncoming Turkish supports, solidified into a semi-circular position with its right about a mile north of Kaba Tepe and its left on the high ground over Fisherman's Hut. During this period parties of the 9th and 10th Battalions charged and put out of action three of the enemy's Krupp guns. During this period also the disembarkation of the Australian Division was being followed by that of the New Zealand and Australian Division (two brigades only).

From 11 A.M. to 3 P.M. the enemy, now reinforced to a strength of 20,000 men, attacked the whole line, making a specially strong effort against the 3rd Brigade and the left of the 2nd Brigade. This counter-attack was, however, handsomely repulsed with the help of the guns of H. M. ships. Between 5 and 6-30 P M. a third most determined counter-attack was made against the 3rd Brigade, who held their ground with more than equivalent stubbornness. During the night again the Turks made constant attacks, and the 8th Battalion repelled a bayonet charge; but in spite of all the line held firm. The troops had had practically no rest on the night of the 24-25th; they had been fighting hard all day over most difficult country, and they had been subjected to heavy shrapnel fire in the open. Their casualties had been deplorably heavy. But, despite their losses and in spite of their fatigue, the morning of the 26th found them still in good heart and as full of fight as ever.

It is a consolation to know that the Turks suffered still more seriously. Several times our machine guns got on to them in close formation, and the whole surrounding country is still strewn with their dead of this date.

The reorganisation of units and formations was impossible during the 26th and 27th owing to persistent attacks. An advance was impossible until a reorganisation could be effected, and it only remained to entrench the position gained and to perfect the arrangements for bringing up ammunition, water, and supplies to the ridges—in itself a most difficult undertaking. Four Battalions of the Royal Naval Division were sent up to reinforce the Army Corps on the 28th and 29th April.

On the night of May 2nd a bold effort was made to seize a commanding knoll in front of the centre of the line. The enemy's enfilading machine guns were too scientifically posted, and 800 men were lost without advantage beyond the infliction of a corresponding loss to the enemy. On May 4th an attempt to seize Kaba Tepe was also unsuccessful, the barbed-wire here being something beyond belief. But a number of minor operations have been carried out, such as the taking of a Turkish observing station; the strengthening of entrenchments; the reorganisation of units; and the perfecting of communication with the landing place. Also a constant strain has been placed upon some of the best troops of the enemy who, to the number of 24,000, are constantly kept fighting and being killed and wounded freely, as the Turkish sniper is no match for the Kangaroo shooter, even at his own game.

The assistance of the Royal Navy, here as elsewhere, has been invaluable. The whole of the arrangements have been in Admiral Thursby's hands, and I trust I may be permitted to say what a trusty and powerful friend he has proved himself to be to the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps.

Concurrently with the British landings a regiment of the French Corps was successfully disembarked at Kum Kale under the guns of the French fleet, and remained ashore till the morning of the 26th, when they were re-embarked. 500 prisoners were captured by the French on this day.

This operation drew the fire of the Asiatic guns from Morto Bay and V beach * on to Kum Kale, and contributed largely to the success of the British landings.

On the evening of the 26th the main disembarkation of the French Corps was begun, V beach* being allotted to our Allies for this purpose, and it was arranged that the French should hold the portion of the front between the telegraph wire and the sea.

The following day I ordered a general advance to a line streching from Hill 236 near Eski Hissarlik Point to the mouth of the stream two miles north of Tekke Burnu. This advance which was commenced at midday was completed without opposition, and the troops at once consolidated their new line. The forward movement relieved the growing congestion on the beaches, and by giving us possession of several new wells afforded a temporary solution to the water poblem, which had hitherto been causing me much anxiety.

By the evening of the 27th the Allied forces had established themselves on a line some three miles long, which streched from the mouth of the nullah, 3,200 yards north-east of Tekke Burnu, to Eski Hissarlik Point, the three Brigades of the 29th Division less two battalions on the left and in the centre, with four French Battalions on the right, and beyond them again the South Wales Borderers on the extreme right.

* In map (not reproduced).

Owing to casualties this line was somewhat thinly held. Still, it was so vital to make what headway we could before the enemy recovered himself and received fresh reinforcements, that it was decided to push on as quickly as possible. Orders were therefore issued for a general advance to commence at 8 A. M., next day.

The 29th Division were to march on Krithia, with their left brigade leading, the French were directed to extend their left in conformity with the British movements and to retain their right on the coast-line south of the Kereves Dere.

The advance commenced at 8 A.M. on the 28th, and was carried out with commendable vigour, despite the fact that from the moment of landing the troops had been unable to obtain any proper rest.

The 87th Brigade, with which had been incorporated the Drake Battalion, Royal Naval Division, in the place of the King's Own Scottish Borderers and South Wales Borderers, pushed on rapidly, and by 10 A.M., had advanced some two miles. Here the further progress of the Border Regiment was barred by a strong work on the left flank. They halted to concentrate and make dispositions to attack it, and at the moment had to withstand a determined counter-attack by the Turks. Aided by heavy gun fire from H. M. S. "Queen Elizabeth," they succeeded in beating off the attack, but they made no further progress that day and when night fell entrenched themselves on the ground they had gained in the morning.

The Inniskilling Fusiliers, who advanced with their right on the Krithia ravine, reached a point about three-quarters of a mile south-west of Krithia. This was, however, the farthest limit attained, and later on in the day they fell back into line with other corps.

The 88th Brigade on the right of the 87th progressed steadily until about 11-30 A.M., when the stubbornness of the opposition, coupled with a dearth of ammunition, brought their advance to a standstill. The 86th Brigade, under Lieutenant-Colonel Casson, which had been held in reserve, were thereupon ordered to push forward through the 88th Brigade in the direction of Krithia.

The movement commenced at about 1 P.M., but though small reconnoitring parties got to within a few hundred yards of Krithia, the main body of the brigade did not get beyond the line held by the 88th Brigade. Meanwhile, the French had also pushed on in the face of strong opposition along the spurs on the western bank of Kereves Dere, and had got to within a mile off Krithia with their right thrown back and their left in touch with the 88th Brigade. Here they were unable to make further progress; gradually the strength of the resistance made itself felt, and our Allies were forced during the afternoon to give ground.

By 2 P.M, the whole of the troops with the exception of the Drake Battalion had been absorbed into the firing line. The men were exhausted, and the few guns landed at the time were unable to afford them adequate artillery support. The small amount of transport available did not suffice to maintain the supply of munitions, and cartridges were running short despite all efforts to push them up from the landing places.

Hopes of getting a footing on Achi Babi had now perforce to be abandoned—at least for this occasion. The best that could be expected was that we should be able to maintain what we had won and when at 3 P.M., the Turks made a determined counter-attack with the bayonet against the centre and right of our line, even this seemed exceedingly doubtful. Actually a partial retirement did take place. The French were also forced back, and at 6 P.M., orders were issued for our troops to entrench themselves as best as they could in the positions they then held, with their right flank thrown back so as to maintain connection with our Allies. In this retirement the right flank of the 88th Bridade was temporarily uncovered and the Worcester Regiment suffered severely.

Had it been possible to push in reinforcements in men, artillery and munitions during the day, Krithia should have fallen, and much subsequent fighting for its capture would have been avoided.

Two days later this would have been feasible, but I had to reckon with the certainty that the enemy would, in that same time, have received proportionately greater support. I was faced by the usual choice of evils, and although the result was not what I had hoped, I have no reason to believe that hesitation and delay would better have answered my purpose.

For, after all, we had pushed forward quite appreciably on the whole. The line eventually held by our troops on the night of the 28th ran from a point on the coast three miles north-west of Tekke Burnu to a point one mile north of Eski Hissarlik, whence it was continued by the French south-east to the coast.

Much inevitable mixing of units of the 86th and 88th Brigades had occurred during the day's fighting, and there was a dangerous re-entrant in the line at the junction of the 87th and 88th Brigades near the Krithia nullah. The French had lost heavily, especially in officers, and required time to re-organise.

The 29th April was consequently spent in straightening the line, and in consolidating and strengthening the positions gained. There was a certain amount of artillery and musketry fire, but nothing serious.

Similarly, on the 30th, no advance was made, nor was any attack delivered by the enemy. The landing of the bulk of the artillery was completed, and a readjustment of the line took place, the portion held by the French being somewhat increased.

Two more Battalions of the Royal Naval Division has been disembarked, and these, together with three Battalions of the 88th Brigade withdrawn from the line, were formed into a reserve.

This reserve was increased on the 1st May by the addition of the 29th Indian Infantry Brigade, which released the three Battalions of the 88th Brigade to return to the trenches The Corps Expéditionnaire d'Orient had disembarked the whole of their infantry and all but two of their batteries by the same evening.

At 10 P.M. the Turks opened a hot shell fire upon our position, and half an hour later, just before the rise of the moon, they delivered a series of desperate attacks. Their formation was in three solid lines, the men in the front rank being deprived of ammunition to make them rely only upon the bayonet. The officers were served out with coloured Bengal lights to fire from their pistols, red indicating to the Turkish guns that they were to lengthen their range; white that our front trenches had been stormed; green that our main position had been carried. The Turkish attack was to crawl on hands and knees until the time came for the final rush to be made.

The first momentum of this ponderous onslaught fell upon the right of the 86th Brigade, an unlucky spot, seeing all the officers thereabouts had already been killed or wounded. So when the Turks came right on without firing and charged into the trenches with the bayonet they made an ugly gap in the line. This gap was instantly filled by the 5th Royal Scots (Territorials), who faced to their flank and executed a brilliant bayonet charge against the enemy, and by the Essex Regiment detached for the purpose by the Officer Commanding 88th Brigade. The rest of the British line held its own with comparative ease, and it was not found necessary to employ any portion of the reserve. The storm next broke in fullest violence against the French left, which was held by the Senegalese. Behind them were two British Field Artillery Brigades and a Howitzer Battery. After several charges and counter-charges the Senegalese began to give ground and a company of the Worcester Regiment and some gunners were sent forward to hold the gap. Later, a second company of the Worcester Regiment was also sent up, and the position was then maintained for the remainder of the night, although, about 2 A.M., it was found necessary to despatch one Battalion Royal Naval Division to strengthen the extreme right of the French.

About 5 A.M. a counter-offensive was ordered, and the whole line began to advance. By 7-30 A.M. the British left had gained some 500 yards, and the centre had pushed the enemy back and inflicted heavy losses. The right also had gained some ground in conjunction with the French left, but the remainder of the French line was unable to progress. As the British centre and left were now subjected to heavy cross fire from concealed machine guns, it was found impossible to maintain the ground gained, and therefore, about 11 A.M., the whole line withdrew to its former trenches.

The net result of the operations was the repulse of the Turks and the infliction upon them of very heavy losses. At first we had them fairly on the run, and had it not been for those inventions of the devil—machine guns and barbed wire—which suit the Turkish character and tactics to perfection, we should not have stopped short of the crest of Achi Babi. As it was, all brigades reported great numbers of dead Turks in front of their lines, and 350 prisoners were left in our hands.

On the 2nd, during the day, the enemy remained quiet, burying his dead under a red crescent flag, a work with which we did not interfere.

Shortly after 9 P.M., however, they made another attack against the whole allied line, their chief effort being made against the French front, where the ground favoured their approach. The attack was repulsed with loss.

During the night 3rd-4th the French front was again subjected to a heavy attack, which they were able to repulse without assistance from my general reserve.

The day of the 4th was spent in reorganisation, and a portion of the line held by the French, who had lost heavily during the previous night's fighting, was taken over by the 2nd Naval Brigade. The night passed quietly.

During the 5th the Lancashire Fusilier Brigade of the East Lancashire Division was disembarked and placed in reserve behind the British left.

Orders were issued for an advance to be carried out next day, and these and the three days' battle which ensued, will be dealt with in my next despatch.

The losses, exclusive of the French, during the period covered by this despatch were, I regret to say, very severe, numbering :—

177 Officers and 1,990 other ranks killed,
412 Officers and 7,807 other ranks wounded,
13 Officers and 3,580 other ranks missing.

From a technical point of view it is interesting to note that my Administrative Staff had not reached Mudros by the time when the landing were finally arranged. All the highly elaborate work involved by these landings was put through by my General Staff working in collaboration with Commodore Roger Kayes, C.B., M.V.O., and the Naval Transport Officers allotted for the purpose by Vice-Admiral de Robeck. Navy and Army carried out these combined duties with that perfect harmony which was indeed absolutely essential to success.

Throughout the events I have chronicled the Royal Navy has been father and mother to the Army. Not one of us but realises how much he owes to Vice-Admiral de Robeck; to the warships, French and British; to the destroyers, mine sweepers, picket boats, and to all their dauntless crews, who took no thought of themselves, but risked everything to give their soldier comrades a fair run in at the enemy.

Throughout these preparations and operations Monsieur le Général d' Amade has given me the benefit of his wide experiences of war, and has afforded me, always, the most loyal and energetic support. The landing of Kum Kale planned by me as a mere diversion to distract the attention of the enemy was transformed by the Commander of the Corps Expenditionnaire de l'Orient into a brilliant operation, which secured some substantial results. During the fighting which followed the landing of the French Division at Sedd-el-Bahr no troops could have acquitted themselves more creditably under very trying circumstances, and under very heavy losses, than those working under the orders of Monsieur le Général d' Amade.

Lieutenant-General Sir W. R. Birdwood, K.C.S.I., C.B., C.I.E., D.S.O., was in command of the detached landing of the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps above Kaba Tepe, as well as during the subsequent fighting. The fact of his having been responsible for the execution of these difficult and hazardous operations—operations which were crowned with a very remarkable success—speaks, I think, for itself.

Major-General A. G. Hunter-Weston, C.B., D.S.O., was tried very highly not only during the landings, but more especially in the day and night attacks and counter-attacks which ensued. Untiring, resourceful and even more cheerful as the outlook (on occasion) grew darker, he possesses, in my opinion, very special qualifications as a Commander of troops in the field.

Major-General W. P. Braithwaite, C.B., is the best Chief of the General Staff it has ever been my fortune to encounter in war. I will not pile epithets upon him. I can say no more than what I have said, and I can certainly say, no less.

I have many other names to bring to notice for the period under review, and these will form the subject of a separate report at an early date.

I have the honour to be,

Your Lordship's most obedient Servant,

IAN HAMILTON, General,

RESOLUTION.

AT a meeting of the Imperial Legislative Council held on the 24th of January 1914, the Hon'ble Mr. Rama Rayaningar moved a Resolution recommending that local Governments should be consulted as to the desirability of establishing Advisory Boards composed of non-official gentlemen nominated by the revenue heads of districts to assist officials in assessing income-tax. After some discussion, in the course of which certain prima facie objections to the policy advocated by the Hon'ble Mover were stated, the Resolution was accepted on the ground that it was advisable to consult local Governments and through them public opinion as to the practicability and expediency of adopting the proposed method of assessment.

2. The Government of India have now received the views of all local Governments and Administrations on the subject, and it is found that the proposal has been widely canvassed and unhesitatingly condemned by practically all who were consulted. The general conclusion arrived at is that the creation of formal Advisory Boards would not improve the accuracy of assessment and would tend to make the tax more unpopular.

3. The objections advanced by local Governments and the public bodies and individuals whom they consulted confirm generally the criticism to which the proposal was subjected in the discussion in the Imperial Legislative Council. The more important arguments are summarised below:—

I. It is widely felt that business men would have the strongest objection to the disclosure of their accounts, and consequently of important information regarding their financial credit and methods of business, to a Board composed of their neighbours and possibly including trade rivals. It is an accepted principle of Income Tax law that information of this kind, while necessary for purposes of assessment, should be regarded as absolutely confidential as between the State and the tax-payer, and the maintenance of this principle would be seriously endangered by the proposed system of assessment.

II. The principal utility of the proposed Boards would by hypothesis lie in their local and personal knowledge. It would therefore be necessary to appoint a special Board in each area of assessment and the authorities consulted anticipate the utmost difficulty in obtaining men possessing the requisite standing and sense of public responsibility. This difficulty would be specially great in rural areas. It is also urged that apart from other considerations the frequent prevalence of local factions would enhance the difficulty of securing a Board which would command the confidence both of Government and the assessees.

III. The proposed Advisory Boards would be exposed to conflicting influences, the sense of their duty to Government on the one hand and, on the other, pressure implied or expressed on the part of the assessees, with many of whom they would necessarily have some personal or business relations. The position would be most difficult to sustain, and it is generally believed that qualified men would be reluctant to undertake the task.

IV It is represented that private individuals are often found by experience to be unwilling to take the responsibility of tendering advice in a formal and public way, and that influential and representative citizens who may at present be relied upon to give the Collector of Income-tax the benefit of their personal knowledge would thus be of diminished utility if identified with membership of an official committee.

V. The introduction of Advisory Boards would tend to weaken the sense of responsibility of the official Income-tax Collector. The duties which he performs are necessarily of an inquisitorial and somewhat distasteful nature, and it would not be an altogether unnatural result if he should display a tendency to throw as much responsibility as possible on the shoulders of the Advisory Boards.

4. These opinions appear to the Government of India to be conclusive, and they do not therefore propose to take any further steps in the direction of requiring local Governments to constitute formal Advisory Boards for the assessment of the tax.

5. The Government of India, however, do not desire to interfere with the existing practice by which non-official agency is widely employed in an informal manner in connection with income-tax assessments. It appears from the recent correspondence with local Governments that in every province the assessing officer is required to seek information from persons likely to be acquainted with the circumstances of those already on the assessment roll, or who might be brought on it. In towns municipal commissioners and leading representatives of the different communities and of commercial and industrial interests are consulted; and in rural areas headmen, ziladars, and village panchayats where these exist. In one or two provinces small committees consisting of influential citizens, representative traders and manufacturers, are informally associated with Government officials in the work of assessment. The information thus collected is recorded confidentially by the Government assessing officer, and a further feature of the arrangements generally obtaining is that in each case efforts are made to obtain information from a number of independent sources with the object of correcting or eliminating as far as possible biassed or inaccurate statements. Or, again, where questions of accounts are concerned, the assessee may be permitted, if he so desires, to have his books examined by a non-official commission and care is taken to select for such commissions gentlemen well qualified by their knowledge of business, their familiarity with systems of accounts and by a reputation for trustworthiness.

These expedients are legitimate and suitable, and it is understood that they have proved of material assistance in the work of assessing the tax. The matter, however, is one with which Provincial Governments are competent to deal, and it is unnecessary for the Government of India to do more than indicate their general approval of the methods employed, leaving it to local Governments to maintain and develop the existing procedure on practical lines suited to the varying circumstances of the communities with whom the assessing officer has to deal.

ORDERED that the Resolution be communicated to all local Governments and Administrations (except Baluchistan) and to all Chambers of Commerce, for information.

Ordered also that it be published in the Gazette of India.

PROSPECTUS OF THE GOVERNMENT COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE.

THE Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta, affords a training of a practical and businesslike character, well up to date and capable of direct application to the commerce and trade of the city. It is neither a business college in which the academic element exceeds the vocational in relative importance nor a secondary school of commerce, but a higher school of commerce in which the vocational element predominates but in a liberal manner.

2. There is a specialised Day Course extending over two years, ending in the Commercial Course Final Examination. Provision is also made for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures on Advanced Book-keeping, high speed in Shorthand and Typewriting, Political Economy, Mercantile Law, Annuities and Insurance, Banking and Currency, and Accountancy, ending annually in Special Examinations in each of the subjects. These lectures are intended to give persons already employed in business a chance of improving their efficiency as first-rate Shorthand-writers, Typists, Book-keepers, or Auditors, and of gaining an intelligent insight into the economical, financial and legal principles on which commerce is based.

3. The aim of the Institute is to turn out a type of young man who, if he has received a thorough grounding in the ordinary school subjects, especially in English, has the makings of a useful assistant either in commercial or in Government offices, and who, if he is willing to avail himself of the facilities offered for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures, may become well equipped to be a businessman.

THE DAY COURSE.

4. There are two day classes—a first-year class and a second-year class. Papers are now before the Government proposing the following course of study, which, if sanctioned, will be introduced for the coming session :*—

COMPULSORY SUBJECTS.	OPTIONAL SUBJECTS.
(1) Modern English, and especially English correspondence, including commercial correspondence, letter drafting and précis-writing.	(1) Shorthand.
(2) Arithmetic, including commercial and mental arithmetic.	(2) Typewriting.
(3) An Indian Vernacular, such as Bengali, Hindi, Urdu, Uriya, &c.	(The marks obtained in optional subjects will count towards scholarships, a class, or a mark of distinction.)
(A special paper for Anglo-Indian candidates.)
(4) Commercial Geography.
(5) Book-keeping.

* Note—The course of study has hitherto been as follows :—

(1) Modern English, and especially English correspondence, including commercial correspondence, letter drafting and précis-writing.

(2) Arithmetic including commercial and mental arithmetic.

(3) One of the following languages, namely, Bengali, Hindi, Urdu, Uriya, French, German or Latin.

(4) One of the following subjects, namely, book-keeping, shorthand-writing or typewriting.

(5) Commercial Geography.

English.—The English teaching is as severely practical as it can be made. In the first-year class, the students regularly practise dictation and essay-writing. They also practise writing easy letters, both official and business, as between a private man and a firm, and making index and précis of such letters.

In the second-year class they study the advanced stages of Commercial Practice or Business Methods and are drilled constantly to work out complete transactions, enabling them to appreciate not only the exact relation which one item bears to another but also the place of each in the completed whole, the transactions given in outline furnishing material for unaided work on the part of the students. They now practise making index and continuous précis, not only of all the series of letters arising in the transactions given but also of longer official letters and their replies from such bodies as Chambers of Commerce and other Associations. Their papers are corrected and returned soon after they are submitted. No text-books being prescribed, the students are under no temptation to cram, their capacity to write simple correct English with perspicuity and brevity thus developing under careful guidance.

Modern Bengali, including Bengali commercial correspondence, etc.—In Bengali "Kapalkundala" by Bankim Chandra Chatterjea is prescribed as a text-book affording a model for style and diction. Besides this language work, practices and principles obtaining in the commercial transactions covering different branches are also taught in Bengali, giving the Bengali students a further opportunity to learn them and to practise drafting business letters in their mother-tongue. They are required also to make index and précis, in Bengali, of commercial letters.

In order that they may be able to express themselves clearly and accurately in Bengali and in English and with a view more effectively to supplement the practical teaching in English, special attention is paid to translation of passages from English into Bengali and retranslation after some time has elapsed, and vice versa.

Commercial Geography.—The course in Commercial Geography deals specially with the relations of cause and effect that hold good between the general principles of geography and the occurrence, production, and exchange of commodities. It also deals in an elementary way with the history of commodities.

The Commercial Geography text-books used are "Commercial Geography of the World" by A. J. Herbertson, "A Short Commercial Geography" by L. W. Lyde, "Elementary Commercial Geography" by H. R. Mill, "A School Economic Atlas" by J. G. Bartholomew, and "A New Geography of the Indian Empire and Ceylon" by Morrison.

Commercial and Mental Arithmetic.—In Arithmetic the students are taught addition, subtraction, multiplication and division—simple and compound; approximation in multiplication and division; G. C. M. and L. C. M.; fractions—vulgar and decimal; practice; proportion—simple and compound (i.e., simple rule of three and double rule of three); the metric system; percentages, commission, etc.; proportional division; profit and loss; mixtures; interest—simple and compound; present worth and discount; stocks and shares; exchange—chain rule; square root. Grant and Hill's "Commercial Arithmetic" and "Mental Arithmetic" are used.

Shorthand.—During the first-year of the course the students are thoroughly grounded in the theory of Pitman's Shorthand and are expected to attain a speed of 50 words per minute at the end of the year. "Pitman's Shorthand Instructor" (centenary edition) is the text-book used. Throughout the second-year they practise speed. The minimum speed sought to be attained is 80 words per minute. The best students are found to attain a speed of 120 words a minute. In the Final Examination speed tests are held at 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute.

Typewriting.—The "Touch" system of Typewriting is carefully taught from the beginning. No particular text-book is used. The students are required to attain a minimum speed of 30 words per minute at the end of the two years' course. The maximum speed prescribed for the examination, is 55 words per minute. The intermediate standard of speed test is 40 words per minute. There is also a tabulating examination corresponding to each speed test.

Book-keeping.—The full course of the Day classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in the elementary stage. It is expected that a student shall have already received a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic. A Double Entry system is taught with simple accounts and commercial transactions. Students are taught to open and keep the following books: Purchase Day Book, Sales Day Book, Cash Book, Bill Book, Journal, and Ledger. Instruction is also given in making entries for outgoing and incoming single consignments. In connection with these books instruction is given in Trial Balance and the preparation of Profit and Loss Accounts and Balance Sheets.

5. Fee.—The students pay an admission fee of Rs. 3. The monthly tuition fee is Rs. 3. The text-books which the students have to buy cost about Rs. 16.

6. Attendance.—The classes are held between 11 A.M. and 4 P.M. except on Saturdays, when they are held between 11 A.M. and 2 P.M. Students of typewriting are allowed to stay later for extra practice.

7. Session.—The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the end of April. The usual Autumn and Christmas holidays are given.

8. Standard of admission.—Candidates who have passed the Matriculation examination are eligible for admission. Others are admitted, provided they satisfy the Education Department, by passing a preliminary test examination of a similar standard, that they have sufficient general education to enable them to derive advantage from the teaching. Graduates and Intermediates may be admitted in the second year class provided they have sufficient knowledge in Book-keeping.

Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal before the end of June.

THE EVENING COURSE.

The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the middle of April.

9. Evening classes.—If a sufficient number of students join, evening classes will be formed for the following subjects: Shorthand-writing, Typewriting, Book-keeping, Accountancy and Auditing, Political Economy, Annuities and Insurance, Mercantile Law, Modern English, and Banking and Currency. Fees are paid according to the number of lectures delivered in each subject. Classes were formed last year in all the subjects except Political Economy and Modern English. A student may be a member of one or more classes at his option.

10. Accountancy and Auditing.—A new class will be commenced this year to prepare candidates for the Government Examination in Auditing. It has been proposed to hold examinations for a Diploma in Accountancy in Bombay and other centres, but the question has not been finally settled.

11. Shorthand.—Students are admitted in July and also in December every year. The examination is held in April. For the session July to November the fee is Rs. 12, payable in four instalments of Rs. 3 each. Only those having a minimum speed of 60 words per minute are admitted in July. For the session December to mid-April, the fee is Rs. 16, payable in four instalments of Rs. 4 each. Those having a speed of 80 words a minute or more are admitted in December. Speed classes are so held as to enable a student to attain any of the four grades of speed required for the Special Examination, viz., 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute. There is no Theory class in the evening. The class sits at 6 P.M. daily (except on Saturdays and holidays).

12. Typewriting.—Beginners are admitted in July. They are carefully taught the "Touch" system. Advanced students are also admitted in this session. In December, only students having a speed of at least 20 words per minute are admitted. No beginner can join this session. By mid-April, when the examination is held, the minimum speed sought to be attained is 35 words per minute and the maximum is 60 words per minute. There is an intermediate speed test at 45 words per minute. For each of the three speed tests there is a corresponding accuracy test in tabulating, which is carefully taught. The fee is the same as that of the Shorthand class ; but a reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student, who is simultaneously a member of both the Shorthand and Typewriting classes, is granted, and the same reduction per instalment of each of the three fees payable is made when a student is simultaneously a member of three classes, viz., Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping. The Typewriting class is divided into two groups, the first of which practise from 5 to 6-30 P.M. and the second from 6-30 to 8 P.M. (except on Saturdays and holidays).

13. Book-keeping.—The full course of the evening classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in two stages—the Elementary and the Advanced. Preparatory to the Elementary work it is expected that a student shall have a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic—

(a) The first-year class ends with the Special Examination in Elementary Book-keeping.

(b) In the second-year class, ending in the Special Examination in Advanced Book-keeping, the course includes matters as under :—

In the advanced stage there is considered the nature of capital, whether as money or property, stocks, shares, classification of capital, revenue accounts, the use of departmental ledgers, also the establishment and recoupment of sinking funds, investment accounts, public, railway, gas and water companies' accounts. Joint-stock companies' accounts are dealt with completely. Instruction is also given in joint consignments, partnerships, contracts, etc. The nature and purposes of allowances to be made for depreciation in value of property are also made clear.

The fee for the elementary Book-keeping class is Rs. 24, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 3 each, and that of the advanced Book-keeping class is Rs. 32, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 4 each. A reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of two of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting, or Book-keeping will be granted, and the same reduction is granted per instalment of each of the three fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of three of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping.

14. Standard of admission.—Candidates who have attended the lectures in the day course will be eligible for admission to the evening course. Others will be admitted, provided they appear qualified for the class or classes they seek to join. Candidates for admission to Typewriting and the first-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient general education. Candidates for admission to the Shorthand and the second-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient knowledge of Shorthand or Book-keeping, as the case may be.

15. Examinations and certificates.—The following examinations will be held annually in April :—

(1) The Commercial Course Final Examination.
(2) A special Examination in Mercantile Law.
(3) Ditto ditto Banking and Currency.
(4) Ditto ditto Outline of Political Economy.
(5) Ditto ditto Annuities and Insurance.
(6) Ditto ditto Modern English.
(7) Ditto ditto Book-keeping (Elementary).
(8) Ditto ditto Book-keeping (Advanced).
(9) Ditto ditto Shorthand-writing.
(10) Ditto ditto Typewriting.

The fee is Rs. 5 for each Special Examination and Rs. 8 for the Final Examination. The Commercial Course Final Examination at the end of the two years' Day course and the Commercial Course Special Examinations in each of the subjects specified for evening lectures at the end of each year are controlled by the Commercial Course Advisory and Examination Board, a body consisting of educational officers and gentlemen engaged in commerce in Calcutta. On the results of these examinations certificates are granted by the Education Department, these certificates being endorsed by the Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce, which body, as also the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce, have undertaken to publish the list of the successful candidates.

16. Scholarships.—Three scholarships of Rs. 12 each per mensem, tenable for one year, will be awarded to those among the students admitted in the first-year Day class in the Government Commercial Institute who have secured the highest number of marks in English in the Matriculation examination of the Calcutta University, and three scholarships of Rs. 20 each per mensem, tenable for one year, will be awarded to the students of the second-year Day class who will obtain the highest total number of marks at a preliminary examination to be held at the end of the first year for the purpose of awarding the scholarships and determining promotion. Holders of junior and senior University Scholarships are not eligible for these scholarships.

Prizes.—First and second prizes of Rs. 75 and Rs. 50 respectively will be offered by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce for competition by the students of the Day class and another prize of Rs. 50 will be offered by the same body for competition among the students of the Evening classes in each of the following subjects :—

Mercantile Law. Banking and Currency, Annuities and Insurance, Political Economy. Modern English, Shorthand and Advanced Book-keeping.

Three prizes are offered by the Remington Typewriter Company to be awarded to the three students of the Institute obtaining the highest marks for efficiency in Typewriting.

17. Prospects of passed students.—345 students have been successful in the Final and Special Examinations. All of these are now employed in various offices. both mercantile and Government. A good many of them, viz., those that had joined either the Day or Evening classes with a tolerably fair grounding in English and could therefore make the best use of the training received here, have risen above the level of ordinary clerks and are now drawing from Rs. 60 to Rs. 120. Some of them are reported to be shaping very well in their respective spheres, and are receiving rapid promotion. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce has issued a circular letter containing a request to its members to make it a rule to take the passed students of the Day classes, whenever possible, in preference to other clerks, and the Advisory Board has recommended that the Government should pass orders that one-third of the vacancies in the Secretariat Clerical Services (Lower grade) every year should be reserved for our successful candidates in the Final examination. The matter has been sent up for the consideration of Government.

Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal before the end of June.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 23rd August 1915.

Summary.—During the week under review seasonable rain fell generally throughout the province. The recent rainfall has greatly helped the transplanting of winter paddy and has somewhat improved the prospects of standing crops in the West Bengal districts. More rain is still wanted. The transplanting of winter paddy and harvesting of bhadoi crops are in progress. The damage to the standing crops by floods continues to be reported from some Eastern districts. Fodder is getting scarce in parts of Dacca, Mymensingh and Tippera. Cattle-disease is reported from ten districts. Scarcity still prevails in some parts of Tippera. The average price of common rice for the province has risen by about 1·6 per cent., as compared with that of the previous week.
